

Save
London $32
Paris, Cas $40
Madrid $35
Geneva $30
Rome $45
Athens $40
Rome $40

The News to Print

The New York Times

LATE CITY EDITION

Weather: Sunny and mild today;
fair tonight. Sunny tomorrow.
Temperature range: today 59-78.
Sunday 72-88. Details on page 43.

No. 43,318 © 1976 The New York Times Company NEW YORK, MONDAY, AUGUST 30, 1976 20 CENTS

At Yellowstone Park, near Old Faithful

FORD, IN REVERSAL, TO ASK $1.5 BILLION TO EXPAND PARKS

At Yellowstone, He Outlines a 10-Year Plan for New Lands and Personnel

By JAMES M. NAUGHTON
Special to The New York Times
OLD FAITHFUL, Wyo., Aug. 29—President Ford, altering Administration policy, proposed today that Congress spend $1.5 billion over the next decade to expand the nation's public parklands.

Returning to the Old Faithful geyser in Yellowstone National Park, where he worked as a park ranger 40 years ago, the President outlined a park acquisition and development program that he called a "bicentennial birthday present" to future generations.

As if on cue, the geyser spewed a plume of white hot water and steam 100 feet in the air, directly behind Mr. Ford, as he addressed 6,000 ecologists and tourists.

The President's voice broke twice with emotion as he recalled his youth as "Ranger Ford."

"I want to be as faithful to my grandchildren's generation as Old Faithful has been to ours," he said, the geyser still bubbling 100 yards away.

Recreation Proposal

Although the White House characterized Mr. Ford's visit here today as nonpolitical, the proposal the President announced focused on one of the five elements he cited three days ago as staples in a "quality of life" theme for his presidential campaign.

Mr. Ford said Thursday in Vail, Colo., that he and Senator Robert J. Dole, the Republican nominee for Vice President, would offer the voters assurance of jobs, housing, health care, crime control and improved recreation facilities.

The $1.5 billion Bicentennial Land Heritage Act that Mr. Ford outlined briefly here today was clearly the basis for a campaign recreation proposal.

Will Ask Congress

He said he would ask Congress on Tuesday to provide $141 million to accelerate acquisition of national parks and wildlife refuges, $700 million to develop new and existing park facilities, $459 million to pay salaries of existing and 1,500 new park personnel, and $200 million to increase development of park in urban areas.

The proposal represented a reversal of Mr. Ford's previous ban on programs requiring new Federal funds, and his request for an enlarged force of park and wildlife officers went counter to his avowed aim of reducing the size of the Federal bureaucracy.

"This initial commitment may mean we will have to trim some waste and tighten our belts elsewhere," Mr. Ford said.

Continued on Page 9, Column 1

Senator Frank E. Moss, disguised as a workman, leaves the East Harlem Medical Center at 145 East 116th Street in Manhattan carrying a bag with drugs prescribed for an ailment he faked. Patricia G. Oriol, an aide, is with him.

U.S. FINDS TAIWAN DEVELOPS A-FUEL

Officials Say the Processing of Plutonium Will Give It Capacity to Build A-Bomb

By DAVID BINDER
Special to The New York Times
WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—Taiwan is developing the capacity to create an atomic bomb one day as a result of a new program there to reprocess spent nuclear reactor fuel, United States officials said today.

They made the assertion in confirming a series of reports assembled by the Central Intelligence Agency that Taiwan had recently begun reprocessing of the fuel to acquire a stockpile of plutonium. The plutonium could be used to make nuclear weapons.

The Administration officials said they had been unable to determine whether Taiwan's reprocessing action was in contravention of a triangular agreement between the United States, Taiwan and the International Atomic Energy Agency.

[In Taipei, a high official denied that Taiwan was reprocessing spent uranium fuel for possible use in producing nuclear weapons. He said, however, that a laboratory was being constructed there that would be able to reprocess a "tiny amount," but strictly for research purposes.]

Taiwan was a member of the Vienna-based atomic agency until 1972, when it was ousted in the struggle to accredit China in its place in the United Nations. But Taiwan continues to submit to inspections by the agency.

Taiwan also ratified the treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

Continued on Page 26, Column 1

Senator Moss, Posing as Ragged Patient, Sees Medicaid Abuse in New York City

His workman's clothes shabby and rumpled, his scuffed shoes bursting at the seams, a United States Senator masqueraded as a patient and helped to document what his committee says was massive waste and mismanagement in New York City's huge Medicaid program.

The Senator, Frank E. Moss, Democrat of Utah, who is chairman of the Subcommittee on Long-Term Care, got a Medicaid card and visited the East Harlem Medical Center at 145 East 116th Street.

Although he had been pronounced in perfect health a month before, he was given a costly series of tests at the East Harlem center, and told to come back the next day for more. His experience helped to fill out the subcommittee's report, which said that fraudulent practices and use by ineligible persons of the New York Medicaid program had wasted millions of dollars during a decade when the city was sinking into the fiscal crisis that overwhelmed it in 1975.

The report added that the depth of mismanagement of the Medicaid program was "astounding," that the administrative deficiencies were continuing although they had been detailed in more than 100 other reports in the last 10 years, and it criticized the administration of former Mayor John V. Lindsay as having allowed the misuse of Federal, state and city spending on the program to run out of control.

Others Visited Centers

The report was drawn not on the basis of paper examination alone. Other Senate staff members became Medicaid "patients" and visited Medicaid centers in New York for treatment, too.

The report etched a picture of mismanagement of Medicaid in New York City at all levels of government—particularly municipal—that had led to the draining off in the last decade of enormous sums of money, which were spent on unnecessary and even fraudulent health care rather than being invested in either other vital municipal services or in holding down the city's budget deficits, which have accumulated to about $3 billion during the life of the two health-care programs.

About $2.5 billion a year now is spent on Medicaid in New York City—about 10 times the cost of the program when it first started. The city's share of the total outlays is 25 percent, or about $600 million. Of this amount about half was estimated to be wasted through use of the program by persons ineligible for benefits, as well as through abuses by the providers of services.

Widespread cheating and outright fraud resulting in a continuing loss to the city, now estimated at $395 million a year, are detailed in the 285-page report of the Subcommittee on Long-Term Care of the Special Senate Committee on Aging.

The report, "Fraud and Abuse Among Practitioners

Continued on Page 14, Column 5

FRAUD AND WASTE IN MEDICAID FOUND IN SENATE REPORT

Inquiry Shows Over Fourth of $15 Billion a Year Lost by Error and Abuse

8 CITIES INVESTIGATED

Federal Action Demanded to Correct Administration at All Government Levels

By RICHARD D. LYONS
Special to The New York Times
WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—A Senate investigation of the 10-year-old Medicaid program in eight cities has found rampant abuse by both providers of health services and recipients, and has determined that Federal action is needed to correct what was termed the program's "abysmal" administration at all levels of government.

Investigators for the Subcommittee on Long-Term Care of the Senate Special Committee on Aging estimated, in a report to be made public tomorrow, that from a quarter to as much as a half of the $15 billion a year being spent on the health program was being wasted through fraud, poor quality of care and the provision of services to ineligible persons.

'Rampant Fraud and Abuse'

The estimate stemmed from a four-month study of the operation of Medicaid in New York, Newark, Passaic, N.J., Paterson, N.J., Chicago, Detroit, Los Angeles and Oakland, Calif.

The subcommittee's report stated: "Based on the findings of this investigation, committee staff and investigators conclude that rampant fraud and abuse exists among practitioners participating in the Medicaid program, matched by an equivalent degree of error and maladministration by government agencies."

Medicaid, which was enacted in 1965, went into operation in 1966. It was intended to provide health care, including medical services, hospitalization and dental, podiatric and optometric treatment, for citizens too poor to pay for it. More than 20 million Americans are now theoretically eligible for benefits.

Costs $15 Billion

The program uses a mix of Federal, state and municipal funds to underwrite its costs, which have risen from $1.5 billion in 1966 to $15 billion today.

Medicare is available to all citizens 65 and older, regardless of income level. It is often confused with, but unrelated to, Medicaid, a Federal-state program that provides cash assistance payments to the aged, blind and disabled who are defined as medically needy.

This definition varies from state to state. In New York, for example, a family of four qualifies for Medicaid if its income is $5,000 or less and its assets (excluding equity in a home) are $4,500 or less.

Mindful of the vast increase in cost, as well as widespread reports of misuse of Medicaid, the subcommittee will open hearings here tomorrow aimed at determining the courses of action open to the Federal Government.

Continued on Page 14, Column 6

fluence on Iran: tic and Diverse

By ERIC PACE
Special to The New York Times
Aug. 29—United States Senate staff study published Aug. 2. It said Iran had been chaotic and were "not yet fully under control." It also reported that some overly sophisticated equipment had been sold, that numerous United States military experts might be needed here for years, and that Iran could not wage full-scale war in the near future "without U.S. support on a day-to-day basis."

A traveler in Iran sees and hears much that confirms the report's main points. Signs of overheating in military sales to the kingdom have been particularly evident where training is involved: there is a shortage of skilled Iranian pilots to fly

Continued on Page 9, Column 1

Community Gives Israel ite on Its Frontiers

By WILLIAM E. FARRELL
Special to The New York Times
Aug. 29—Is-agreement have met with some criticism here.

The other day, Ariel Sharon, a right-wing reserve general, asserted that Egyptian violations of the agreement were "constant and serious" and that the Israeli Government was "letting again becoming a prisoner of an erroneous conception of Egyptian intentions as before the Yom Kippur war, or it was simply not telling the truth."

General Sharon was criticized

Continued on Page 3, Column 1

Big Stores Joining in Sunday Retailing

By ISADORE BARMASH
Sunday shopping on a mass basis came to New York City and the metropolitan area yesterday when four of the largest retailers opened their doors, most of them for the first time, on Sunday. The joint effort drew many residents and tourists and brought the participation of scores of smaller retailers and fast-food restaurants.

Gimbels, Korvettes and Gertz Long Island joined in yesterday's openings after Korvettes began the seven-day-a-week schedule three Sundays earlier.

Macy's Herald Square store, the city's largest, did not open, but two other Macy's stores in the city—in the Kings Plaza Shopping Center and on Staten Island—were open, as were 10 other Macy's stores in the state.

Perhaps 100 shoppers waited at Macy's Herald Square store before noon yesterday, expecting the doors to be open, but then they drifted over to the nearby Gimbels and Korvettes stores, which were open.

All the big retailers expressed satisfaction with the openings. A spokesman for Korvettes said "it was slightly better than our two previous Sundays."

Paul Chasanoff, general manager of the Gimbels store at 33rd Street and Broadway, said: "We're pleased—it was like a fair Saturday."

Kenneth Siegel, general manager of Macy's in Kings Plaza, reported: "Business was better than we anticipated."

The Gertz stores in Jamaica and Flushing, Queens, and five others on Long Island, all of which also opened yesterday, had sales and shopper traffic that "were like a regular weekday," said Heywood Wilansky, group merchandise manager.

Korvettes' open doors also attracted an arsonist. Firemen were called shortly after 4 P.M. when a fire was discovered in a public area of the fifth floor in the store on Broadway at 34th Street. Last week similar small fires were reported by Korvettes, Macy's and Gimbels.

The Fire Department said that yesterday's fire had been caused by an incendiary device and had resulted in little damage and no injury. As in the earlier incidents, the identity of the arsonist was unknown, the department said.

In all, 48 large department stores were open in the city and metropolitan area, only 10 weeks after the New York State Court of Appeals struck down two key sections of the General Business Laws, known as the "blue laws," as unenforceable and unconstitutional.

Despite opposition expressed last Friday by several Christian

Continued on Page 43, Column 6

French Bishop Defies Pope by Saying Latin Mass

By ANDREAS FREUND
Special to The New York Times
LILLE, France, Aug. 29—A controversial French bishop, suspended by the Vatican last month for opposing Roman Catholic Church reforms, celebrated a traditional Latin mass before 6,000 followers in a sports arena here today in direct defiance of Pope Paul VI.

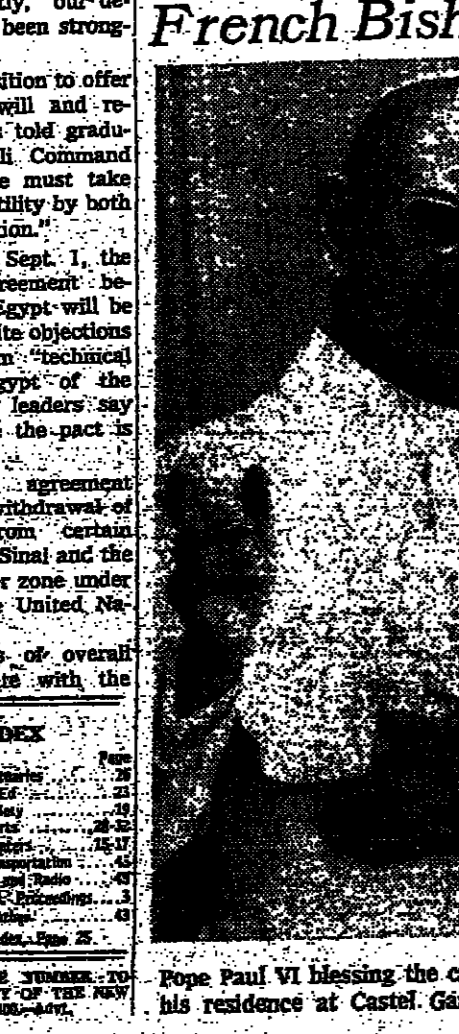

Ignoring papal orders that forbid his administration of the sacraments, Bishop Marcel LeFebvre, 71 years old, frail and white-haired, led the mass and delivered an hour-long homily that condemned leftists, Communists and liberal Catholics and attacked ecumenism and the reforms of the Second Vatican Council (1962-65).

In Castel Gandolfo, Italy, Pope Paul accused Bishop LeFebvre of attempting to subvert the church and of having committed a grave breach of ecclesiastical law, and he appealed to Catholics everywhere to prevent a schism.

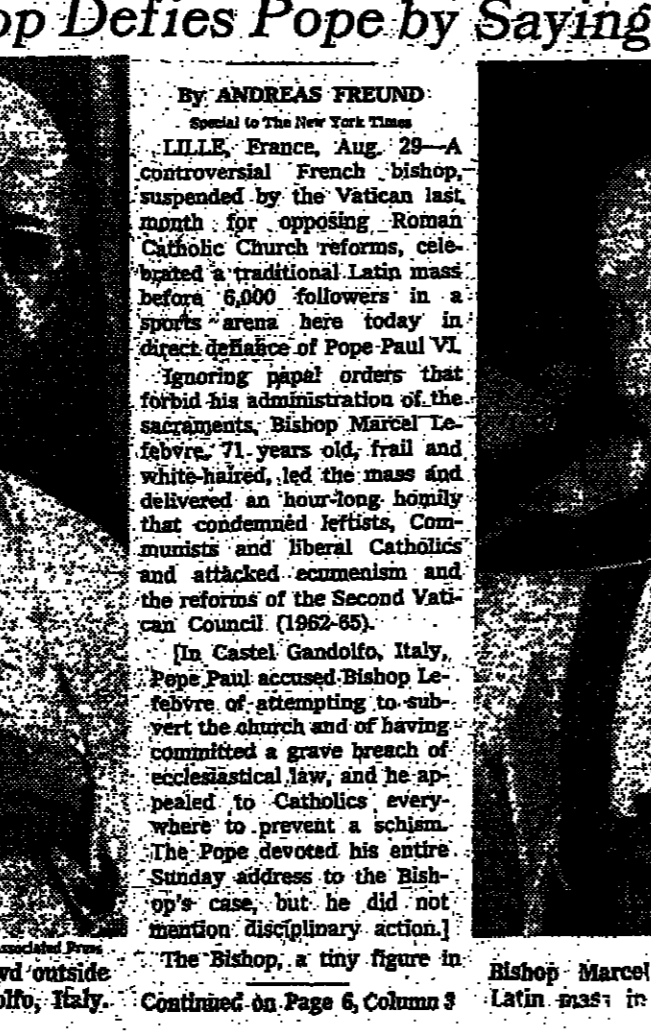

The Pope devoted his entire Sunday address to the Bishop's case, but he did not mention disciplinary action.

The Bishop, a tiny figure in

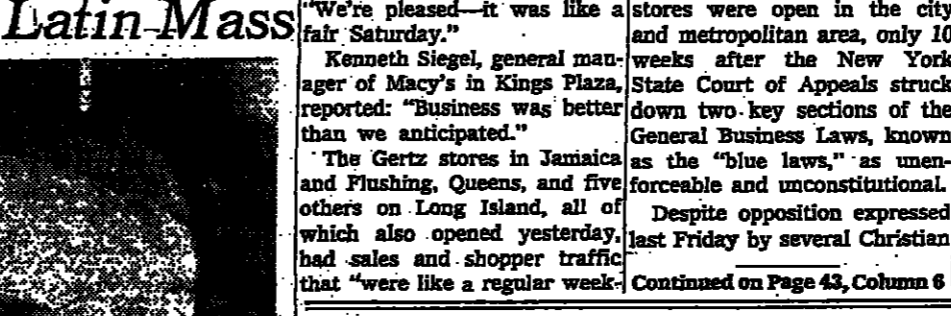

Continued on Page 6, Column 3

Pope Paul VI blessing the crowd outside his residence at Castel Gandolfo, Italy.

Bishop Marcel LeFebvre celebrating a Latin mass in Lille, France, yesterday.

Suburbs Fighting Back as Crime Rises

By PAUL DELANEY
Special to The New York Times
CHICAGO, Aug. 28—After his home in suburban San Francisco was broken into three times in eight days earlier this year, Harold Calder organized the Crocker Neighborhood Association and set up a program that has stirred controversy while cutting down crime.

When anyone knocks on a door or rings a doorbell at the home of one of the 150 subscribers to the program, a photograph of the caller is automatically made and sent to the police.

A notice near the door warns callers about the camera.

"Some people approach the door, read the sign and walk away," Mr. Calder said.

His brainchild, Mr. Calder says, has proved to be "a very, very powerful deterrent" to rising crime in his neighborhood in Daly City, just across the San Mateo County line from San Francisco.

The program is one community's attempt to solve a problem that has been troubling suburbs across the country. Increasingly, those who left the cities seeking peace of mind are finding that suburbia is not the idyllic refuge they thought they were getting.

Just this week, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in its Uniform Crime Report for 1975, said that serious offenses—such things as murder, robbery and burglary—increased by 10 percent in suburbs over a year earlier.

And a check-of dozens of communities around 14 major cities throughout the country found that, with crime generally still on the increase, many suburbanites were becoming unsettled.

The pattern was anything but uniform. Crime was up in some suburbs, down in others. It was of major concern in some places and seemingly of little importance in others.

For example, in the Chicago area, crime last year was up in Evanston but down in Winnetka, higher in Des Plaines but lower in Downers Grove, up in Oak Park but down in Orland Park.

Furthermore, some suburbanites feel that the fear and concern are exaggerated. Regard-

Continued on Page 21, Column 2

Air Force Checking C-141 Crashes in Greenland and Br

By The Associated Press
Air Force investigating teams flew to Greenland and England yesterday to look into the separate crashes of two C-141 jet transports in which a total of 39 people, most of them American military men and some of them reservists, were killed.

The planes, both of them Lockheed StarLifters, had been based at McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey and crashed Saturday within hours of each other—one at the United States base at Soendre Stroemfjord in southern Greenland, the other near Mildenhall Royal Air Force Base near Peterborough, England.

Six of the 27 people aboard the second plane survived.

An Air Force spokesman at McGuire made public the names of the American victims yesterday. Other officials said there was no known connection between the two accidents.

StarLifter Called 'Safest'

At the American base at Mildenhall, England, for which the first plane was bound, an Air Force spokesman called the crashes "unbelievable," adding that the C-141 StarLifter "is reckoned to be one of the safest aircraft we have—and now two of them go down in the same day."

United Press International quoted a Pentagon spokesman, Maj. Michael Burch of the Air Force, as having said in Washington: "Although the accidents occurred within hours of each other and the airplanes belonged to the same unit at McGuire, there appears to be absolutely no connection between the two. Sabotage does not appear to be a factor. It's not even being considered as a possibility."

Some Were Reservists And Many Were Young

By RUDY JOHNSON

Capt. Kenneth M. Burkhardt once thought he would become a priest, but gave up his studies to join the Air Force. He served six years, three times in Vietnam, and won the Distinguished Service Cross among other awards.

Six months ago he was released from active duty and became a member of the Air Force Reserve. It was while he was on a once-a-month tour with his unit in England that he was killed in one of two military plane crashes that took 39 lives Saturday.

Like Captain Burkhardt, who was 31 years old, a number of those who died in the crashes were in their late 20's or early 30's and had families with small children and led quiet lives in small towns in New York and New Jersey.

3 Who Died in England

Captain Burkhardt, the father of two small boys, lived in Ringoes, a small town near Lambertville. Like the captain, Tech. Sgt. Gaston J. Vargas was 31. He was the father of two young girls and was a resident of Kendall Park, N.J.

Both men were aboard a C-141 jet that went down in England and was attached to the 438th Military Airlift Wing at McGuire Air Force Base, near Fort Dix, N.J. Captain Burkhardt was the plane's navigator. Sergeant Vargas, with four years in the Air Force, had been a reservist for the last year and a half and was a flight engineer. In private life Captain Burkhardt was an underwriter for the Travelers Insurance Company, and Sergeant Vargas was a credit manager.

One Had a Year to Go

S. Sgt. Glenn K. Haberbush, a loadmaster on the plane that crashed in England, had only a year left of his six-year tour of duty in the reserves, according to his relatives. He was a resident of Union, N.J., and worked with his father in their plumbing business. Sergeant Haberbush, 27, was the father of a year-old girl.

First Lieut. David A. Lynch, 28, of Toms River, was the father of a 4-year-old boy. He worked in Hartford, Conn., for a concern called Scan Optics Inc., and graduated from the Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken, N.J.

Second Lieut. Richard J. Moken, a navigator on active duty in the Air Force, was among six survivors, all of whom were aboard the plane that crashed in Greenland. Lieutenant Moken, a native of New Jersey, lives in Milltown. He grew up in Edison and is a graduate of Rutgers. He has been married less than a year and has no children. His wife said that he was in stable condition in a hospital in Texas.

U.S. List of Those on Jets

Following is the list of the dead and the survivors in the crashes in Britain and Greenland on Saturday of two United States Air Force planes. The list was issued at McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., where both planes were based.

In Britain

- DEAD
- McNALLY, Capt. John R., pilot, Worcester, Mass.
 - BRISSETTE, Capt. Leslie C., co-pilot, Edgewater Park, N.J.
 - JOHNSON, Cap. Dale C., co-pilot, Norwalk, Conn.
 - LYNCH, First Lieut. David A., co-pilot, Toms River, N.J.
 - MARTIN, First Lieut. William G., co-pilot, Baldwin, L.I.
 - EIGENRAUCH, Capt. Robert A., navigator, Valley Cottage, N.J.
 - BURKHART, Capt. Kenneth M., navigator, Lambertville, N.J.
 - CORONA, Maj. Alessandro, navigator, Holland, Pa.
 - CLEVER, Major Sgt. Richard M., flight engineer, Woodmere, L.I.
 - VARGAS, Tech. Sgt. Gaston J., a flight engineer, Kendall, N.J.
 - DEMPSEY, Staff Sgt. Harry R., flight engineer, Milltown, N.J.
 - BLACKLEY, Staff Sgt. John H., loadmaster, Ridgefield, N.J.
 - HABERBUSH, Staff Sgt. Glenn K., loadmaster, Union, N.J.
 - PAYNE, Maj. Edwin E., additional crew member, McGuire Air Force Base, N.J.
 - VARLOW, Capt. Charles, Pope Air Force Base, N.C.
 - NELTON, Capt. Oba, Fayetteville, N.C.
 - KEARNS, Tech. Sgt. Bruce, Fayetteville, N.C.
 - PERRIN, Jean, Army, Bristol, Pa.

In Greenland

- DEAD
- SULLIVAN, First Lieut. Leo D., pilot, North Haven, Conn.
 - BIALKE, First Lieut. Glenn F., co-pilot, Sauk Rapids, Minn.
 - WILSON, Second Lieut. Jeffrey T., navigator, Middleton, Wis.
 - PEER, Tech. Sgt. Garman B., flight engineer, Browns Mills, N.J.
 - PEREZ, Staff Sgt. Carlos M., flight engineer, Puerto Rico.
 - QUINN, Tech. Sgt. Patrick F., loadmaster, Rougemont, N.C.
 - FOSTER, Leslie, Crossville, Tenn.
 - JONES, Capt. Robert E., Portland, Ore.
 - OGNMEISS, Tech. Sgt. Terry B., Colorado Springs, Colo.
 - JOHNSON, George W., no address available.
 - UNDERDAHL, Elvin E., no address available.
- SURVIVORS
- MOKEN, Second Lieut. Richard J., Milltown, N.J.
 - JONES, Alfred, civilian employed by Felix Services, a Government contractor.
- In addition, four Danish nationals survived. They were not identified by the United States Air Force.

RANDOM SHELLING FEARED IN BEIRUT

BEIRUT, Lebanon, Aug. 29—Shells and rockets fell on residential areas here today, reviving fears that indiscriminate bombardment of civilians would resume.

The shelling was part of stepped-up fighting in the Beirut area, the mountains and the area around the Moslem-controlled northern part of Tripoli. In the Aleh region in the hills a few miles east of here, both sides were reported by leftist and rightist radio stations to have used tanks' guns for shelling.

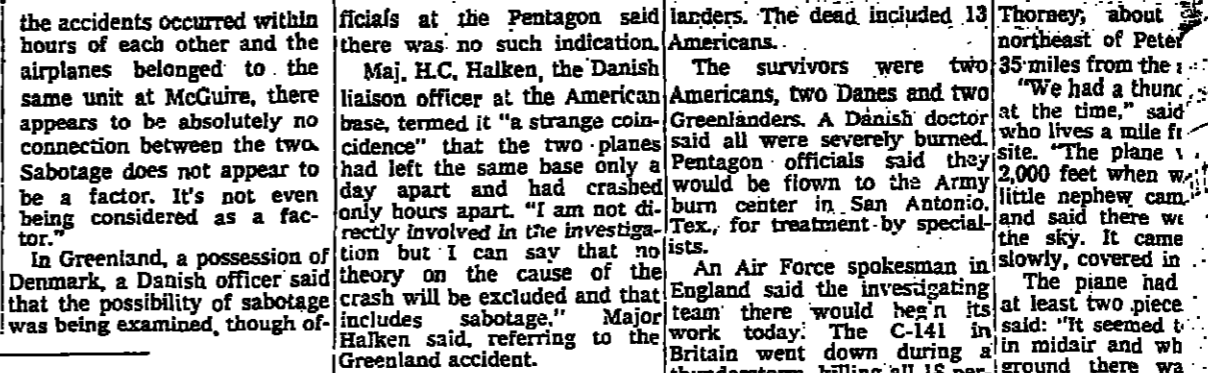

Leftist forces on the top floor of the 32-story Murr Tower in western Beirut used anti-aircraft guns against rightist positions at the Rizk skyscraper in the Christian quarter of Ashrafieh, across the dividing line. The rightists, according to press reports, fired rockets in retaliation.

Between these buildings lies the devastated commercial center of the city, where combatants lobbed mortar shells at one another.

An artillery shell and a rocket fell on the Moslem residential quarter of Al Hamra, reportedly causing some damage but no casualties. A rightist radio station reported that the Christian suburb of Al Hazmiyah had been struck by artillery shells and rockets.

The reports were reported last week to have agreed to abstain from shelling residential districts. It is felt in press quarters here that the fighting is settling into "a firing war." With no major attempts to storm strongholds.

Firemen aim hoses at the wreckage of a U.S. Air Force StarLifter that crashed Saturday near Mildenhall.

officials at the Pentagon said there was no such indication. Maj. H.C. Halken, the Danish liaison officer at the American base, termed it "a strange coincidence" that the two planes had left the same base only a day apart and had crashed only hours apart. "I am not directly involved in the investigation but I can say that no theory on the cause of the crash will be excluded and that includes sabotage," Major Halken said, referring to the Greenland accident.

In Greenland, a possession of Denmark, a Danish officer said that the possibility of sabotage was being examined, though officials at the Pentagon said there was no such indication. Maj. H.C. Halken, the Danish liaison officer at the American base, termed it "a strange coincidence" that the two planes had left the same base only a day apart and had crashed only hours apart. "I am not directly involved in the investigation but I can say that no theory on the cause of the crash will be excluded and that includes sabotage," Major Halken said, referring to the Greenland accident.

landers. The dead included 13 Americans. The survivors were two Americans, two Danes and two Greenlanders. A Danish doctor said all were severely burned. Pentagon officials said they would be flown to the Army burn center in San Antonio, Tex., for treatment by specialists.

An Air Force spokesman in England said the investigating team there would begin its work today. The C-141 in Britain went down during a thunderstorm, killing all 18 persons aboard, only a few minutes before it was to land at Mildenhall after a regular trans-Atlantic run from McGuire.

Lightning Is Suggested
David Taylor, 53, an English civilian who witnessed the crash, said he thought the four-engine jet, which was carrying 14 crewmen and four passengers, had been hit by lightning. He said it looked as though a wing had fallen off before the craft nose-dived into a sugar-beet field near the village of Thorsey, about 35 miles from the northeast of Peterborough. "We had a thump at the time," said who lives a mile from the site. "The plane was 2,000 feet when a little nephew came and said there was the sky. It came slowly, covered in

The plane had at least two pieces said: "It seemed to be in midair and when it came down there was a great big lightning bolt. The Mildenhall said the wreckage was guarded by United States security personnel. The investigators will be four or five we have complete gations," he said.

Zealand Visit
New Zealand Visit
New Zealand Visit

Gives Israe
Gives Israe

Zealand Visit
New Zealand Visit

Zealand Visit
New Zealand Visit

Zealand Visit
New Zealand Visit

BROOKSGATE

the contemporary styling of classic all-cotton oxford

OUR NEW BROOKSGATE SHIRTS

The young man will find these handsome shirts to his liking. Made by us with longer point button-down collar and trim body lines in comfortable all-cotton, they come in stripes of blue or red on white and solid blue, yellow or white. Collar sizes 14 to 16½, sleeves 32 to 35.

Striped Cotton Oxford, $14.50
Solid Cotton Oxford, $13.50

Our colorful lamb's wool neckwear comes in authentic Tartans. 4" width, $7.50

Mail orders invited or telephone 697-3131.

ESTABLISHED 1816

Brooks Brothers CLOTHING

Mens & Boys Furnishings, Hats & Shoes

346 MADISON AVE., COR. 44th ST., NEW YORK, N.Y. 10017
111 BROADWAY, NEW YORK, N.Y. 10006
696 WHITE PLAINS ROAD, SCARSDALE, N.Y. 10583

ATLANTA
BOSTON
CHICAGO
CINCINNATI
DALLAS DETROIT HOUSTON
LOS ANGELES
PHILADELPHIA
PITTSBURGH
ST. LOUIS
SAN FRANCISCO
WASHINGTON, D.C.

FALL FASHION PREVIEW FOR THE HICKEY-FREEMAN MAN

For business or casual wear, our Hickey-Freeman clothes offer you the perfect all-around wardrobe. The quality is unequalled and the individuality of the tailoring unsurpassed. Pay us a visit soon to see our extensive fall collection.

Hickey-Freeman Suits Fourth Floor
Hickey-Freeman Sport Coats, Slacks Second Floor

FR TRIPLER & CO.

Established 1886

366 MADISON AVENUE AT 44TH STREET, NEW YORK 10017 • (212) MU-2-1760

There's always a free surprise in our bag.

DIAL-A-STEAK
593-3888
CATTLEMAN

Old & New Prints
SIGNED GRAPHICS
Americana, Currier & Ives, Views Left, College Gals, Madogal, Magna, Redoubt, McGraw & Ray Horn Brads
Publishers Dali Graphics
Phyllis Local Gallery
WOODMERE CENTER
551 2nd Ave. (2nd St) NYC 10002
Hours: 10:30 to 5 P.M. Mon. thru Fri.
Creative Framing

THE NEW YORK TIMES
Published daily (second-class postage paid at New York, N.Y., and at additional mailing offices.)
MAIL SUBSCRIPTION U.S. TERRITORIES
Weekly and Sunday $11.00 per year
Weekly only $7.00 per year
Sunday only $3.00 per year
Rates in other countries on request.
The Associated Press is published exclusively in the use for reproduction of all news material credited to it or for circulation in this paper and for news of irregularly credited material. Rights of reproduction of all other matter herein are also reserved.

Gloria Vanderbilt for Martha

A slither of a wool jersey evening dress, cleverly pleated over the hips, seamed above the waist, and further controlled by its own belt. You'll find more Vanderbilt magic in the signature collar that can turn into a hood or a shoulder bag. Contrasting with all this softness: the tulip jacket, in rustling acetate moiré. $400.

Martha

475 Park Avenue
We honor the American Express Card

#23 in our series of unique dishes, created and perfected by our Chefs for this Season (only).

A Summer Entrée
THE FOUR SEASONS DUCK WITH PEACHES IN CASSIS

Specially raised, served crackling crisp with a sauce of Duck stock, Black-Currant Purée and fresh Peaches.

Touhazgitta
Paukka

THE FOUR SEASONS
95 East 52nd St. PL 5-6412

The newest thing in department stores is not on Fifth Ave.

It's 144 blocks west in Clifton, N.J.

The Rowe Manso EMPORIUM
One Thousand Seven-Hundredth Ave.
Clifton, New Jersey 07012 (212) 424-1712

LEATH

JACKETS
BLAZERS
SAFARIS

Reg. Retail $125-$200
Buy Direct From Mfg. Monthly Sell Down On Top Grain Leather. Men for Men & Women.

LFO
390 Fifth Ave. (38th St. E)
6th Floor—Rm 6C
Tel. 279-2463 Mon-Fri

BATTERIES I ALL ELECTRIC WATCHES installed by experts...

PROMPT REPAIRS ELECTRONIC AND DIGITAL WATCHES
Wexler's
34th St. & 7th Ave. New York
(212) LO 3-6500

Handwritten signature or mark at the bottom of the page.

الجزيرة العربية

Moscow Asks Syria to Leave Lebanon

By CHRISTOPHER S. WREN
Special to The New York Times

MOSCOW, Aug. 29 — The Soviet Union has begun publicly pressing Syria to withdraw its troops from Lebanon and cooperate with its "natural allies," the Palestinian and Lebanese leftists whom it has been fighting since late last spring.

Such a call was made today by the official Communist Party newspaper Pravda in its international review, a weekly column that reflects the Kremlin's views. However, Pravda was largely echoing a statement issued Friday by the Soviet Afro-Asian Solidarity Committee.

The committee, a semi-official front organization that speaks for Moscow on some third-world matters, was used last month to float an unsuccessful bid for a cease-fire that would permit the Arab countries to return to the struggle against Israel.

The new line that is emerging appears to reflect publicly what Moscow reportedly has urged privately on Damascus—to pull out of the civil war and throw its support to the losing Lebanese leftists and Palestinians.

"Important Significance" In repeating the main points of Friday's statement, Pravda gave more official weight to the call for a Syrian withdrawal, though it used equally cautious phrasing. Still, it appeared that Moscow was preparing to take a tougher public stand on Syria's involvement in the Lebanese civil war.

"For the settlement of the Lebanese crisis, the withdrawal of Syrian forces from Lebanon and likewise the cooperation of

Presses It to Cooperate, Not Fight With Leftists and Palestinians

Syria with its natural allies in the anti-imperialist struggle—the Palestinian resistance movement and the national patriotic forces of Lebanon—would have important significance," said the Pravda commentary, which was written by Yitayl Korionov. "This would facilitate the reconstruction and strengthening of the front of Arab forces."

The latest turn in the Lebanese civil war has underscored the Soviet Union's powerlessness to bring its erstwhile Arab ally to heel.

Arab diplomatic sources report that the Kremlin was particularly upset by the Syrian thrust into Lebanon, which occurred only hours before Prime Minister Aleksei N. Kosygin arrived in Damascus on an official visit last June.

Until recently, the Soviet press put the full blame for the fighting in Lebanon on what the government newspaper Izvestia called "a conspiracy of imperialism, Zionism and Arab reaction," while soft-pedaling the growing Syrian involvement.

The notion of a reactionary plot against Lebanon was also expressed today as Moscow undertook its careful criticism of Syria, which it is reluctant to alienate completely.

The Soviet Union still reserves its harshest words for Israel, playing up reports of an Israeli naval blockade of reinforcements to the leftists in Lebanon and contending that the Israelis have a direct hand in the deteriorating situation there.

Moscow earlier sounded a warning against outside intervention in Lebanon and has opposed any partition of the country. Today, Pravda offered no new suggestions for bringing peace to Lebanon beyond the withdrawal of Syrian troops. Instead, it reiterated its standing contention that a solution to the fighting must be left to the Lebanese themselves.

Talks Set on Peace Plan
Special to The New York Times

BEIRUT, Lebanon, Aug. 29 — The special Arab League envoy here, Dr. Hassan Sabry el-Kholi, went to Damascus today for talks with Syrian leaders on the peace plan he has proposed in the Lebanese conflict. Right-wing Christian leaders in Lebanon are reported to have made their acceptance of the plan dependent on Syrian endorsement.

As reported in the press, the plan provides for withdrawal of the combatants from the front lines and their replacement by Arab peacekeeping forces. The plan reportedly also calls for a timetable for the withdrawal of the 20,000 Syrian soldiers now in Lebanon.

Arab League Meeting Called
Special to The New York Times

CAIRO, Aug. 29 — Mahmoud Riad, secretary general of the Arab League, today called an emergency meeting of the league's foreign ministers for Wednesday to discuss the holding of an Arab leaders conference on Lebanon.

The New York Times/Micha Bar-Am
cross the border into Israel, near the town of Dovev, for medical care. A soldier escorts them to a mobile medical van parked nearby.

Security Gives Israel a Respite needed "a new lesson" to rid it of its "illusions of superiority and domination." Foreign Ministry officials here interpret the comment as reflecting a need by Mr. Sadat to take a tough anti-Israeli posture because of international and domestic difficulties facing him in Egypt.

"We don't particularly like it, but we don't make a mountain out of it," one Israeli official said. Other officials cite the fact that Egypt has shown no hesitancy in deflecting large numbers of its troops to the Libyan border, a move the Israelis cite as evidence that the Egyptians "know they don't have to fear Israeli aggression, despite their propaganda," as one put it. As the strife in Lebanon has intensified, Israel has established what is called its "good-sense" policy along its northern border with Lebanon.

According to officials here, the policy evolved a few months ago after a number of Lebanese came to the barbed-wire fencing that separates the two countries in search of medical attention.

It is now a much-publicized effort that broadened into the creation of mobile clinics, the purchase of Lebanese tobacco, the permission for about 150 Lebanese to work in Israel and, most recently, tearful reunions with long-separated families in which the Israelis are permitting a limited number of Lebanese into the country for visits.

Development With Syria Another border development cited by some Israelis as potentially significant is on the frontier with Syria. It was announced this week that both Syria and Israel had agreed, under United Nations auspices, to meetings between Druse families separated by the border.

At present, separated members of the clanish minority talk to each other through bullhorns and hold up their babies for relatives to see. No date has yet been set for the meetings although there are reports that United Nations personnel are apparently erecting tents in a no-man's-land section for the eventual reunions.

Israel has had a relatively open frontier with Jordan since the 1967 war, a situation that has not resulted in peace between the two nations.

New Zealand Visit a Strike and Marches

Zealand. The Government has threatened to take action at least to get inter-island ferries moving. The Cabinet was to meet tomorrow to consider emergency measures.

The visit by the warship has produced marches and demonstrations in several cities. Because of the union ban on the use of tugs, the Truxtun has not berthed but has instead anchored in Wellington harbor.

Numerous small boats of a protest fleet have sailed in stormy weather to demonstrate against the warship's presence. Police boats have kept protesters away from the ship.

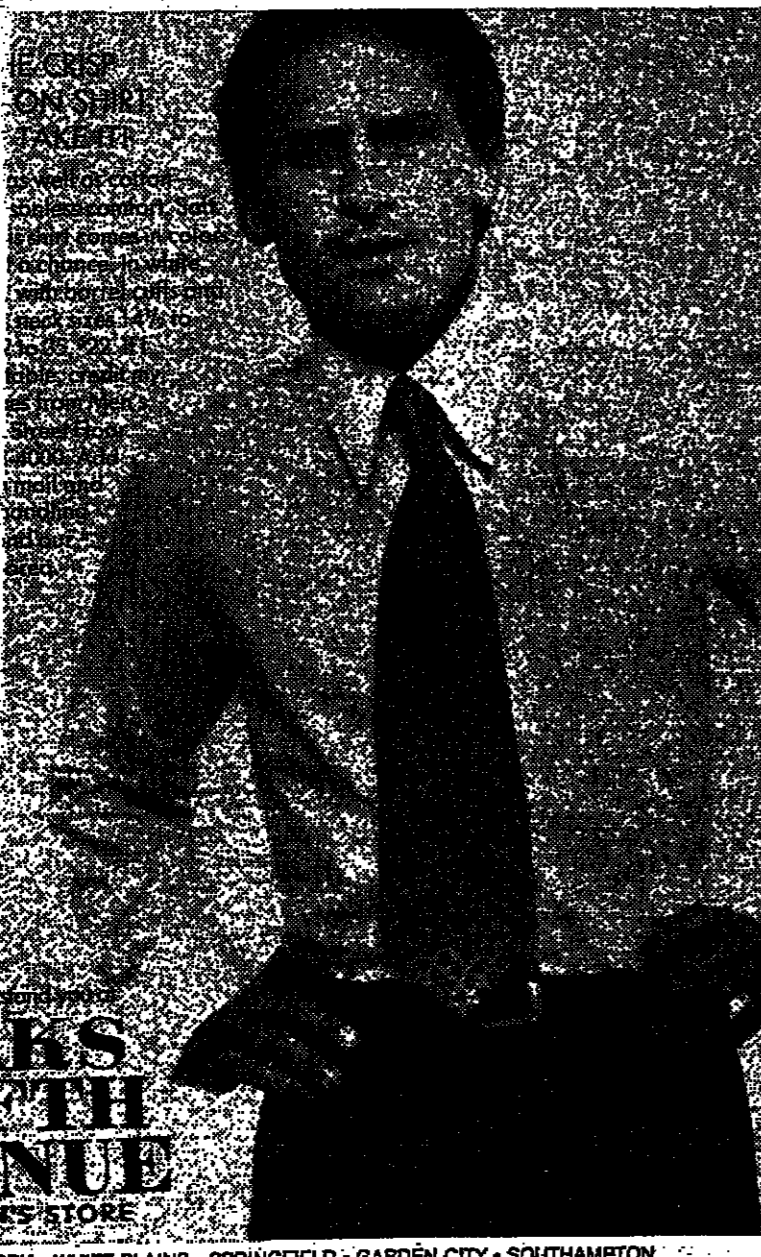

The number of demonstrators engaged in protests has not been large anywhere. In contrast, a dial-a-sailor campaign to offer hospitality to American sailors on shore leave brought a large response from citizens of Wellington.

But demonstrators in the southern city of Christchurch wrecked an aerial at an American base used as a forward communications center for own with United States operations in Antarctica. The destruction of the aerial was believed to have been in protest against the Truxtun's visit.

The Proceedings In the U.N. Today

Aug. 30, 1976
GENERAL ASSEMBLY
Committee on Decolonization—10:30 A.M.
Third Conference on Law of Sea: Committee on seabed Regime and Machinery—9:30 A.M.

Tickets may be obtained at the public desk, main lobby, United Nations headquarters. Tours: 9 A.M. to 4:45 P.M.

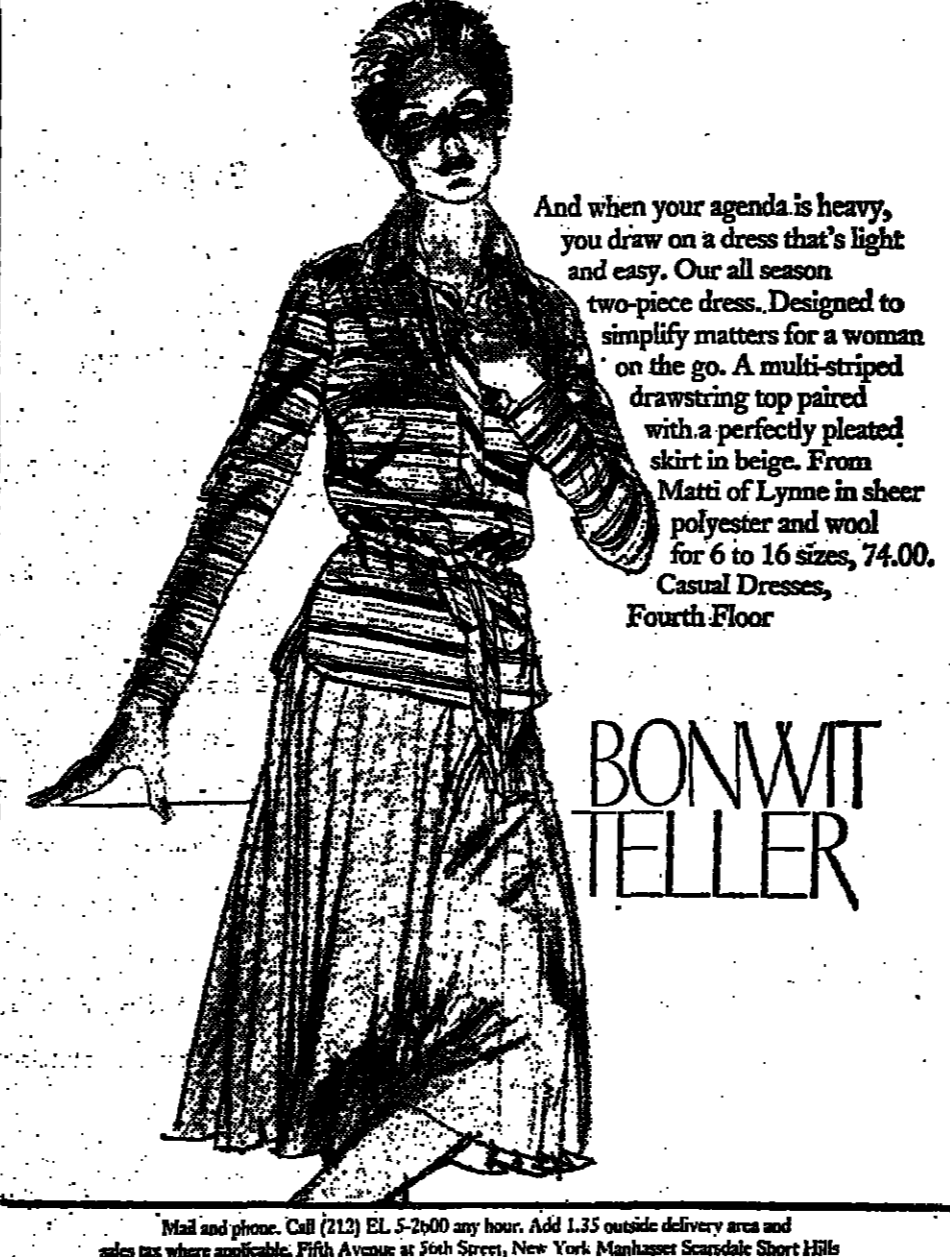

ORK • WHITE PLAINS • SPRINGFIELD • GARDEN CITY • SOUTHAMPTON shine, sir...

Take the loafer with polish. And an updated sense of proportion. Tassled, hand-stitched and steeped in tradition by G.H. Bass. Tan or chestnut brown, 34.00. With Gold Toe's well-bred argyle in classic and fashion colors. Ankle, 3.00. Over-the-calf, 4.00. One acrylic size fits 10-13. The Men's Store, Main Level, New York, Stamford, Bergen County, Short Hills, Garden City and White Plains. Argyle available in Fresh Meadows and Jenkintown as well.

bloomingdales/the men's store
1000 Third Avenue, New York, 355-5900. Open late Monday and Thursday evenings.

And when your agenda is heavy, you draw on a dress that's light and easy. Our all season two-piece dress. Designed to simplify matters for a woman on the go. A multi-colored drawstring top paired with a perfectly pleated skirt in beige. From Matti of Lyme in sheer polyester and wool for 6 to 16 sizes, 74.00. Casual Dresses, Fourth Floor
BONWIT TELLER

Mail and phone. Call (212) EL 5-2600 any hour. Add 1.35 outside delivery area and sales tax where applicable. Fifth Avenue at 56th Street, New York. Manhattan Scarsdale Short Hills

Anne Klein... in her clutches
Two, that go hand in hand. Designed in richly tanned cowhide to embrace with ease. And tailored sophistication that carries on the Anne Klein name. Roomy enough for day. Sleek enough for night. For Calderone. Bottom: Elongated clutch with diagonal stitching, inside zip, bracelet handle, $48. Top: Medium clutch with braid trim that conceals snap-close pocket, braided bracelet handle, $57. Both in black, luggage, tan, jodhpur (brick). Write or phone any time. 971-6000 in NYC, NJ 800-221-8822 or your nearest phone order number. Add 50c handling charge. We regret, no COD's. Add sales tax. Better Handbags (Dept. 049), Street Floor, Herald Square, Roosevelt Field, Kings Plaza, Queens, Huntington, Colonie, White Plains only.

Macy's

THE RUGBY SWEATER
Just arrived from London...
The rugby shirt reinterpreted in navy and white shetland wool and buttoned at the shoulders like a French sailor's sweater, very international and super with jeans.
Ours alone in S,M,L,XL, 40.00
Men's Shop, First Floor
Mail to 754 Fifth Ave., New York 10019 (212) PL3-7300
Please add 1.55 beyond our delivery area.
On the Plaza in New York and White Plains
BERGDORF GOODMAN

a girl's life isn't always sugar and spice
Sometimes it's a bit zingier. More ginger, more snap. That's when she needs a sassy corduroy culotte-jumper like this one with its own print blouse. Cotton corduroy jumper, cotton blouse by Beaux Age. In berry exclusively ours. Sizes 4 to 6X, 26.00, 7 to 14, 29.00 Young World, 2nd Floor New York, and all fashion branches. Mail and phone orders filled. Sorry, no C.O.D.'s.

bloomingdale's

1000 Third Avenue, New York, 355-5900. Open late Monday and Thursday evenings.

You really don't care if it's precious or fake if the feeling is genuine. And it's not a question of what you can afford. Diane Von Furstenberg could buy ivory. But there's a conservationist movement afoot. And we all realize its importance. So she made this collection in a feckless ivory look-alike. With pewter-finished metal. Slim Bangle, 7.50
Broad Bangle, 12.00
Double Tusk Neckwire, 25.00
All for D.M.A. Ltd. Jewelry, First Floor

BONWIT TELLER

Add 1.35 outside delivery area, and sales tax where applicable. Fifth Avenue at 56th Street, New York Manhattan Scaevole Short Hills

U.S. Finds Taiwan Moving Toward A-Bomb Capacity

Continued From Page 1, Col. 4

clear weapons in 1970—one of the 100 countries to do so up to now—undertaking not to manufacture nuclear weapons.

The existence of American intelligence reports on the fuel reprocessing program was made public today in The Washington Post. Administration officials said later that they had been unable to determine whether Taiwan had diverted spent uranium for plutonium production from a large Canadian-made research reactor or had acquired spent nuclear fuel elsewhere.

Spent uranium is the waste from a nuclear power reaction that, if processed through a special reprocessing plant, creates plutonium. The plutonium can then be used for weapons purposes or the peaceful purpose of contributing to the refueling of power plants.

Canadian Controls Lag
Canadian controls over the output from the Taiwan reactor are said to have lagged since Canada broke off relations with the Taipei Government in 1970. The Canadian reactor is described as similar to one used by India to manufacture plutonium for a nuclear device detonated in 1974.

According to a table compiled by the International Research and Technology Corporation of Arlington, Va., Taiwan could expect hypothetically to produce plutonium at an annual rate of 1,585 pounds within four years from its already installed reactors. It takes about 13 pounds of plutonium to make a small atomic bomb.

The American officials said the information about the intelligence reports from Taiwan had been disclosed as a warning to the Taipei Government. They said that the Ford Administration had repeatedly warned Taiwan not to reprocess uranium into plutonium over the last year.

One official, who asked not to be identified, said it was well known to United States officials that the Chinese Nationalists had been "developing reprocessing technology and a pilot plant for reprocessing—but not a bomb."

Taiwan's "hot cell project"—the pilot reprocessing facility—has been under construction for five years at the Institute for Nuclear Energy. Ten months ago Taipei asked United States permission to reprocess spent fuel from an American-supplied research reactor. The Administration is still considering the request.

2 More Plants Sought
The United States is also delaying consideration of a Taiwan request to buy two more nuclear reactor power plants until the reprocessing issue is cleared up, the officials said. "I don't like Taiwan reprocessing secretly or openly, large or small," an official of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency said.

Another Administration official remarked that even if the reprocessing effort was largely experimental at this stage, "you have got to be naive not to believe there is an ulterior purpose."

The United States Government and the Congress have become increasingly concerned over the spread of nuclear weapons-making capability since India detonated an atomic device two years ago using technology and material acquired from the United States and Canada.

Under present Administration regulations, the United States would not cut off exports of enriched uranium fuel or nuclear reactors to Taiwan unless it had acquired proof that the Chinese Nationalists were using American-supplied material to make atomic bombs, an official noted.

Taiwan has already acquired approval for the export of four large American nuclear power plants, which are expected to supply one-third of the island's electricity in a decade.

Taiwan Denies Move

Special to The New York Times

TAIPEI, Taiwan, Aug. 29—Victor Cheng, secretary general of Taiwan's Atomic Energy Council, today denied reports that Taiwan had secretly been reprocessing spent uranium fuel for possible use in producing nuclear weapons. He said Taiwan did not have an operational reprocessing facility, although the council's institute of nuclear energy research was constructing a laboratory that would be able to reprocess a "tiny amount" of nuclear fuel strictly for research purposes.

Mr. Cheng said that the laboratory, in planning since 1969 and scheduled to be completed before the end of this year, would have an annual capacity of a mere 15 grams of plutonium.

U.S. Aware of Project

He added that it was being built with the full knowledge of the American Government, which had not expressed any disapproval.

Mr. Cheng said that the laboratory would also be included in the safeguard system under which Taiwan's nuclear facilities are periodically inspected by the International Atomic Energy Agency.

The Nationalist Chinese Government has repeatedly insisted that it has no intention of developing nuclear weapons. Prime Minister Chiang Ching-kuo has said it would be unthinkable for his Government to use such weapons against its Communist enemy because of the loss of life to its "countrymen on the China mainland."

Officials also note that Taiwan considers itself bound by the nuclear nonproliferation treaty, which was signed by the Government and ratified by the Legislature. In addition, Taiwan's contract to purchase nuclear fuel from the United States Government stipulates that all nuclear facilities here be subject to international inspection.

Spain Is Imposing Press Censorship On Reform Plans

By HENRY GONIGER

Special to The New York Times

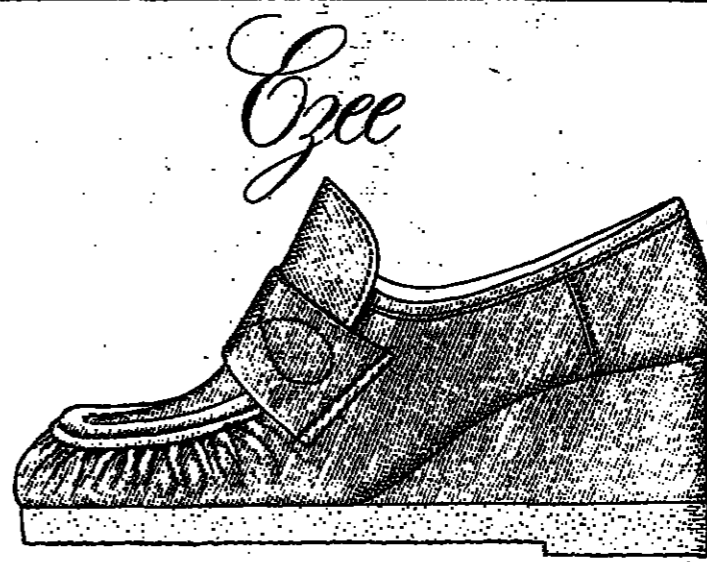

MADRID, Aug. 29—Prime Minister Adolfo Suárez González, angered the Spanish press today by imposing censorship on official plans for political reform.

The Prime Minister invoked the Official Secrets Act decreed by the Franco regime in 1968 to declare that any documents prepared for the Cabinet were secret until they had been acted upon. The aim of the decision was apparently to prevent leaks about possible differences of opinion until the Government had worked out a common position.

The action was assailed by Madrid newspapers as a reversal of the trend toward more freedom of information. The liberal Madrid daily El País said in an editorial today that "official secrets in a democracy are reserved for matters that can seriously affect the security of the state and even then, it is the judges and not the Government that make a determination in concrete cases."

So sweeping was the order that even normally uncritical newspapers assailed it for its ambiguity and expressed concern that not only specific documents prepared for the Cabinet but the whole subject of political reform itself might be placed off limits.

The latest press restriction is believed specifically to involve a number of alternative plans drawn up by working committees of the Government for carrying through reform. They are due to be acted on by the Cabinet next month and are expected to be at the center of controversy between the Government and a wide range of political forces that want a voice in determining Spain's future course.

Here's Ezee from Florsheim's exciting new casual collection. As bouncy as a new pup and just as lovable. Glossy supple kidskin in colors to compliment all your sporting looks: amber, mahogany, brown, navy or black $35.

FLORSHEIM THAYER MCNEIL

American Express cards welcome along with most major credit cards.

There is an additional charge for sizes 10 1/2 and over. Fifth Ave. 43rd • Madison Ave. at 54th • Third Ave. at 70th • NEW JERSEY Paramus Fashion Center & Paramus Park Mall • Livingston • CONNECTICUT: Conn. Post Center, Milford • Lafayette Plaza Bridgeport • DUANES FLORSHEIM NEW YORK: Long Island • Mid Island Plaza, Hicksville • Green Acres Shopping Center, Valley Stream • Cross County Shopping Center, Yonkers • Upper Manhattan, Nanuet • Orange Plaza, Middletown • NEW JERSEY: Men Park Shopping Center, Edison.

Phone Inquiries (212) 759-4805

Lord & Taylor

Expect the unexpected

in poured-on gaucho dresses that are something else again when you add a slinky length of trouser underneath.

Julie Miller's design for split-level living in smooth Nyesta® jersey of pewter and silver grey nylon-polyester. The blouson with the shirred peasant neckline is 80.00 the batwing with hood is 90.00

Both, sizes 4 to 12. Esprit, Fifth Floor, Lord & Taylor, Fifth Avenue at 39th Street,

Manhasset, Westchester,

Millburn, Garden City,

Ridgewood-Paramus

and Stamford

"A Collector's Paradise"... "A Shopper's Oasis in the fashionable heart of New York" ... "One of the most quietly elegant and delightful boutiques in the city"

Evyan's New Perfume Shop

— Now at 711 Fifth Avenue —

WORLD FAMOUS

White Shoulders®
Most Feminine of Fragrances

PLUS a dazzling collection of antique one-of-a-kind crystal antique perfume bottles, from France, England, America
ALSO Royal Doulton • Coppe Di Monte • Royal Copenhagen • Bing & Grandahl Bicentennial Commemorative Plates • Toy Figurines

EVYAN'S PERFUME AND GIFT SHOPS

711 FIFTH AVE. between 55th & 56th St.
46th St. & Madison Ave. (Hotel Roosevelt)
New York 10019

(212) 659-3201

Most Credit Cards Honored

(212) 532-3208

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِیْمِ

IN AEGEAN Y DEFUSED

on Is Accepted, es Still Divide nd Greece

V. ROBERTS
New York Times
Aug. 29—Greece
re cautiously ac-ty Council resoem to show reme negotiations te over mineral Aegean Sea. A are now being talks could begin

Athens to the seems to have the tension bent enemies that several weeks ey sent a retake soundings seabed claimed

essel, Sismik I.
at Izmir, and are hoping that sent out again.
ms determined each program.
ould flare up

Unresolved Security Coun-is solved none id highly emoviding the two if talks do re-little evidence try is willing fificant conces-conflicts are That means n wing of the Treaty Organntinue to sufuntries would r their scarce damaging and ace.

aw gives any to explore for s continental he eastern Aed with thou-islands, some from the Turk-two countries
elf.
it emerged in ce found oil Aegean, and vere suffering
e in oil prices.
d prospecting west of the nds.

Suggested
e, Greece suge the dispute mal Court of els that it has se, and Prime fine Carzamanplace the onus se on a third ing some of that would the idea in ist that direct tried first.

enjoys overy strength in els it would l if the issue olitical rather ion is complict that Prime nan Demirel all margin in comes under rom his right-

d left-wing oppach, of the nd party at Demirel for elections.

Council resoluvictories to as was pleased took the issue restraint and international
sible recourse.
ased that the r, specifically that the Coun-direct negotiot Fixed this week that talk, but they ecided what to n they met in was interested s briefs for the ey would only stance of the w hinting that irect talks. But main far apart.

illing to recogniginal Turkish Aegean, while Ane-50-50 split t right. Many including the have suggested n of the seabed, ion of shares settled.

y raised a new Greece of vio-onal agreements Aegean islands. concede that so, but say that ken are purely emporary. After asion of Cyprus
o, they argue,
take a chance.
light of Mr.
ted suggestions should not be-trust on both be overwhelntry seems to the worst about in such an at-tations are ex-

ire Kills 4
l, Aug. 29 (AP) four was killed en a fire swept home here, the
d. The victims as Dr. Thomas ars old; his wife
r son David, 8;
ancy, 7.

Photograph credit or signature

Classic

Sporting rich Ultrasuede®

Very man of the world. Handsome from one season to the next. For the life that's easy to become accustomed to. The chamois color sportcoat, 195.00 And the sportshirt in pearl grey, cinnamon, pale green or denim blue, 145.00 Both distinctively tailored in luxurious Ultrasuede® of polyester-polyurethane. The Man's Shop, Tenth Floor, Lord & Taylor, Fifth Avenue at 39th Street—call Wisconsin 7-3300 (24 hours a day).

And at all Lord & Taylor stores.

When gin was invented in Holland it was called Genever.

When gin was perfected in England it was named Beefeater.

BEEFEATER

IMPORTED FROM ENGLAND BY HOBSON & CO., INC., 170 N. 9th STREET, PHOENIX, ARIZONA

Special Bulletin

The New School Fall '76 Bulletin, New York's best read paperback, is off the press. Get your free copy today! You'll find 118 courses in liberal arts, politics, economics, international relations, languages, data processing, business, practical arts, music, dance, cinematic arts, photography, urban affairs and much more. Also: special film screenings and concerts; workshops in arts and crafts, writing, and theater; short courses and special lectures. Master Charge and BankAmericard accepted. Classes start September 18. For a free illustrated copy of the Fall '76 New School Bulletin, phone 582-5555 at any time.

The New School, 66 West 12th Street, N.Y. 10011

Traditionalist French Bishop Defies Pope, Saying Latin Mass Before

Continued From Page 1, Col. 4

A violet cap and a gold cape with an embroidered gold cross, delivered his sermon in that a soft voice that sometimes cracked with emotion.

But the occasion took on atmosphere of a political rally as the audience—which had assembled from all over France, as well as Belgium, Britain, Switzerland and Italy—greeted his words with cheers and interludes of thundering applause.

At one point, a dissenter in the crowd shouted, "Fortunately, all Catholics do not share your beliefs," and was forcefully ejected by men wearing white armbands, identifying themselves as members of the "friendship association" founded by the Bishop.

The mass in Latin was in defiance both of the Pope's suspension order and the Vatican Council's reform ordering the use of local languages for the liturgy.

Held in Dowdy Hall

The mass was held in a dowdy hall generally used for wrestling matches and wrestling because Bishop Lefebvre has been barred from saving mass in any church.

The Bishop, who formerly headed the dioceses of Tulle, France, and Dakar, Senegal, has for years been an outspoken critic of the liturgical reforms of the Second Vatican Council called by Pope John XXIII.

He was suspended on July 24—the first bishop to be so disciplined in 150 years—because he refused to close a seminary he founded in Ecône, Switzerland, where prospective priests are taught centuries-old concepts and the liberal reforms of the modern church are ignored or rejected.

Under church rules, the Pope could not strip the Bishop of his title. The suspension was the severest action the Vatican could have taken short of excommunication. Vatican sources here today said the Pope was not likely to impose excommunication despite the Bishop's new act of defiance.

Bishop Lefebvre, in his sermon today, suggested that his refusal to heed Vatican orders might result soon in excommunication, separation from the church, becoming a renegade, and he added: "It's possible, I don't understand anymore. Something in the church has changed."

The Bishop denounced ecumenism in general and the church's dialogue with Protestants in particular, calling such efforts "confusion through bastardization."

"You cannot marry truth and error," he insisted, "because that is like adultery and the child will be a bastard — a bastard rite for mass, bastard sacraments and bastard priests."

He condemned dialogues with Freemasons because, he said, "they celebrate black masses and are in league with the devil." Similarly, he excluded dialogues with Communists and subversives, saying, "I've entered a dialogue with the devil and you know where this has led us."

The Bishop contended that the church was embarked upon "its own destruction" in promoting liberal reforms, and he said that he had not changed his faith.

"It is not us but Rome which is moving toward a schism," he said. "They are the ones moving toward heresy. I am with 20 centuries of the church and all the saints in the heavens."

The Bishop said that he would continue his defiance so that he could say, "I have not participated in the church's destruction." He added: "If the Pope were in error, he would cease to be Pope."

Prolonged applause followed the address, and after the service hundreds of his followers crowded around the Bishop, some of them in tears.

The worshippers were mostly middle-aged and appeared to be working-class people.

Outside the hall, François Panart, a candymaker from the French village of Avène-le Sec, explained why he and his wife had attended.

"It's not the church anymore," he said. "It's Protestantism. The priests do what they want. The new church is full of Communists. The Second Council said that all religions were equal. That is false. We are heretics now, but it's the church which has failed us, not vice versa. It's not the Bishop who is in the wrong, but the Pope."

Nearly five youths calling themselves "Christian Marxists" distributed leaflets denouncing Bishop Lefebvre. But they were outnumbered by vendors of extreme right-wing publications, and several prominent French right-wing figures were on hand.

The worshippers were mostly middle-aged and appeared to be working-class people.

Outside the hall, François Panart, a candymaker from the French village of Avène-le Sec, explained why he and his wife had attended.

"It's not the church anymore," he said. "It's Protestantism. The priests do what they want. The new church is full of Communists. The Second Council said that all religions were equal. That is false. We are heretics now, but it's the church which has failed us, not vice versa. It's not the Bishop who is in the wrong, but the Pope."

Nearly five youths calling themselves "Christian Marxists" distributed leaflets denouncing Bishop Lefebvre. But they were outnumbered by vendors of extreme right-wing publications, and several prominent French right-wing figures were on hand.

might be taken against him.

The Pope said that the Latin mass celebrated by the Bishop in Lille was a "challenge of the keys put in our hands by Catholics to pray Christ."

The Bishop's challenge filed of the church with bitterness and attempts to split, was a most painful event of "lacerating dissent," the Pope said.

Expected to...

Pope Denies 'Challenge'

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, Aug. 29 (Reuters)—Pope Paul VI today accused Bishop Lefebvre of subverting the church by saying a banned Latin mass in France.

The Pope appealed for Catholics all over the world to prevent a split in the church. The 78-year-old Pope devoted He's been given a second chance with the only woman he ever loved. The first time she died.

OBSESSION

STARTS WEDNESDAY AT COLUMBIA PREMIERE THEATRES

A new slant on the little black dress the asymmetric neckline, accented here with pretty bows. For cocktails and later, fluid Nysta® jersey of black or silver grey.

Antron® nylon, Mannequin in sizes 6 to 16. 64.00.

Evening Shop, Second Floor, Lord & Taylor, WI 7-3300

Fifth Avenue, Manhasset, Westchester, Millburn, Garden City, Ridgewood-Paramus and Stamford

It used to be a man and his pinstripe. But you've done a lot to change that! And when you borrow his favorite pinstripe, you find a way to make it soft and subtle and feminine. You see it in the easy fit of the jacket, in the softness of the bow blouse and in the gentle pleating of the skirt. From Mario Fort for Rona in packable Encon polyester* and wool. Pale grey or classic navy striped with white for 8 to 18 sizes, 170.00.

Better Dresses, Sixth Floor

BONWIT TELLER

Man-sized style and man-sized Comfort...

$32.

For man-sized style and man-sized comfort, in a long wearing—hard working shoe... here's our buckle slip-on with hidden gore. Heel-toe foam cushioning plus arch support and sturdy leather soles. Antique brown or black grained calf. Sizes 7 to 12, 13, 14; sizes 13 & 14 add $2.00. AA to EEE widths. (Not every size or every width in all stores.) Order by mail, 18 East 34th Street, N.Y. 10016 or phone (212) 685-8805. Add local tax.

Major credit cards honored • Free catalogue on request
16 East 34th St. • Third Ave., 68th St. • Broadway, 65th St.
First Ave., 46th St. • Bronx • Downtown Brooklyn Restoration Shopping Center • Forest Hills • White Plains
Hempstead • Hartsogack • Jersey City

OPEN LABOR DAY

Here's proof that West Side Federal Savings makes it easier to save!

SAVINGS FEATURES YOU SHOULD LOOK FOR	PLACES WHERE YOU CAN SAVE
	WEST SIDE FEDERAL SAVINGS	COMMERCIAL BANKS	SAVINGS BANKS
Regular Savings Account paying the highest return 5.47% effective annual yield on 5.25% per annum COMPOUNDED DAILY CREDITED QUARTERLY	YES	NO	YES
Regular Savings Account paying the highest return plus these TWO FEATURES combined in the same account: • INTEREST PAID FROM DAY OF DEPOSIT TO DAY OF WITHDRAWAL • DEPOSITS MADE BY THE 10TH OF ANY MONTH EARN INTEREST FROM THE 1ST, provided they remain to the end of the quarter.	YES	NO	NO
6-Year Savings Certificate paying the highest return 8.17% effective annual yield on 7.75% per annum COMPOUNDED DAILY CREDITED QUARTERLY MINIMUM DEPOSIT ONLY $1,000	YES	NO	YES
The highest returns paid from the 1st of the month on all Savings Certificates opened by the 10th.	YES	NO	NO
Immediate access to your Savings Certificate funds with no notice required.	YES	NO	YES
Regulations provide that premature withdrawals from savings certificate accounts receive the passbook rate on the amount withdrawn. In addition, a penalty of up to 90 days interest will be forfeited.	YES	YES	YES
PACE SETTER CARD ACCOUNT (no service charge and a minimum balance of only $500) including... FREE TRAVEL SERVICE... FREE BUYING SERVICE... FREE PRESTIGE CARD... 10% DISCOUNTS ON DINING OUT... FREE QUARTERLY STATEMENTS... FREE FREES MONEY ORDERS... FREE FREE BARCLAYS TRAVELERS CHECKS... FREE NOTARY SERVICE... FREE MEMBERS' NEWSLETTER... PLUS the highest Regular Savings Account return — 5.25% per annum (5.47% annual yield)	YES	NO	NO
Highest-Earning Corporate Savings Accounts (for any purpose). 5.25% per annum (5.47% annual yield)	YES	NO	NO
FREE SAFE DEPOSIT BOXES available at selected offices Minimum balance $5,000	YES	NO	NO
FREE TELEPHONE TRANSFERS of funds to and from your checking account, from a 5.25% Savings Account that combines Day of Deposit to Day of Withdrawal Interest With-10 Extra Earning Days. Each Month Minimum transfer $500. (Another feature of our Pace Setter Card Account.) Minimum balance of $500 must remain.	YES	NO	NO

FACT... there's not a financial institution anywhere that can pay a higher interest return on insured savings than West Side Federal—open your account with us today!

WEST SIDE FEDERAL SAVINGS

MANHATTAN OFFICES:
1790 Broadway (at Columbus Circle)
1185 Ave. Of The Americas (at 46th St.)
32 East 42nd Street (near Madison Avenue)
26 Broadway (at Bowling Green)

STATEN ISLAND OFFICES:
DONGAN HILLS 1550 Richmond Road
ST. GEORGE 1 Main Street
WEST BRIGHTON: 741 Castleton Avenue
COMMUTER: St. George Ferry Terminal

ASSETS OVER $1 BILLION
OTHER OFFICES IN PUTNAM, ROCKLAND, ORANGE AND SULLIVAN COUNTIES

WE make it easier to save

M. SOKOLIN

AT THIS COUNTRY MARKET
$2.49 BOTTLE OF VINO
ROUCSE L'ABBAYE

WHITE WINE

RED WINE

WHITE WINE

RED WINE

Argentina Expected to Ban Nazi Tracts

AN DE ONIS
A New York Times
RES, Aug. 29
ilitary Governided to ban the istribution and anti-Semitic Nazi ofusion of which ing freely here, a high official aining the ban
red for signature
1. Jorge Rafael resident, whose rs consider the publications to right-wing cam-argentina toward two synagogues a cultural center desecrated com-the anti-Semitic Jewish leaders, is drawn both tracts of Hitler's from earlier and Russian atholic Church most important ation. Critics he Government of Nazi literae way that the writes "banned ionary periodi-pers that circu-re the armed r in March.
p sharply t revolutionary appeared, the me right-wing ure appearing increased sharp-ing Catholic nae Cabildo aps month after a year and ren Zionists and flow of anti-s been coming group called which is di-rico Rivanera
ing Peronist in ngtime propagandist of Nazi doctrine as the defense of the West against international Communism.
The latest issues of a so-called Library of Doctrinary Information distributed this month by Editorial Milicia offers Spanish translations of "The Protocols of the Elders of Zion" and of "The Ritual Crimes of the Jews," two anti-Semitic classics, with comments to the latter work by Julius Streicher, a Nazi chief who was executed after being condemned at the Nuremberg trials.
Mr. Streicher is referred to in an editorial note as a hero of Nuremberg and victim of a Jewish international conspiracy. A quote from Hitler is included: "He who is not attacked by the Jews is not a true nationalist."
Paperback Editions
There are paperback editions in Spanish of "Mein Kampf," Hitler's political autobiography, speeches by Joseph P. Goebbels, the Nazi propagandist, and the mystical racist tracts of Alfred Rosenberg. Prices range from $1 to $3, and newsstand operators say sales are brisk.
Some of the Nazi literature is in German and was apparently produced for export. This has led to an investigation by the West German Embassy since Nazi works are banned in that country.
The anti-Communist character of the Nazi literature is in step with the strong anti-Communist sentiment that exists in the Argentine armed forces. It also plays on the nationalist creed of various right-wing political groups long active in Argentina.
Some of these groups now have armed cadres with close military and police connections.
They have been killing persons suspected of complicity with left-wing subversives and guerrilla organizations that have been killing, kidnapping and

MACY'S CB RADIO

RALLY AND SALE

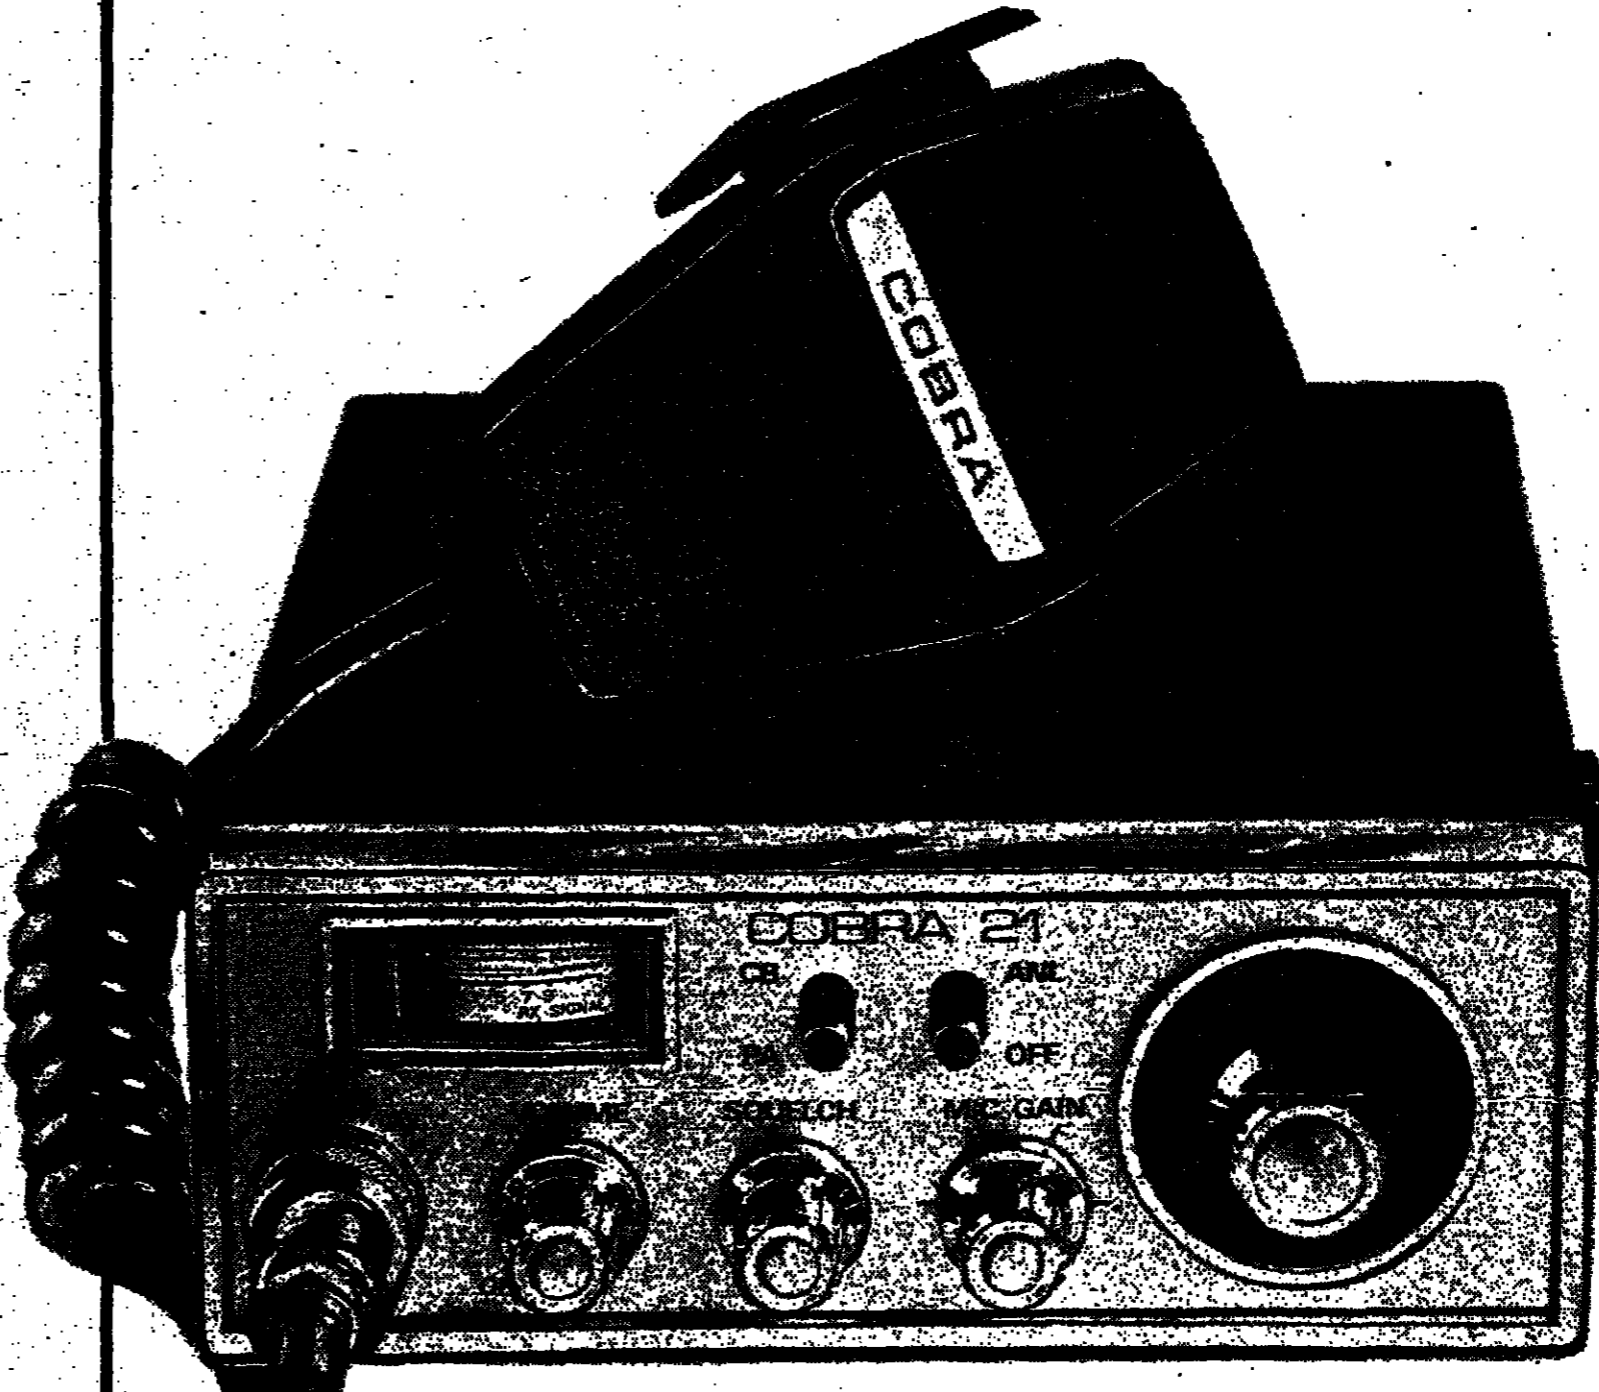

Every CB radio at Macy's on sale this Monday through Saturday

And, that's not all! The boast toasties (CB experts) are going to be at Macy's all week! Learn to shout. Become a fog lifter. Converse with good buddies and more! Whether you own a boat, car, camper or truck, we've got what you need. In fact, Macy's has one of the largest selections of CB mobile radios, base stations, antennas and accessories in the metropolitan area. So check out your nearest Macy's home-20 today!

- Demonstrations: Meet the boast toasties and find out everything you always wanted to know about CB's but were afraid to ask.
- Monday, August 30: Herald Square: 11:00-6:00 P.M. Colonie: 11:00-9:30 P.M.
 - Tuesday, August 31: Herald Square: 11:00-6:00 P.M. Kings Plaza: 6:00-9:30 P.M. Staten Island: 6:00-9:30 P.M.
 - Wednesday, September 1: Queens: 6:00-9:30 P.M.
 - Thursday, September 2: New Rochelle: 6:00-9:30 P.M. Massapequa: 6:00-9:30 P.M. Huntington: 6:00-9:30 P.M.
 - Friday, September 3: White Plains: 6:00-9:30 P.M. Roosevelt Field: 6:00-9:30 P.M. Smith Haven: 6:00-9:30 P.M. South Shore Mall: 6:00-9:30 P.M.

Bonus CB handbook (value $3) with any CB radio purchased.

- Here are just a few examples of the great CB values!
- Midland 862, regularly $110 sale $90
 - Midland 857, regularly $140 sale $110
 - Panasonic 3100, regularly $150 sale $130
 - Pace 123A, regularly $165 sale $145
 - Cobra 21, regularly $170 sale $155
 - Craig 4201, regularly $230 sale $218
 - Half price antenna sale! With purchase of any CB radio, stainless steel loaded trunk lip antenna, reg. $30 sale $15

Add $2 delivery. Radios (D. 123), 5th Fl., Herald Square, and the Macy's near you. Write or phone any day, any time. NYC: 971-6000, N.J.: (toll free) 800-221-6822 or call your nearest Macy's phone order number. Add sales tax. COD's on mail and phone orders within delivery area only.

*ded to Sat., Sept. 18, Closed Sat. Sept. 4

WINE MERCHANT

W.M. SOKOLIN says 'WHAT THIS COUNTRY NEEDS IS GOOD $2.49 BOTTLE OF WINE'...

AUL BOCUSE L'ABBAYE ROUGE

How do I know its "good"?
Try one (after all 2.49, inflation etc.) gamble.
Where do I find it?
Sokolin Co. (WINEMERCHANTS)
3-34 Sts. Madison Ave.—to 6:30 p.m. daily
Now open Sat., except Sept. 4
How about a really sensational white wine?
Bocuse Pinot Chardonnay (3.33 bottle)—case $36—cases each $33.
Why should I carry?
Pick up any 3 cases at the 6-case rate.
What else is really terrific?
967 Mouton, Lafite, Latour—All $14.00 a bottle. De Pez 1970 and Gloria 1967 (both $5), 1971 Beychevelle ($75cs.), Increde 1971 Haut Brion (15. bottle). Special quantity case prices—
r. Gibson 684-3827.

ONE CASE	ANY 3 CASES
$79.95	$185

WHITE WINES	RED WINES
75 TRONCHOS CHENON BLANC $38.00	BOCUSE L'ABBAYE ROUGE $27.00
70 CH. L'HERMITAGE (SAUTERNES) 35.88	74 CHUSCLAN (BOUVE-VILLAGES) 29.95
74 CHUSCLAN (RHONE) OR 1974 ST. VERAN 29.95	73 L'ECLOS (BOUVE-VILLAGES) 27.00
75 GROS PLANT (LITERS) 35.00	74 CH. FONSCOLMBE (VDOS) 29.95
75 PINOT CHARDONNAY 33.00	71 CH. PUYRAT 27.00
74 LA LIGNE BLANC DE BLANC 29.95	74 BEAULIEUX VILLAGES (LITERS) 29.95
74 MESCADET OR 1975 VIOGNAY 29.95	74 BROUILLY (SCHOONMAKER) 29.95
74 CH. FONSCOLMBE (VDOS) 29.95	75 FLUER (18-bottle case) 36.00

RED WINES	WHITE WINES
1971 CH. LASCOMBES (MARGAUX) $42.00	71 CH. MEUSSECC (SAUTERNES) 36.00
67/70/71 CH. GLORIA (ST. JULIEN) 42.00	73 CHARLES GR. CRU LES PREUSES (FEVRE) 42.00
71 CALOR SEGRU (ST. ESTEPHE) 42.00	CHARLES PREMIER CRU VAILLON (FEVRE) 42.00
71 DE SALES (POMEROL) 42.00	72 MEURSAULT (PONTNET-AMPEAUX) (G4-16) 42.00
71 HERMITAGE (SCHOONMAKER) 42.00	71 CH. SAVINE MOUSSEAU (SAUTERNES) 42.00
65 NUTT ST. GEORGES (GILLES) 42.00	73 MEURSAULT (PROPEAU-MIGNON) 42.00
73 VOSNE ROMANEE (GRIVOT) 42.00	73 PULIGNY-MONTRACHET (LEFLAIVE) 42.00
69 BRANARE DUCRU (ST. JULIEN) 42.00	71 NERSTENER REHBACH SPAETLESE (SCHNITZ) 42.00
71 CH. CLOS RENÉ (POMEROL) 42.00
71 CH. PAYVE (ST. EMILION) 42.00
71 CH. GRAND PUY LACOSTE (PAULLAC) 42.00
70 CH. CLOS FOURTET (ST. EMILION) 42.00

D. SOKOLIN CO.
178 Madison Ave. (33-34 Sts.) New York 10016
IMMEDIATE ORDER LE 2-5893, MU 4-3828
Available Again—LM 8 yr. 86 Pf. Scotch—$6.66 qt.
(BOTTLED BY SCOTLAND)

OFFICE PRODUCTS CLOSE-OUTS

Full Suspension Lateral Files $99.99. Complete with lock, A2 drawer, lateral file for letter and legal size material, 30"x18"x29", black and tan. Full 5 year warranty. Delivery $5 per unit for walnut laminated top. Add $16.50.

Art Steel-Steelmaster Full Suspension File Cabinets. 5 Drawer $89.99, 4 Drawer $69.99, 3 Drawer $59.99, 2 Drawer $49.99. Legal $179.99, Legal $139.99, Legal $119.99, Legal $99.99.

All Purpose Steel Shelving Pac. Complete unit of 5 shelves, 4 posts, nuts, bolts & swivel-braces. PS171-12 Deep 36"Wx72"H $21.95. PS1872-18 Deep 36"Wx72"H $29.95. PS2472-24 Deep 36"Wx72"H $34.95.

Lamps - 40% Off. Acme Black Red White Grey 24" $15.99. Tensor Black Only 30" $15.99. Ledu Fluorescent Lamp Grey Only 64" $39.99.

Oxford Pendaflex Hanging Folder. Letter Size Values 7.56 $3.99. Legal Size Values 8.75 $4.49.

Vinyl Chair Mat with Textured Surface 50% Off. 45x53 $29.99. 48x60 $32.99. No. 704 Upholstered in Naugahyde Vinyl $39.99.

Panasonic Electric Pencil Sharpener. Letter/legal economy storage file. Value $21.95 $17.76. 99¢.

Pads up to 60% Off. Letter Size Manilla 6.45 $1.99. Side Tabbed Folders 9.95 $1.99. Kraft Heavy Wt. 14 x 11 3.50 $3.99.

Save $50.00 on 3m's Newest Compact Copier Model 217. Regular Price $329.99. Our Sale Price $279.00.

Waldner's Mineola Farmingdale. 222 Old Country Rd., N.Y. 11501. 570 Cornhill St., N.Y. 11755. 516-747-7300.

Ocean Researchers See a Threat in Law of the Sea Conference

By Walter Sullivan

In 1776, Benjamin Franklin, convinced that the study of the seas transcends national considerations, wrote a pass for an English explorer's ship instructing captains of American naval vessels not to consider her an enemy.

Instead, the American diplomat said, the explorer, James Cook, and his men should be treated "as common friends of mankind" in view of their efforts to increase the knowledge of the world oceans.

This helped establish a tradition that achieved international status in 1853 in an agreement for the pooling of oceanographic and meteorological information collected by naval vessels of the United States and nine European powers, including Russia.

U.N. Talks Deadlocked

Today, however, in the view of many oceanographers, efforts that could jeopardize this tradition are being made at the current United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea. The current session, which began Aug. 2 at the United Nations headquarters in New York and is scheduled to end Sept. 17, is in deadlock, but the treaty delegates of 154 countries are working on it.

The proposed pact would establish national control over research in those waters, including virtually all of the Mediterranean, all of the Caribbean and most of the South-west Pacific. It would also provide for limited censorship over publication of scientific findings.

The current session is the fifth since the talks began in 1973, and widespread pessimism was expressed last week by American and other negotiators that it would be possible to reach the avowed goal of making sufficient progress so that final agreement on a treaty could be reached in a session to be held next year.

At the root of the constraints problem lies the concern of coastal countries, particularly among developing nations, that outsiders will deprive them of offshore resources and scientific data bearing on such resources obtained within the 200-mile limit of the proposed "exclusive economic zone."

At issue, as well, is the disposition of the resources that lie beyond such zones—particularly the metal-rich nodules that carpet much of the deep sea floor. Several consortiums of American and foreign companies are poised to begin fitting out large-scale mining vessels to exploit those resources.

Rich Area Discovered

One, Deepsea Ventures, of which United States Steel, a Belgium concern and Tenneco Corporation are the chief owners, has announced discovery of a rich area of manganese nodules in the eastern Pacific and laid claim to it. In 16 cruises it has dredged up 164 tons of nodules. With a full-scale mining ship, the company says, it could bring up 1.35 million wet metric tons of nodules a year.

This would yield annually 11,300 tons of nickel—economically the most attractive product—plus 9,150 tons of copper, 2,150 tons of cobalt and 253,000 tons of manganese.

The company statement, a "claim of exclusive mining rights and request for diplomatic protection and protection of investments," had been submitted to a long distribution list as well as a dozen embassies, including those of Britain and the Soviet Union. According to diplomatic sources, the British rejected it outright.

The State Department replied that in its view, until the outcome of the Law of the Sea Conference, deep ocean mining beyond the limits of national jurisdiction "may proceed as a freedom of the high seas." It said, however, that the department does not grant or recognize claims beyond national jurisdiction.

A Jamaican official and an American oceanographer examining ocean floor samples brought to the surface in a recent expedition over the Cayman Trough. International cooperation may be threatened by proposed constraints.

Furthermore, it added, "appropriate means" for settling such questions is the United Nations conference "and not unilateral claims."

The treaty draft before the current meeting provides that "the consent of the coastal state shall be obtained in respect of any research concerning the exclusive economic zone"—that is, the 200-mile zone. Although the purpose is to prevent outsiders from conducting research that infringes on economic rights, a number of oceanographers question the validity of this concern.

Dr. John A. Krauss, dean of the school of oceanography at the University of Rhode Island, has pointed out that the research vessel Atlantis II of the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, probing the sea floor off Angola in 1972, discovered a series of buried structures resembling the salt domes associated with oil.

It is difficult to see, he commented later, how this could do any economic harm to Angola. "To the contrary," he said, "it may encourage oil companies to negotiate exploration rights earlier than might otherwise have happened."

In the last few years oceanographers have had a sense of how the exercise of sovereignty 200 miles out to sea could handicap their operations. Several countries in Africa and South America have claimed such jurisdiction with regard to fisheries and other activities, including research.

The United States proclaimed its jurisdiction over the seabed up to a depth of 200 meters under President Harry S. Truman. And Congress passed an act this year, later signed by President Ford, that established an exclusive 200-mile fishing zone. The curbs on Japanese, Soviet and other foreign trawlers within 200 miles out to sea could handicap their operations.

Brazil requires application for a research permit six months in advance. Some governments, under internal public pressure, have held off issuing permits until prolonged delay has led to abandonment of the project.

Possible Source of Oil

Close to half of oceanographic research is done within 200 miles of land. That zone is where most marine life exists and the sea floor begins its transition from an oceanic to a continental structure.

In this transition zone are accumulations of sediment many miles deep that may contain some of the world's richest oil reservoirs. The water is so deep that ordinary drilling ships could not sink a well there with the casing and blow-out preventers needed to avoid catastrophic pollution.

In the treaty negotiations, which remain fluid, it is proposed that private enterprises exploiting the seabed beyond the 200-mile zone or continental shelf must obtain a license—presumably for a substantial fee. It would be issued by the operational arm of Enterprise, of the projected International Seabed Authority.

The Enterprise would reserve for its own exploitation half of the areas being mined and would contract with private companies to do the extraction. The profits of the Enterprise would be distributed, the developing nations hope, in a manner favoring them on the ground that the industrial nations have already taken more than their share of raw materials.

Landlocked countries would also share in the profits according to the principle stated in a treaty that sea-floor resources are "the common heritage of mankind."

The chief current interest of those developing a sea-floor mining technology is in nickel because at present the United States imports more than 70 per cent of its requirements of that metal. Sea-floor nodules contain many metals in trace amounts but substantial portions of nickel, cobalt, copper and manganese.

Big Saving for U.S.

It has been estimated that derivation of those four metals from the sea floor, rather than from other countries, could in the next 24 years save the United States $40 billion in its balance of payments.

The origin of sea-floor nodules is still a subject of controversy. It was originally suspected that they were formed by bacterial activity that extracted metallic material from seawater, particularly that material erupted by volcanic activity along midocean ridges. This is now questioned, however.

In May Conrad G. Welling of Lockheed said at a Senate hearing that over the last 12 years the Ocean Systems Division within the Lockheed Missiles and Space Company had been developing an ocean mining capability under his management. However, this project and those of rival groups are marking time before making the heavy investments needed to achieve full-scale mining. The cost, including an onshore processing plant, would be $300 million to $600 million, Mr. Welling said. This, he added, is "very attractive" when compared with costs of opening new mines on land and requires less energy.

Investors, he said, are holding back because of the "high probability" that a new international authority will "take control of the seabed resource, imposing currently underlined rules concerning production, price and royalties" that could destroy the economic viability of such a venture.

3 Mining Methods Tried

Three mining methods have been under development. One, essentially a vacuum cleaner, uses air to suck up the nodules. It is reportedly complex and rejects the larger nodules.

An alternate hydrolift system relies on upward water flow to carry the material to the surface. The third method involves a continuous line of buckets that are dragged along the bottom and brought to the mining ship.

The proposed seabed treaty emphasizes that any such enterprise must not damage the oceanic environment. It is feared that sediment brought to the surface and dumped would take many years to settle again, cutting off light from oceanic fauna and flora. Faster settling sediment could bury and kill bottom-living organisms.

If the nodules are processed at sea, toxic residues could be dumped overboard. It is believed, however, that at least initially processing on shore will be cheaper.

The treaty would probably have a profound effect on world fisheries, for each nation is expected to gain control over fishing rights out to 200 miles. This could eliminate foreign fishing off New England, if the United States so decided.

It could also, however, be used to ban American craft from the rich fishing grounds off Peru, Brazil and the rich tuna area in the Gulf of Guinea off West Africa.

ONE MILLION KIDS THE FRESH AIR FUND

YOUNG NEW YORKER. A stylized graphic with the words "YOUNG NEW YORKER" inside a circle, with a signature-like scribble to the right.

Advertisement for Young New Yorker shoes. It features a large image of a woman's legs wearing black high-heeled shoes. The text says "We love westerns," and describes the shoes as having a western theme, made of honeyed natural leather with crepe rubber sole and heel, and crepe outlining the heel. Price is $30.00 per pair.

the look of them, the dash of them. And so, three shoe designs on a western theme, all of them ours alone. In honeyed natural leather with crepe rubber sole and heel, crepe outlining the heel, too. From Italy, $30.00 the pair. Young New Yorker Shoes, Sixth Floor, Lord & Taylor—and at all Lord & Taylor stores.

Handwritten signature or mark at the bottom of the page.

روزنامه اطلاعات

Influence on Iran, Through Its Policies and Products, Is Gigantic and Diverse

Col. 2 aircraft ants have anties of ment are vary storined Iranoo hastily as train helicopters
American
Iran last

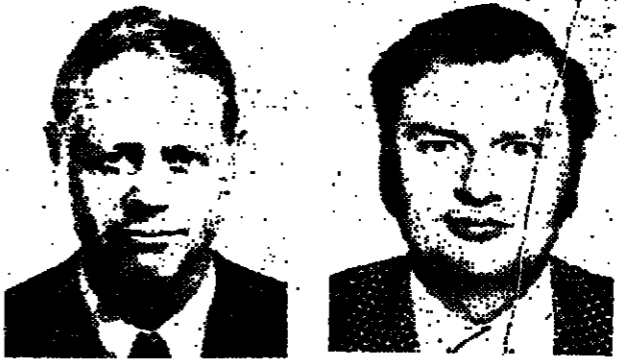

The scene of Saturday's ambush in Teheran. The Americans' car, a Dodge, was cut off by the Volkswagen from the rear and four terrorists appeared, firing into the Dodge with submachine guns.

for and d States nd United troops are r Gangi, s Prime ent interght more from the ons train e believe s furthest ohammed a recent ou supply
O.K., we you, we relations ist you."
t can't not depend can take chances."
A traveler signs of Iran's arms ever—even informed only a third $10 billion the United been deliv-Victim of Haste
There have of undue arms. One serenity of city of Is-Iranians boored Amer-instructors, Iranians to helicopters,
by drinking,
racing motor-United
years of an an-Iranian
ing one munica-ation.
an offi-"Islamic escaped ent and re have sutions.
United decades s diplored here financial er, was re-gen-d to re-financial United
was set Iranian
ry and nt bestantial ing in e Shah ed and on the decision almost he way States

ense of our country more and more: the U.N., outside pact-all of this is good, but you cannot depend on it entirely. We cannot take chances."
A traveler encounters many signs of faulty planning in Iran's arms acquisitions, however—even though one well-informed Teheran intellectual reported recently that roughly only a third of the more than $10 billion in arms ordered from the United States had actually been delivered.
The Shah himself, asked at the recent news conference whether the program was out of control, asserted: "As far as I know, I think we have absorbed these arms so far easily, very easily; whatever we will get in the future will also be absorbed."
Much of this expenditure is for sophisticated armaments, notably the complex Grumman
F-14 Tomcat fighter and a modified model of the Spruance-class destroyer, which is to be more sophisticated than those being obtained by the United States Navy.
And Secretary of State Henry
A. Kissinger said at a news conference here earlier this month that Iran planned to spend $10 billion for military purchases from the United States from 1975 through 1980.
Yet the delivery of further masses of advanced material—only 14 Tomcats have been delivered so far, and no Spruance-class destroyers—will clearly be something of a jolt in a country where the illiteracy rate is well over 50 percent and where military experts have reported that for years many Iranian conscripts needed glasses, or better glasses.
Pentagon Aide Disagreed
In this tightly disciplined state, there has been very little public discussion of the wisdom of the country's advanced arms acquisitions. The Iranian news media, which are Government owned or influenced, have not reported that the United States General Accounting Office has concluded that there are areas in which the Tomcat has not shown itself fully capable of defending American fleets against missiles.
"I feel that we in the Dein private, however, a traveller hears complaints, even among some United States military experts, that the Tomcat and some other items the Shah has been buying are indeed too complicated to be practical for use by the Iranian armed forces and, in some cases, are not needed anyway.

But it is understood that Grumman executives sold the Tomcat partly on the basis that it was the only plane capable of knocking out a Soviet Mig-25. This is a potent sales point here since Iran regards the Soviet Union, its neighbor, as a potential enemy.
The importance that the Shah's regime continues to ascribe to the F-14 and other sophisticated weapons was underscored in the Senate staff study. The authors, who visited Iran for 16 days this spring, reported: "We were told that because of the priority given to 'prestige' systerms such as the F-14, already-trained personnel assigned to other systems that are more relevant to near-term threats have been transferred to the newer systems, with a resultant unmeasurable degradation in overall force effectiveness."

Discreetly, United States officials have generally refrained from commenting publicly on the quality of Iranian military manpower. But one cashiered Bell pilot-instructor said these trainees just plain don't react to a near-miss situation," while another voiced his extreme reservations about ever flying in combat with most of them.
Yet well-placed Iranians say the Government, for better or worse, is trying to force the pace of social change and modernization precisely by making extreme demands on the Iranian labor force.
Under the circumstances, the United States military experts estimated that the number of Iranian military personnel involved in the area "the United States per date."
In addition, more than 40
American companies are estimated to have 2,941 employees in the country.
The Senate staff study reported that most informed observers believed that the total number of United States citizens in Iran "will increase to 50,000-60,000 or higher by the end of the decade"—although some accounts this year project that there were a crisis in infancy in the United States percentage of the United States expatriates. Informed patriots endorse the Senate study's carefully hedged statement that "there is general agreement among the U. S. personnel involved with the Department of Defense person-Iranian programs that it is unlikely that Iran could go to war in the next 5 to 10 years. Exact figures are available, and with its current and prospective purchases to them, they had 1,941 dependents with inventory. L. e., purchases to date, of sophisticated weapons (as distinct from some of the less sophisticated ground equipment) but without U. S. support on a day-to-day basis."
But the Shah gave a surprisingly harsh answer when he was asked by an American journalist this spring what he would do if Washington were to cease providing Iran with arms.
"If you try to take an unfriendly attitude toward my country, we can hurt you as badly, if not more so, than you can hurt us," he said, adding, "not just through oil—we can create trouble for you in the region; if you force us to change our friendly attitude the repercussions will be immeasurable."

Robert R. Krongard, left, and William C. Cottrell were two of three Americans killed. They worked for a company that has contracts with the Iranian armed forces.

South Africa Will Revise Plan For Territory, Paper Reports

By JOHN F. BURNS
Special to The New York Times
JOHANNESBURG, Aug. 29—South Africa will adjust the plans announced for the independence of South-West Africa in an attempt to head off United Nations sanctions, according to a report published here today.
The report, in the Sunday Times of Johannesburg, said South Africa would inform the Security Council that elections would be held in the territory before Dec. 31, 1978, the date set for the territory's independence. The report said international observers would be invited to monitor the elections.
Citing informed sources in Pretoria and Windhoek, the territory's capital, the report said South Africa would also indicate its readiness to include the South-West African People's Organization in talks on the region's future. The organization is recognized by the United Nations as the representative of the people of the territory, called Namibia by the United Nations.
The deadline set by the Security Council for South African agreement to United Nations conditions for the territory's independence expires Tuesday. The Council has threatened to impose sanctions against South Africa unless Pretoria accepts free elections under United Nations supervision.
Earlier this month, a constitutional conference in Windhoek announced that it had set the 1978 date as the provisional target for independence. It said a multiracial government would be established before then to take over from the all-white Government that now administers the territory.
However, the conference made no mention of elections or of the South African People's Organization. The omission led most African states to dismise the proposal out of hand. The United States attitude has been more cautious, but a State Department spokesman was critical of the absence of any provision for elections.
The report today said the message to the Security Council could be delayed until after a second meeting between Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Prime Minister John Vorster. That meeting, the report said, could take place next month. South Africa's objective in the talks has been to secure agreement for a big-power veto of sanctions.

I'M TAKING THIS SET FROM WARM-UP TO MATCH POINT

As an experienced tennis player, I know the importance of a good tennis racket. I've tried many different rackets, but I've found that the Wilson Staff tennis racket is the best. It's made of the finest materials and is built to last. It's also very comfortable to use and gives me the power and control I need to win. I'm taking this set from warm-up to match point. Wilson Staff tennis racket. The Wilson Staff tennis racket is the best. It's made of the finest materials and is built to last. It's also very comfortable to use and gives me the power and control I need to win. I'm taking this set from warm-up to match point. Wilson Staff tennis racket.

Wilson Staff
Tennis Racket

quality wide choice foam mattresses
$58-$289
Lattaflex
150 E. 58th St. 15th Fl. (betw. 3rd & Lex)
New York, N.Y. 10022 (212) 753-5877 10:30-5
Closest Salesmen visit after Labor Day

12 Senior Congressmen From South Are Retiring

By ROY REED
Special to The New York Times

MONROE, La., Aug. 29—Representative Otto E. Passman is one of a dozen senior Congressmen from the South who will not return to the House next year.

The others are retiring voluntarily. Mr. Passman was defeated for a 16th term in a Democratic primary Aug. 14.

Age and fatigue are the main reasons being given for the retirement of most of the other 11. Age, along with other factors, was one probable reason for Mr. Passman's surprising defeat. He is 76 years old. The man who beat him is 35.

All 12 retirees are Democrats and almost all are conservatives. The younger persons replacing them are likely to be less conservative in most cases, but not all.

Jerry Huckaby, the dairy farmer who ousted Mr. Passman, could turn out to be as conservative as the man he defeated, if he should get past a surprisingly strong and equally conservative Republican in the November general election.

Democrats are likely to win easily in all but two or three of the retiring Congressmen's districts. In the doubtful districts, Democrats are still betting favorites except in one south Florida district that has become heavily Republican in recent years.

Representative Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, who is 67, is the best known of the senior Southerners leaving the House. The former chairman of the Ways and Means Committee has been relatively uninvolved in the House's legislative battles during his final term. He has concentrated instead on regaining his health after subduing a problem with alcoholism.

The person heavily favored to succeed him is Arkansas Attorney General James Guy Tucker, 33, an aggressive Democrat with a reputation as a friend of consumers. Mr. Tucker won the Democratic nomination and is expected to defeat a Republican in November without difficulty.

The other retiring representatives are: F. Edward Hébert of Louisiana, 74, a 36-year veteran who was chairman of the Armed Services Committee until he was ousted in a shakeup of senior committee chairmen last year.

Robert E. Jones of Alabama, 64, a New Deal Democrat from the Tennessee Valley Authority region and perhaps the most liberal of the retiring Southern Congressmen. He has been in office 30 years. He is chairman of the Public Works and Transportation Committee.

Phil M. Landrum of Georgia, 66, co-author of the Landrum-Griffin bill that arouses the ire of organized labor. He has been in office 24 years.

Robert G. Stephens Jr. of Georgia, 63, a 16-year veteran and along with Representative Joe D. Waggoner Jr. of Louisiana, 57, an unofficial leader of the Southern conservatives who frequently align themselves with Republicans.

James A. Haley of Florida, 77, chairman of the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee and a 24-year veteran. His district in southwest Florida might elect a Republican this year. A strong Republican possibility is Joe Z. Lovin-good, who has run three close races in that district in the past.

Thomas N. Downing of Virginia, 57, chairman of the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee. He has been in Congress 18 years.

David N. Henderson of North Carolina, 55, chairman of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee and a 16-year veteran.

Roy A. Taylor of North Carolina, 66, another 16-year veteran. He is chairman of the National Parks and Recreation Subcommittee of the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee. He represents a mountain district that has a strong Republican minority.

Joe L. Ewins of Tennessee, 65, who has represented his largely rural district for 30 years. He will be replaced by Albert A. Gore Jr., son of the former Senator and, like his father, moderately liberal.

W. S. Stuckey Jr. of Georgia, 69, has been in the House 10 years and was presumed to be headed for a lifetime membership until he announced that he was retiring at age 41.

Replacements for all the retirees will not be known until after several remaining primary runoffs and general election contests.

Aid From Carter

The Presidential candidacy of Jimmy Carter of Georgia is expected to aid Democratic Congressional candidates across the South except perhaps in a few intensely conservative districts such as this one in north-east Louisiana.

Mr. Huckaby, the Democratic nominee to succeed Mr. Passman, is aligning himself with Mr. Carter only in the most gingerly fashion. He is aware that Republican Presidential candidates have carried this area for a generation and that, except for his being a Southerner, Mr. Carter has no special strength here.

This is an extremely conservative and largely rural district that borders on Arkansas and the Mississippi River. Its Congressman is expected to respond to the interests of oil, gas, timber and rich Delta farming.

Mr. Passman had faced little opposition in the past. He generally won with about 75 percent of the vote. This year, however, he seemed unprepared for what turned out to be several obstacles.

At 76, he apparently had lost touch with parts of his district, according to some political sources. One man said Mr. Passman seemed to prefer to spend Congressional vacations traveling outside the country instead of in his district. He has been chairman for years of the Foreign Operations Subcommittee of the Appropriations Committee and has used the post to keep a wary eye on foreign aid.

2 Disclosures

He was plagued this year by two embarrassing disclosures. The first was an article in The Wall Street Journal saying he had padded his expense account by accepting automobile mileage money, then using the less expensive airlines for transportation to Louisiana. He replied that his expense account was his own business, but he repaid the difference.

The New York Times reported this summer that Mr. Passman was being investigated by Agriculture Department agents for allegedly using his Congressional powers to coerce foreign aid recipients to hire favored shipping agents. He denied the accusation and said he was trying to help American businesses.

The latter report had little circulation in northeast Louisiana until Mr. Passman reproduced it in local newspaper advertisements and pointed to it as evidence that his opponent was being aided by the liberal Eastern press.

Mr. Huckaby said one factor in Mr. Passman's defeat was his vote in 1971 against a proposed Constitutional amendment to overturn the Supreme Court's decision banning prayer in public schools. This is fundamentalist Protestant territory and Mr. Passman's vote apparently was interpreted by some as opposing prayer, a perception that Mr. Huckaby cultivated and encouraged in his advertising.

In addition to all this, Mr. Huckaby apparently was seen as a young, vigorous alternative to an aging member of the Washington establishment.

"People are tired of power-

Betty Ford speaking to reporters in Vail, Colo.

BETTY FORD SEES 'VERY TOUGH' RACE

Says Her Choice for Second Spot Was Rockefeller

VAIL, Colo., Aug. 29 (AP)—Betty Ford predicts a "very tough campaign" between her husband and the Democratic Presidential candidate, Jimmy Carter, in which President Ford's pardon of former President Richard M. Nixon will be made an issue by the Democrats.

She said she was "quite surprised" by her husband's selection of Senator Robert J. Dole of Kansas as his running mate. Mrs. Ford, who said she was not consulted by her husband on political strategy or policy, said she would have liked to have seen Vice President Rockefeller sharing the ticket with her husband.

Mrs. Ford said that her husband's pardon of his White House predecessor for any crimes he may have committed in the cover-up of the Water-gate affair has already been injected into the campaign by the "very subtle way" Mr. Carter and his running mate, Senator Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, keep saying that they are "not going to mention the Nixon pardon."

Asked if she thought that this was fair, she said, "Well, I think it's bringing up the pardon."

Mrs. Ford made her comments in a two-hour interview here before a blazing fire, with members of her family, including the President, walking in and out. Mr. Ford returned to the Washington tonight from the family's vacation here, but Mrs. Ford will stay until Saturday.

Mrs. Ford predicts her husband would win the Nov. 2 election because he is "the best equipped."

But, if he does not, she said, "I won't be broken-hearted," because "he'll go back to law practice and I'll win either way."

"We'll be able to see more of each other, do more things together," she said. Mrs. Ford, who created a stir when she said in an interview last year that she would not be surprised if her daughter, Susan, told her she was having an affair, was asked if her 19-year-old daughter had yet had an affair.

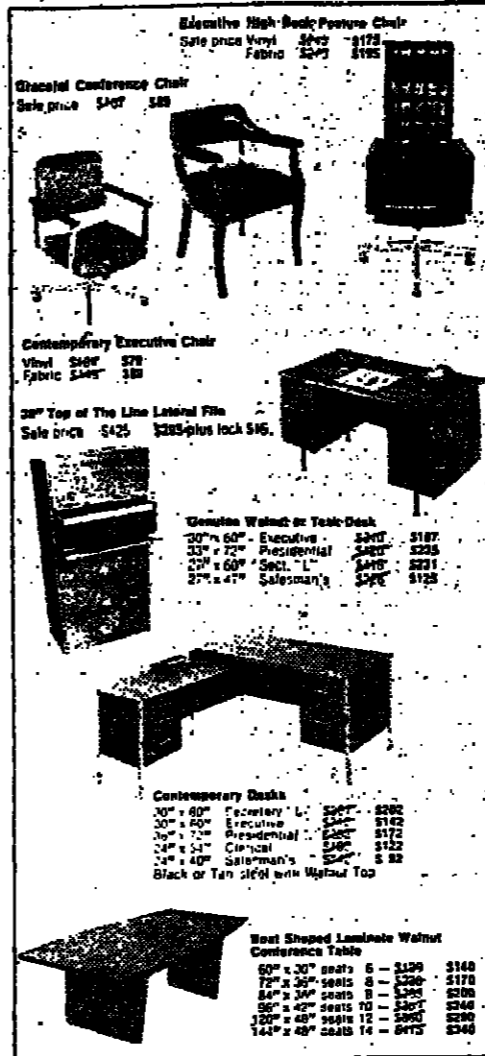

Susan, who was lying on a couch next to her mother, in shorts, tennis shirt and bare feet, declared firmly, "Nope."

In a family exchange, Mrs. Ford disclosed that she was "dying to be a grandmother," as national health insurance but hastily added to Susan: "But not by you, dear."

How can you save when you buy office furniture

Ask a smart Dallek. He'll furnish you with answers. He's an expert. He's a planner, a designer and a friend.

Buy your furniture from a smart Dallek and he'll plan your entire office, FREE. He'll give you interior layouts and color plans, plus hundreds of desks, chairs, tables, files and lighting arrangements to choose from. Come by. He'll show you how to make your office work.

Whether you buy a desk, or a whole floor of them, he'll furnish you ideas. Free! Now you beat a deal that.

(Just check the prices of page and you see what we Smart L

You bet. Two convenient locations. 50 (nr. Spring & 287 Madison (near 40th St. (212) 966-4

Dallek

EVENTFUL ORIENT-FULL RUG WEEK!

Save hundreds, maybe thousands of dollars for one week only on one-of-a-kind Oriental rugs, hand-woven by master weavers, hand-picked by Mr. Moomjy of Einstein Moomjy. New and used Orientals, recent imports, semi-antiques, collector's choices from private estates! All from the great Oriental art centers of China, Iran, Pakistan, Afghanistan, India, the USSR. All sizes, all colors, all guaranteed investment values. And we guarantee shipment all over the world. The best of the East for the least, now through Labor Day at

Einstein Moomjy The Carpet Department Store

PARAMUS, 526 Route 17/Ext. 163 Garden State Pkwy. No. 1, 201/265-1100. N. PLAINFIELD, 934 Route 22, 201/755-6800. LAWRENCEVILLE, 2801 Alt. Route 1 (next to Herman Spiegel), (609) 883-0700. Open daily to 9 pm. Saturday to 5 pm.

HOW TO GET FROM NEW YORK TO OUR PARAMUS STORE: Cross George Washington Bridge. Take Route 4 to Route 17 North. Follow Route 17 for 2.5 miles. Einstein Moomjy is on your right.

Nixon Clashes May '76

The impression is that... is not dark enough... of distinctly from... background, and he... a shabby look... the press soon... of a 15-minute ex... have... he had... professional manner... was eventually... problems that... surprise in seeing... is that he looks... better than leg... to expect, his di... was real. He had... had then banged... injected energy... on a car door before entering... The impression of... is striking... the time he effective... devote's problem... it was finding... to make his rival's... and assertive tone... the record of... Adm... sounding de... Issue of Experience... had... Mr. Nixon's... being... to turn... his... But ex... prove to be... seemed to... many facts... For Mr... was a great... the "ma... Cater wrote... up the... to Mr... the Soviet... it only... the risk... as... House aide... said the... Ford would... Presidential... knowledge of... seemed... and... the... to be... Susan... the... Round Two... Ford's... Carter... will... pressure... in... some... 1976... the... second... He... profes... more... steady... and... the... the... as a result... Their... support for... among... had... been... about him... Of course, the strategy be... 1976 and 1980... down... a number of ways... Mr. Ford is President... is regarded as the under... Mr. Nixon was not... however, neither candidate... the... 1960... And... the... be more volatile... and open to impressions... In this latter connection... Professor Michael Robinson, a political scientist at American University, notes that... have increased... in the last 16 years... A major change is in the... the television... in producing the... The 1960 encounter... place in television... with the television... the candidates on... detail—the lighting, the... because of... Mr. Nixon's... even... the... director for the second... debate, recalled feeling... Mr. Kennedy's... Leonard... was... "In the... of showing... Time Magazine Poll Shows Ford Closing In on Carter... President Ford, fresh from his victory at the Republican National Convention, has narrowed the gap against the Democratic Presidential nominee, Jimmy Carter, according to a Time magazine poll released yesterday... The poll said that the President now commanded 49 percent of the vote against 28 percent, and that Mr. Carter's support had slipped to 45 percent.

Kennedy-Nixon Debates a Key That '76 Clashes May Hold

BY VELD
 His suit is not dark enough to set him off distinctly from the gray background, and his face has a chalky look—the result, the press soon discovered, of a last-minute application of a cosmetic called "Lazy Shave" after he had refused professional makeup.

So much was eventually written about Mr. Nixon's makeup problems that the biggest surprise in seeing the debate now is that he looks much better than legend has led one to expect. His discomfort was real: He had come to the debate tired and ill and had then banged a previously infected kneecap on a car door before entering the studio.

But the impression of stress, while distinct, is fleeting. Most of the time he effectively commands attention.

But Mr. Nixon's problem in the first debate was more than cosmetic. It was finding a way to match his rival's sharp and assertive tone and defend the record of the Eisenhower Administration without sounding defensive.

Issue of Experience
 Also, "experience" had been one of Mr. Nixon's major campaign selling points; the suggestion being that it would be dangerous to turn over the country to his lesser-known rival. But experience did not prove to be a something that "televized" well.

His opponent seemed to know at least as many facts as Mr. Nixon did. For Mr. Kennedy, television was a great equalizer. He closed the "maturity gap," Mr. Carter wrote at the time, by proving himself "able to stand up to the man who stood up to Khrushchev," a reference to Mr. Nixon's impromptu televised "debate" with the Soviet Prime Minister.

If there is a parallel between 1960 and 1976, it only serves to underscore the risk President Ford is running as the first incumbent to debate a foe. A White House aide, Richard B. Cheney, said the other day that Mr. Ford would demonstrate "Presidential experience and knowledge of the issues."

Mr. Carter's newness on the national scene and lack of foreign policy experience are obviously going to be price Republican issues. But if 1960 provides any clues, the debates could give the Georgian an opportunity to neutralize them.

Round Two
 Presumably, Mr. Ford's aides hope that Mr. Carter will crumple under pressure as Mr. Nixon is sometimes supposed to have done in 1960. But the Vice President came back to the second debate in fighting trim: He was better-attuned; professionally made-up; more aggressive and obviously intent on keeping his gaze steady and his hands from fluttering.

In the numerous opinion surveys made at the time, there is scant evidence that he lost support as a result of the debates. Their most important effect, it appears, was to solidify support for Mr. Kennedy among wavering Democrats who had previously been unenthusiastic about him.

Of course, the analogy between 1976 and 1960 breaks down in a number of ways: Mr. Ford is President; also, he is regarded as the underdog as Mr. Nixon was not. Moreover, neither candidate has demonstrated the forensic skills of his 1960 precursors. And, finally, the electorate may be more volatile and open to impressions.

In this letter connection, Professor Michael Robinson, a political scientist at American University, notes that party loyalties have loosened dramatically in the last 16 years.

A major change is in the role of the television networks in producing the debates. The 1960 encounters took place in television studios, with the television consultants of the candidates on hand in the control rooms to bargain and haggle on every detail—the lighting, the camera angles and, because of Mr. Nixon's perspiration problem, even the temperature.

Frank Singland of NBC, the director for the second debate, recalled feeling that Mr. Kennedy's consultant, Leonard Reinsch, was "leaning on my shoulder" in the hope of showing Mr.

Time Magazine Poll Shows Ford Closing In on Carter
 President Ford, fresh from his victory at the Republican National Convention, has narrowed the gap against the Democratic Presidential nominee, Jimmy Carter, according to an opinion poll released yesterday by Time magazine, the Reuters news agency reported.

In the survey, the opinion research concern of Yankelevitch, Skelly and White Inc. said that Mr. Ford had cut Mr. Carter's lead by three percentage points.

The poll said that the President now commanded 40 percent of the vote, against 38 percent before the Democratic Convention, and that Mr. Carter's support had slipped to 48 percent from 47 percent.

Time Magazine Poll Shows Ford Closing In on Carter
 President Ford, fresh from his victory at the Republican National Convention, has narrowed the gap against the Democratic Presidential nominee, Jimmy Carter, according to an opinion poll released yesterday by Time magazine, the Reuters news agency reported.

In the survey, the opinion research concern of Yankelevitch, Skelly and White Inc. said that Mr. Ford had cut Mr. Carter's lead by three percentage points.

The poll said that the President now commanded 40 percent of the vote, against 38 percent before the Democratic Convention, and that Mr. Carter's support had slipped to 48 percent from 47 percent.

Most Reagan Aides Are Saying 'No' to Job Offers From Ford Camp

By CHRISTOPHER LYDON
 President Ford's campaign has had only indifferent success recruiting the Ronald Reagan operatives who made it such a long and hard contest for the Republican nomination.

John P. Sears, the Reagan high strategist who asked not to be asked into the Ford campaign this fall, is at home in Virginia these days working on a magazine article, consulting with television networks about news coverage and looking forward to high fees on a campus lecture tour.

Lyn Notziger, who was Mr. Sears's deputy, is on the verge of becoming political counsel to Mr. Ford's running mate, Senator Robert J. Dole of Kansas, who was Mr. Notziger's boss at the Republican National Committee in the first Nixon Administration. James Lake, Mr. Reagan's press secretary, welcomed Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz's invitation to organize "farmers for Ford."

But most of the other ranking Reagan men have said "no" to Ford offers. Martin Anderson, the issues specialist, told the White House he wanted to be available to help Mr. Reagan on his speaking tour this fall.

Anderson Carter, the chief Reagan delegate hunter, has purposefully disappeared into the Southwest. David Keene, who ran the Reagan operation in the South, has taken a fellowship at the Kennedy Institute of Politics at Harvard University. Darryl Trent, the Reagan finance director, has returned to the faculty at Stanford.

Charles Black, formerly chief of staff to Senator Jesse A. Helms, Republican of North Carolina, was offered the job of running the Ford campaign in the South, but he backed off.

"They've got some pretty tough states down there," Mr. Black remarked last week about the campaign against Jimmy Carter, the Democratic nominee. "And I couldn't jump out of bed for Ford every morning with the same enthusiasm as I did with Reagan."

Mr. Black, who worked the Northeast for Mr. Reagan, is still considering an assignment with Senator Dole. "At least," he said, "I wouldn't have the motivational problem of going to work for a High-ranking Democrats and not a few Republicans found it a bush-league stunt that the official Republican platform (not to mention several convention orators at Kansas City) mispronounced the name of "Democrat Party." Will the long-forgotten war of lost syllables be resumed? "I want to call them the Republic," said an official of the Democratic National Committee. "Other people are suggesting 'Repps,' 'Repubs,' and 'Publicans.'"

More than 20 years ago, when Thomas E. Dewey and Senator Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin were trying to make "Democrat Party" common usage, the Republican Party chairman, Leonard Hall, justified dropping the "D" on the ground that "their claims that they represent the great mass of the people, and we don't, is just a lot of bunk." William Safire's compendium, "The New Language of Politics," recalls that some Democrats suggested retitling with "Publicans" at the time but were overruled on the ground that Republican "is the name by which our opponents' product is known and mistrusted."

Never before has the "Democrat Party" coinage been written into the Republican platform, and it barely slipped in this year. Representative David C. Treen of Louisiana and State Senator Charles Pickering of Mississippi pressed for the shorter form in the early platform meetings but were firmly opposed by Senator Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska and Arthur Petersen, the platform committee staff director. Steven Hess, the writer who actually drafted the platform's words, wrote, "Democrat Party," but was rewritten by an unidentified hand in the last-minute confusion in Kansas City.

Such well-known sparring partners as Muhammad Ali, the heavyweight champion, and Howard Cosell, the television reporter, and, in another pairing, "All in the Family's" Archie Bunker, played by Carroll O'Connor, and "Meathead," his son-in-law played by Rob Reiner, have done "public service" television commercials for the Democratic Party's voter registration drive. The "public service" tag means that the spot ads are not outwardly partisan—and that the Democrats expect television stations to use the spots without charge.

"Friendly adversaries" in each of the ads make the point, in effect: If people like you are going to register and vote, I'm going to register and vote just to even the score.

President Ford was disappointed 10 days ago when John B. Connally turned down the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee. But Mr. Connally's old friend, Robert S. Strauss, who heads the Democratic National Committee, was downright crushed.

Some people said Mr. Connally rejected the job because he thinks the Republicans are in for a bad year. But it was not that, Mr. Connally told Mr. Strauss, his one-time roommate at the University of Texas. The real problem, Mr. Connally explained, was that there just isn't much prestige in being a party chairman.

ONE MILLION KIDS
 THE FRESH AIR FUND

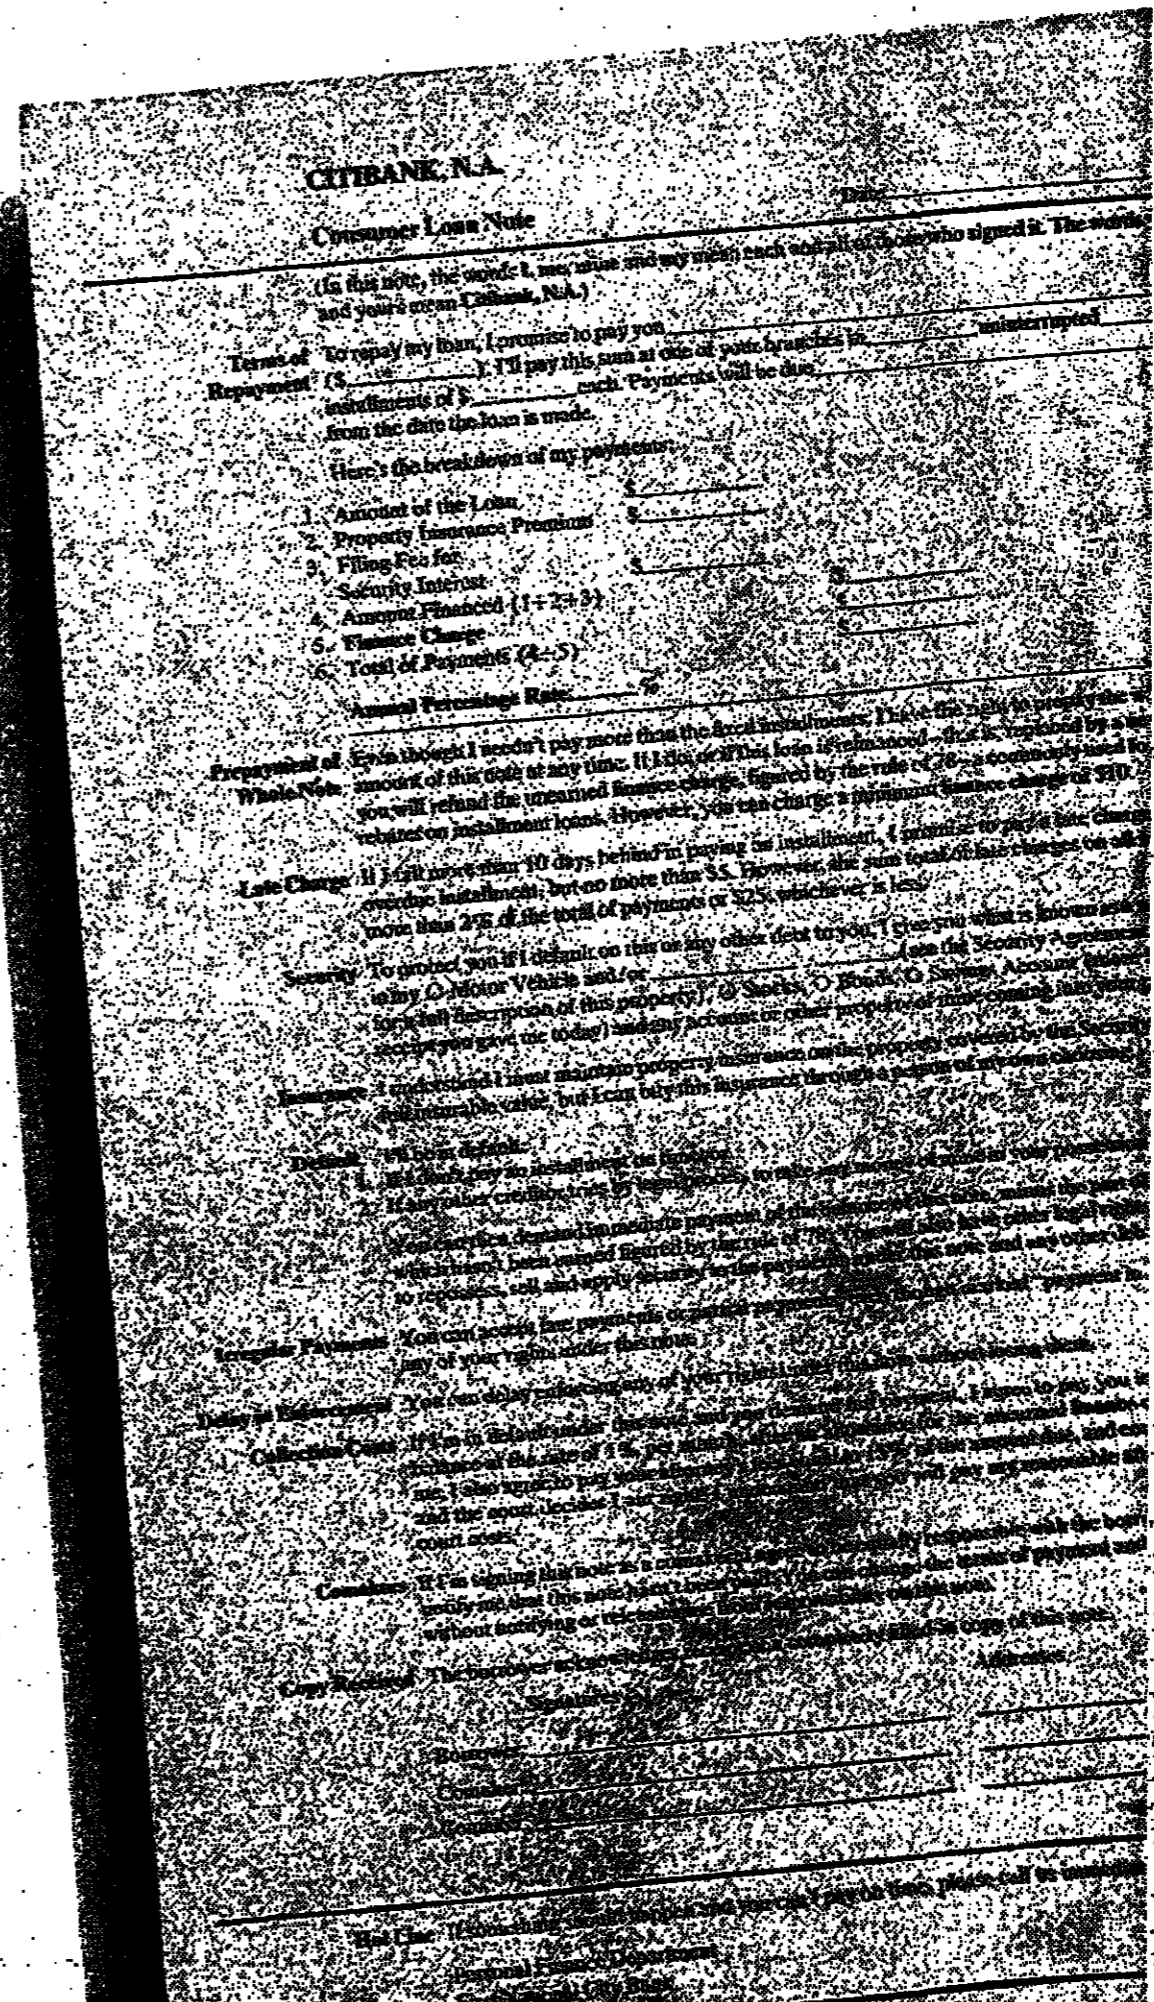

The first loan agreement you don't have to be a lawyer to understand.

Think about the last loan agreement you had to sign. Chances are, you never fully understood what you were signing. The document was just too long and complex. And filled with too many strange legal phrases. You just had to sign it. And hope for the best.

Citibank has changed all that. With the first loan agreement written for the layman instead of the lawyer. We've taken out the fine print. Removed the excess language. Eliminated the legal gibberish. And completely revised the format.

Everything is laid out clearly. In simple words we can all understand. So you know exactly what you have to do to keep your part of the loan bargain. And exactly what we have to do to keep ours.

The Citibank Simplified Loan Agreement. We think everybody has a right to know what he or she is signing. Even if you don't happen to be a lawyer.

Only Eastern two-on-the-air

Later t
with 2-1

Action, drama, n s will be availab flights.
And on most of t seatings you'll is all part of Ea

مستأمن الابل

هاتفنا من اجل

THE NEW YORK TIMES. MONDAY, AUGUST 30, 1976

Just what you need to get you to San Juan.

Later this fall Eastern will introduce in-flight movies with 2-by-2 seating on wide-body L-1011 Whisperliners.

Action, drama, romance and comedy. Top-flight movies will be available to you in-flight to Puerto Rico on all our L-1011 flights.

And on most of those flights you'll have the comfort of 2-by-2 seating; you'll never be more than one seat from the aisle. It's all part of Eastern's great service to Puerto Rico.

Convenient flights, great vacation packages, stereophonic music and movies—coming soon to an Eastern L-1011 near you.

For more information or reservations, call your travel agent or Eastern at 986-5000 in New York or 621-2121 in Newark.

We've got the right time and the right place for you. This fall, it's show time in our theatre in the sky.

EASTERN THE WINGS OF MAN

*THE WINGS OF MAN IS A REGISTERED SERVICE MARK OF EASTERN AIR LINES, INC.

Jolas Winning Recognition in U.S.

By DONAL HENAHAN... not as she had the life lived. For one year was in Paris...

the literary or artistic avant-garde in those days. "I was just a little girl playing the piano in the Transition days..."

"I can be more intelligent in French," Miss Jolas said with an apologetic smile. "But these days I actually wake up speaking English..."

Not 'Brilliant' Student... Miss Jolas was in this country from 1940 to 1946, returned to Paris on her 20th birthday...

Betsy Jolas

mediately take off. "I was never a brilliant student, and I never got a first prize in anything..."

Enjoys Free Atmosphere... But she studied composition with Milhaud, Messiaen and others and her works began winning awards. "This year I was on the jury of the Prix de Rome..."

Taylor and His Dance Troupe in a Brilliant 'Creative Binge'

By DONAL HENAHAN

show Mr. Taylor and his dancers in a special sensibility with "Clovean Kingdom," which is an expansive view, a rather cynical view of human sexuality...

Paul Taylor

explodes across the stage. The dancers were essentially having fun, and it is perhaps the particular effect of Mr. Taylor's choreography that it exudes a sense of humor and humanity...

GOING OUT Guide

there sipping, drinking in the view and the music. One night the pianist, Elizabeth Marilyn, was doing a "Sound of Music" medley. Then came a number from "Carousel..."

Want to learn how to keep physically fit through karate, group calisthenics and modern dance? Then go today to the McGraw-Hill tower plaza in Rockefeller Center...

three popular forms of health exercises. Leading the karate demonstration will be Richard Bantister, an expert in Korean karate and judo...

OUR Stan Satlin composed "US," his ambitious folk oratorio, especially for the Bicentennial, he packed in quite a bit by way of philosophical, sociological, political, religious and patriotic meaning...

For today's Entertainment Events listing, see page 16. For Sports Today, see page 31.

BOX OFFICE OPENS TODAY at 10 AM

THE DEBBIE REYNOLDS SHOW LIMITED ENGAGEMENT-4 WEEKS ONLY! OPENS THURS. EVEN. SEPT. 18 at 8 P.M. SOLD OUT!

Billy Dee Williams I Have A Dream LIMITED ENGAGEMENT! TUES., SEPT. 14th thru NOV. 28th

WHY IS MORRIS APPLEBAUM "CHECKING OUT" AND WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH THEATER IN AMERICA?

SEATS NOW AT BOX OFFICE-8 PERFS. ONLY! Sept. 8-18 Hurok is proud to present for the first time in America The Glorious Paris Opera

NEW YORK CITY OPERA OPENS THIS WEDNESDAY, 8:00/SEATS NOW AT BOX OFFICE

LAST 2 WEEKS! PRIOR TO NATIONAL TOUR! TONIGHT AT 8 PM "An electrifying performance" Anthony Perkins in EQUUS

PREVIEWS BEGIN FRI.-ALL SEATS $8.95 MILDRED DUNNOCK JOSEPH MAHER in MARGUERITE DURAS' Days In The Trees

THEATER DIRECTORY

BROADWAY... PULITZER PRIZE FOR DRAMA 1976... BUBBLING BROWN SUGAR... CALIFORNIA SUITE... CHICKENS OUT... CHICAGO... DAYS IN THE TREES... I HAVE A DREAM... LIMITED ENGAGEMENT-4 WEEKS ONLY!

LET MY PEOPLE COME... MARGUERITE DURAS' Days In The Trees... THE WIZ... THE RUNNER STUMBLES... THE WIZ... THE RUNNER STUMBLES... THE WIZ... THE RUNNER STUMBLES...

SCHOOL OF DANCE

Dancing is the world's greatest contact sport... when taught by the world's latest pro! Led Astaire!

CONTACT SPORT SPECIAL! Lessons for just $8 (Introductory offer)

Like contact! Honest! Here's no thrill in the world to match two people wing together as one on a dance floor. It's magic, exciting, it's fun! And I get a free lesson before anything just to see if you fit to continue.

Come in, write, phone. Open 'til 10 P.M.

Fred Astaire DANCE STUDIOS

1st Gotham: Fifth Ave. & 55th St. 2nd Floor Tel: 941-5448 Forest Hills: 70-90 Austin St. Tel: 283-1154

empstead: 285 Fulton Ave. Tel: 516-435-8733 Flushing: 40-42 Main St. Tel: 538-2525

for BankAmericard & Master Charge

VIM-O-PHOBIA? COME IT FOREVER! Have you PHOBIA-FREE and without NO TRIP. WE GUARANTEE it. In the year is returned, the 90-4000 pool is a 90 in diameter and water are included. C-SWIM & HEALTH CLUB West 58th St. NYC 10019 (212) 63-3675

Miss Kantrowitz, Reporter, Wed

Barbara Kantrowitz and Daniel Hertzberg, reporters on Newsday's Nassau staff, were married yesterday afternoon at Pierce House in the town park, Lincoln, Mass., by Rabbi Gary Johnson. The bride, who will retain her maiden name, is a daughter of Rosalind Kantrowitz of Lexington, Mass., and Arthur Kantrowitz of Cambridge, Mass. Her mother is head of the reference department at Robbins Library in Arlington, Mass. Her father is president of Avco-Everett Research Laboratory in Everett, Mass. Mr. Hertzberg is the son of Mrs. Abraham Hertzberg of Scarsdale, N.Y., and the late Mr. Hertzberg, who was chairman of Champlain Inc., now a subsidiary of Iroquois Brands Ltd. The bride is a graduate of Cornell University and the Graduate School of Journalism of Columbia University. Her husband is an alumnus of the University of Chicago.

Linda J. Adler Wed in Capital

Linda Jane Adler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Adler of Bethesda, Md., and Steven Charles Fischer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome M. Fischer of Scarsdale, N.Y., were married in Washington yesterday. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Joshua O. Haberman at the Washington Hebrew Congregation. The bride is an alumna of Stephens College. Her husband, a graduate of Yale University, is working on a doctorate in economics at Harvard University. The bride's mother, Ruth Adler, is a vice-president of A. G. Edwards & Sons, member of the New York Stock Exchange, and manager of its Chevy Chase, Md., branch. Her father is special assistant for extramural affairs in the Health Resources Administration of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in Rockville, Md. The bridegroom's father is chairman of Frederic R. Harris Inc., an international consulting engineering concern in New York.

Leslie Waters Wed To Victor Lewkow

Leslie Waters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Waters of Brooklyn, was married yesterday to Victor Lewkow, son of Herman Lewkow of Phoenix and the late Carolyn Cutler Lewkow. The ceremony was performed at the Flushing (Queens) Jewish Center by Rabbi Benjamin Hainowitz. The bride practices immigration law in New York, where her husband is an associate with the law firm of Cleary, Gottlieb, Steen & Hamilton. Mr. Waters is a production manager with Young Lady, dress manufacturer in New York. The bride is an alumna of Brooklyn College and the Boston University School of Law. Mr. Lewkow graduated from Harpur College and magna cum laude from the University of Pennsylvania Law School, where he was comment editor of The Law Review.

Lynne Kramer Bride Of Frederick Eisenbud

Lynne Adair Kramer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kramer of Laurel Hollow, L.I., was married yesterday afternoon to Frederick Eisenbud, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Eisenbud of Sterling Forest, N.Y. Rabbi Daniel Fogel performed the garden ceremony at the Kramer home. Cantor Norman Swering assisted. The bride, who will retain her maiden name, is a graduate of Smith College and the Hofstra Law School, class of '70. Her mother, Ruth Kramer, is managing partner in Paul Kramer & Company, an accounting firm of which the bride's father is a partner. Mr. Kramer is also a practicing lawyer.

Robin C. Pfaff Student's Bride

Robin Chalmers Pfaff and Ronald James Harrison were married yesterday afternoon in the Mountain Brook Presbyterian Church in Birmingham, Ala., by the Rev. August M. Kling. The parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur George Pfaff of Birmingham, formerly of Brookville, L.I., and Pompano Beach, Fla., and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bullard Harrison of Birmingham. Mr. Pfaff, a consultant, is a former vice president in New York of the L. G. Balfour Company, Attleboro, Mass., jewelry, recognition, incentive and motivation products concern. The bride's mother, Effie Chalmers Pfaff, is author of the book "Award Winning Quilts," published in 1974 by Osprey House, Birmingham. Mr. Harrison's father is president of Southern Natural Coal Company in Birmingham.

Barbara Seuling Wed to M. B. Gerrard

Barbara Ellen Seuling, a candidate for a Master of Laws degree at the New York University School of Law, was married yesterday afternoon to Michael Burr Gerrard, a consultant to the Council on the Environment of New York City and a Root-Tilden Scholar at the N.Y.U. School of Law. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Nicholas Frederick Seuling of Ridgewood, Queens, and the late Mr. Seuling. Her husband's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Nathan L. Gerrard of Charleston, W. Va. The bridegroom's mother, Dr. Louise B. Gerrard, is executive director of the West Virginia Commission on Aging. His father is a professor emeritus of Sociology at the Morris Harvey College in Charleston. The bride graduated from St. John's University and its Law School. Her husband, an alumnus of Columbia University, is a consultant also to the Fund for the City of New York, a nonprofit organization.

Mary Ann Kavanaugh Wed

The marriage of Mary Ann Kavanaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Kavanaugh of Belmore, L.I., to Marc Goodrich, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Goodrich of Wantagh, L.I., took place yesterday afternoon in St. Barnabas Roman Catholic Church in Belmore. The Rev. Robert O'Connell performed the ceremony. The bride, a practical nurse, is with the Long Beach (L.I.) Memorial Nursing Home. Her husband is a graduate of State University of New York at Farmingdale, L.I.

Miss Kohn Bride Of Steven Launer

At Temple Rodeph Shalom in Bridgeport, Conn., last evening, Merry Lisbeth Kohn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Kohn of Fairfield, Conn., was married to Steven Ya Launer, son of Edith R. Launer, also of Fairfield, and the late Leonard Launer. Rabbi Israel C. Stein and Joshua J. Epstein officiated. The bride, who attended Syracuse University, and graduated from the University of Connecticut, expects to receive a master's degree this fall from George Washington University. Her father is president of Dollar Cleaners and the Rug Barn, both in Bridgeport. Mr. Launer received an associate degree from Temple University and a bachelor's degree from the New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse University. He is president of Site Planners in Fairfield.

Miss Gitelman Bride of Shalom Brilliant

Cynthia Duke Gitelman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Victor Gitelman of Seaford, L.I., was married yesterday evening to Shalom Brilliant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Brilliant of Bayside, Queens. Rabbi Louis Bernstein performed the ceremony in Temple Torah in Little Neck, Queens. The bride is a speech therapist with the city's Bureau for Speech Improvement. Her husband is with the Department of Justice in Washington. Dr. Gitelman is assistant clinical director of the North-Eastern Dispensary at Brooklyn-Cumberland Medical Center. The bridegroom's father is an owner of the Brilliant Lighting Fixture Corporation in New York. The bride received a B.A. degree from Hunter College and an M.A. from New York University. Mr. Brilliant, who attended Pratt Institute and graduated from Yeshiva University, received an M.A. degree from New York University, and a J.D. degree magna cum laude from the Brooklyn Law School.

THE LAST CHANCE DIET

I did it. I lost 83 pounds in 120 days. I did it without drugs or medication. I did it without ever feeling hungry. I did it with Dr. Linn's program.

Details? Read THE LAST CHANCE DIET by Dr. Robert Linn. Every bookseller has copies.

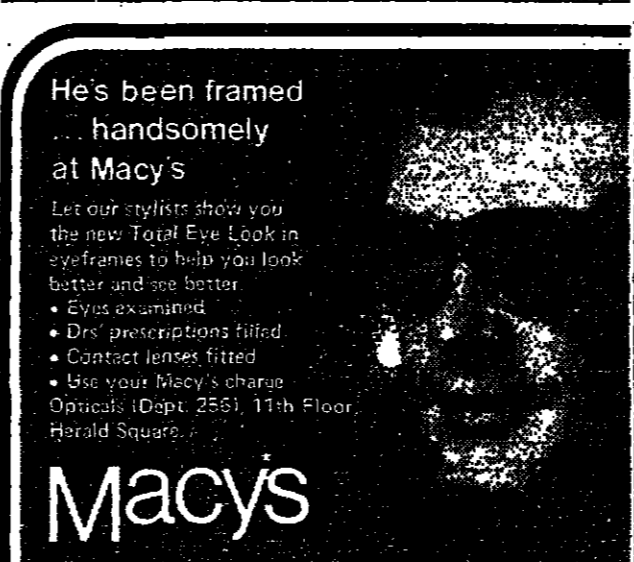

Published by Lyle Stuart

Barbara Seuling Wed to M. B. Gerrard

Barbara Ellen Seuling, a candidate for a Master of Laws degree at the New York University School of Law, was married yesterday afternoon to Michael Burr Gerrard, a consultant to the Council on the Environment of New York City and a Root-Tilden Scholar at the N.Y.U. School of Law. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Nicholas Frederick Seuling of Ridgewood, Queens, and the late Mr. Seuling. Her husband's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Nathan L. Gerrard of Charleston, W. Va. The bridegroom's mother, Dr. Louise B. Gerrard, is executive director of the West Virginia Commission on Aging. His father is a professor emeritus of Sociology at the Morris Harvey College in Charleston. The bride graduated from St. John's University and its Law School. Her husband, an alumnus of Columbia University, is a consultant also to the Fund for the City of New York, a nonprofit organization.

He's been framed handsomely at Macys

Let our stylists show you the new Total Eye Look in eyeframes to help you look better and see better. Eyes examined. Drs. prescriptions filled. Contact lenses fitted. Use your Macy's charge. Opticals Dept. 2561, 11th Floor, Herald Square.

Imagine the most terrifying dream you ever had. You couldn't stop it then, and now...it's happening again. OBSESSION The love story that will scare the hell out of you. STARTS WEDNESDAY AT COLUMBIA PREMIERE THEATRES

Starting September 8th, instant cash can be yours wherever you see this emblem. THE ENTIRE MISTAKES NEW YORK'S LOTTERY Where no one has a better chance than you.

BECK'S GRAND OPENING NEW Manhattan Showroom King of Office Furniture!! 5 Showrooms

Did you know: JOE BECK has fully stocked showrooms where you can select and not settle, for your office furniture requirements. JOE BECK has designers that will come to your office if you are too busy to come to see us. Remember, offices are just rooms until they are furnished by JOE BECK. JOE BECK can furnish your office in 3 days or sooner if necessary. JOE BECK guarantees all their merchandise for 1 full year at no cost to you. Merchandise for immediate delivery. Executive SWIVEL CHAIR $89.95 Black or Brown. Walnut EXECUTIVE MODULAR DESK with a 60" x 20" return - $349.95. Metal EXECUTIVE DESK Walnut Mica Top Tan, Black or Blue Metal Base 60" x 30" $119.95 54" x 24" $104.95. Matching SIDE CHAIR $59.95. Brown, Black, Gold, Orange, Blue, Red, etc. Arm SWIVEL CHAIR $69.95. Secretarial CHAIR $59.95. 4 Drawer METAL FILE $59.95. Walnut EXECUTIVE DESK 72" x 36" $199.95 60" x 30" $149.95. Executive SWIVEL CHAIR $109.95. Other size desks also in stock. A great buy for any office ORDER NOW! PHONE ORDERS ACCEPTED. FREE DELIVERY MANH. QUEENS - L.I. DURING THIS SALE. DISCOUNT OFFICE FURNITURE BECK JOE BECK DESK CO. 5 Showrooms. Call or Write for our FREE CATALOG. MANHATTAN: 21 W. 30th Street (212) 354-7448. MINEOLA: 40 Jericho Turnpike (516) 747-6815. ROCKVILLE CENTRE: 54 S. Long Beach Road (516) 766-3617. HUNTINGTON STATION: 601 E. Jericho Turnpike (516) 271-9550. EAST PATCHOGUE: 1457 Montauk Highway (516) 286-2100. HOURS: DAILY 9 A.M. to 5:30 P.M. - SAT. STARTING SEPT. 11th - 10 A.M. to 4 P.M.

Get away for a day. Free.

Jack LaLanne Guest. FREE DAY. Good for one free visit by an adult over 25. Only one free visit permitted during this event by any person. You must phone before you come. Offer expires Sun. Sept. 12th.

- 15 LOCATIONS: In Manhattan: 198 St. & Lex. Ave., 144 East 96 Street, 722-5771. In Queens: Lathrop/Forest Hills 98-30 57th Ave., 222-4200. In Nassau: (Area Code 516) Rockville Centre 80 Merrick Rd., 887-7500. In New Jersey: (Area Code 201) Fort Lee (Rt. 208) Llewellyn Plaza 461-5717.

GET READY FOR A GREAT FALL. Health Spa Jack LaLanne NOW ENROLLING! COMING SOON! ANOTHER LOCATION: 59-KORVETTE SHOPPING CENTER, MANJETT, N.Y. (914) 623-8662

Joe Beck 1:50

Ford, in Reversal, to Ask $1.5 Billion for Parklands

Continued From Page 1, Col. 3

without specifying where that could be done.

He said that preservation and enrichment of recreation lands—such as Yellowstone, the oldest and largest of 287 national parks—were urgent requirements if Americans were to "prevent the loss of treasures that can never be replaced."

Ford campaign officials said privately that the President's proposal amounted to a preview of the nature and style of the campaign he will conduct in the contest with Jimmy Carter, the Democratic nominee for President.

According to his aides, Mr. Ford plans to open his campaign formally on Sept. 7 with an address in the Middle West at either his alma mater, the University of Michigan, or at the University of Notre Dame in Indiana.

The President, who has challenged Mr. Carter to a series of debates, was said to hope that he could limit his political activities to five "main" speeches, four debates and five White House news conferences in the first five weeks of the campaign.

Mr. Ford's political advertising, for which he has budgeted $10 million, was said by one senior tactician to revolve around two themes meant to supplement his personal appearances.

The first was that the President deserved a full four-year term for having restored balance and trust to the Government in the two years since the Watergate scandal forced President Nixon to resign.

The second theme was that Mr. Ford would offer new "vision" for Americans in a term as an elected President. His brief remarks in Yellowstone Park were said to illustrate both campaign themes.

He said that the Bicentennial celebration had made him think about "the changes that have taken place in this great country, not only in the last two years but over the last two centuries."

As invigorating as the July 4 celebration was, Mr. Ford said, "I found myself asking: Can't we do more? Can't we do something special, as our Bicentennial birthday presents to the next generation and future generations, a gift that will still be remembered gratefully 100 years from now? I believe we can."

Although he said his program would "more than double our present acreage" of national park and recreation lands and desperately needed wildlife refuges, a "fact sheet" distributed by the White House suggested that the program would fall considerably short of that goal.

The $141 million in additional funds for land acquisition was but a fraction of the $449.5 million that the "fact sheet" said would be needed to acquire 559,608 additional park acres authorized by Congress. Moreover, the acquisition of half a million new acres would not appear to "more than double" the 63.2 million acres already under the control of the National Park Service and the Wildlife Refuge System.

Nathaniel Reed, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, told reporters that the $1.5 billion would be used over a 10-year period and that the parkland acquisition division of the department "can't spend money any faster" than Mr. Ford suggested.

However, representatives of several private environmental groups were at the ceremony at Old Faithful to call attention to what they considered shortcomings in the President's vision of parkland requirements.

RAPID CITY, S.D., Aug. 29 (UPI)—President Ford tonight called Jimmy Carter "the biggest flip-flopper I know" and said he cannot wait to pin down the Democratic candidate in debate.

Told at Ellsworth Air Force Base that Mr. Carter had said the President had "done a flip-flop" in proposing a $1.5 billion program of doubling America's national parks, Mr. Ford said, "He's the biggest flip-flopper I know of."

The President went into a 30-minute private meeting with Republican leaders from North and Wyoming and, according to his press secretary, Ron Neussen, he said he wanted to debate Mr. Carter as soon as possible.

"I cannot wait for the first debate because we're going to pin him down," Mr. Ford said. He told the Republican gathering "We have to win from New York to California, from Texas to Maine. I'm ready, willing and eager to go."

Sees 'Mismanagement' PLAINS, Ga., Aug. 29 (UPI)—An aide to Jimmy Carter today called President Ford's proposal for doubling the number of national parks and recreation areas "an attempt to cover up eight years of Republican mismanagement" of the parks.

Jody Powell, Mr. Carter's press secretary, said in a statement: "The belated campaign promise of additional funds comes in the face of two years of Administration opposition to both increased matching funds for state and local park programs and desperately needed operational funds for the Park Service."

as an attempt to cover up eight years of Republican mismanagement of our nation's park system."

Bridge: Men's Pair Regional Laurels Are Decided by Half a Point

By ALAN TRUSCOTT

Several top-ranked New York experts were among the winners in the New York-Northern New Jersey Regional Championships at McAfee, N.J., during the weekend.

The winners were: Mixed Pairs—Henry and Kitty Bethe, New York. Women's Pairs—Jacqui Mitchell and Jill Roberts, New York.

Men's Pairs—Bob Quinn, White Plains, and Ron Fischer, Hartsdale, N.Y. Open Pairs—Ronald Gerard, Hastings-on-Hudson, N.Y. and Don Gide, San Jose, Calif.

Individual—Martin Goldman, Fair Lawn, N.J. The men's pair event was a photo finish and the pair that missed the title by half a match point had a sad story to tell on the diagrammed deal. Lew Finkel of Providence and R. Jay Becker of New York were North and South, respectively, and bid themselves to the accurate contract of six diamonds while their opponents contested in hearts.

Six diamonds was unbeatable because West's singleton spade was the ace; if either defender had held a spade singleton other than the ace, a lead in that suit would have sunk the slam quickly. As it was, the trumps could be drawn after any lead and the spades would eventually provide for a club discard from the North hand.

Six Spades Bid But West did the right thing by saving in six hearts, trusting his expert opponents to have reached best contract. This could have been doubled and defeated by three tricks for a penalty of 500, but Finkel tried six spades, not unreasonably.

It will be seen that six spades depends primarily upon an even spade division. The trumps can be handled if a defender has a singleton ace, but the declarer must guess. In view of the overcall, he would have played

NORTH
 ♠ K53
 ♥ A ♦ AJ9842
 ♣ K84

WEST
 ♠ A ♥ QJ10854
 ♦ 103
 ♣ QJ72

EAST (D)
 ♠ 10972
 ♥ K9732
 ♦ 7 ♣ 1053

SOUTH
 ♠ QJ864
 ♥ 6
 ♦ KQ65
 ♣ A96

Neither side was vulnerable. The bidding:
 East South West North
 Pass 1 ♠ 2 ♥ 3 ♦
 3 ♥ 4 ♠ 4 ♥ 4 N.T.
 Pass 5 ♦ Pass 6 ♦
 Pass Pass 6 ♥ 6 ♠
 West led the diamond ten.

West for that card if given the chance by leading a low trump from his hand. West leads a Diamond. But he was not given the chance. West merely led a diamond, and continued with his remaining diamond when he gained the lead with the spade ace at the second trick. East triumphantly ruffed to defeat the slam, and Finkel and Becker ruefully congratulated West on his defense.

25 Charged in Labor Dispute PORTSMOUTH, Ohio, Aug. 29 (UPI)—Twenty-five persons were charged yesterday with contempt of court after picketing violence at the nearby Goodyear Atomic Corporation plant, a uranium enrichment plant. One minor injury to a deputy sheriff was reported.

The arrested pickets were charged with contempt for violating a restraining order granted the corporation by a Pike County judge.

Members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers union walked out Friday in a dispute over a contract wage reopening clause.

INVITATION TO TENDER

THE POSTS AND TELECOMMUNICATIONS CORPORATION OF GHANA INVITES TENDERERS FOR:

ESTABLISHMENT OF EARTH STATION COMPLEX AND NEW INTERNATIONAL SWITCHING CENTRE

The Project comprises the following two sub-projects:

- Sub-Project A:
 Construction of Earth Station Buildings and Installation on turn-key basis of a standard INTELSAT Earth Station and associated facilities consisting of:
 (a) Antenna System;
 (b) Communication System;
 (c) Multiplex—Demultiplex System with Engineering Service Panel;
 (d) Terrestrial Microwave Link;
 (e) Control, Monitoring and Test facilities;
 (f) Power supply and Special facilities;
 (g) Coaxial Cable System;
 (h) Spade System;
 (i) T.V. Standard Converter.
- Sub-Project B:
 Installation on turn-key basis of an International Switching Centre consisting of:
 (a) International Telephone Switching Exchange;
 (b) (i) International Telex Exchange
 (ii) Message Relay System;
 (c) Power Plant;
 (d) Miscellaneous Facilities.

Prospective tenderers may obtain copies of general conditions of tender and contract and the specifications against payment of two hundred and thirty U.S. dollars (U.S. $230.00) per complete set of documents daily between 09.00 hours and 16.00 hours G.M.T. from 1st September, 1976 to 30th September, 1976 at the address given below:

For Ghanaian tenderers only, the charge per complete set of tender documents shall be two hundred and sixty-four cedis (C264.00).

DIRECTOR OF ENGINEERING, EXTERNAL TELECOMMUNICATION SERVICES, (ROOM 316, 3RD FLOOR) THE POSTS AND TELECOMMUNICATIONS BUILDING, ACCRA-NORTH ACCRA, GHANA.

The closing date for the submission of tenders will be at 10.00 a.m. Ghana time on November 30, 1976.

DIRECTOR-GENERAL, THE POSTS & TELECOMMUNICATION CORPORATION OF THE REPUBLIC OF GHANA.

His wife has been dead for 15 years. Until today.

OBSSESSION
 The love story that will scare the hell out of you.

PG

STARTS WEDNESDAY AT COLUMBIA PREMIERE THEATRES

EDUCATION

Fordham offers a breadth and variety of graduate and undergraduate programs with an intermix of 10 colleges and 2000 courses at three locations, Rose Hill/Bronx, Lincoln Center/Midtown, and Teraville/Westchester. Call (212) 633-2797 for a brochure.

SPANISH AND MODERN LANGUAGES
 Classes start Sept. 20. Specialized curriculum for specific professional needs. ESL Methods course. Targeted on College of Arts and Sciences. Call (212) 633-2797 for a brochure.

Calligraphy Workshop
 FALL TERM STARTS SEPTEMBER 13TH. For schedule or information, write or call Pentatic Corp., 132 West 22nd St., N.Y., N.Y. 10011. Phone (212) 932-6602.

Placing a classified ad?
 Call OX 5-3311 between 9 A.M. and 5:30 P.M.

One of the great natural hazards of our time... LARRY CSONKA... a pussy cat on the dance floor. His coach? An Arthur Murray dance instructor, of course.

He's an Arthur Murray Man!

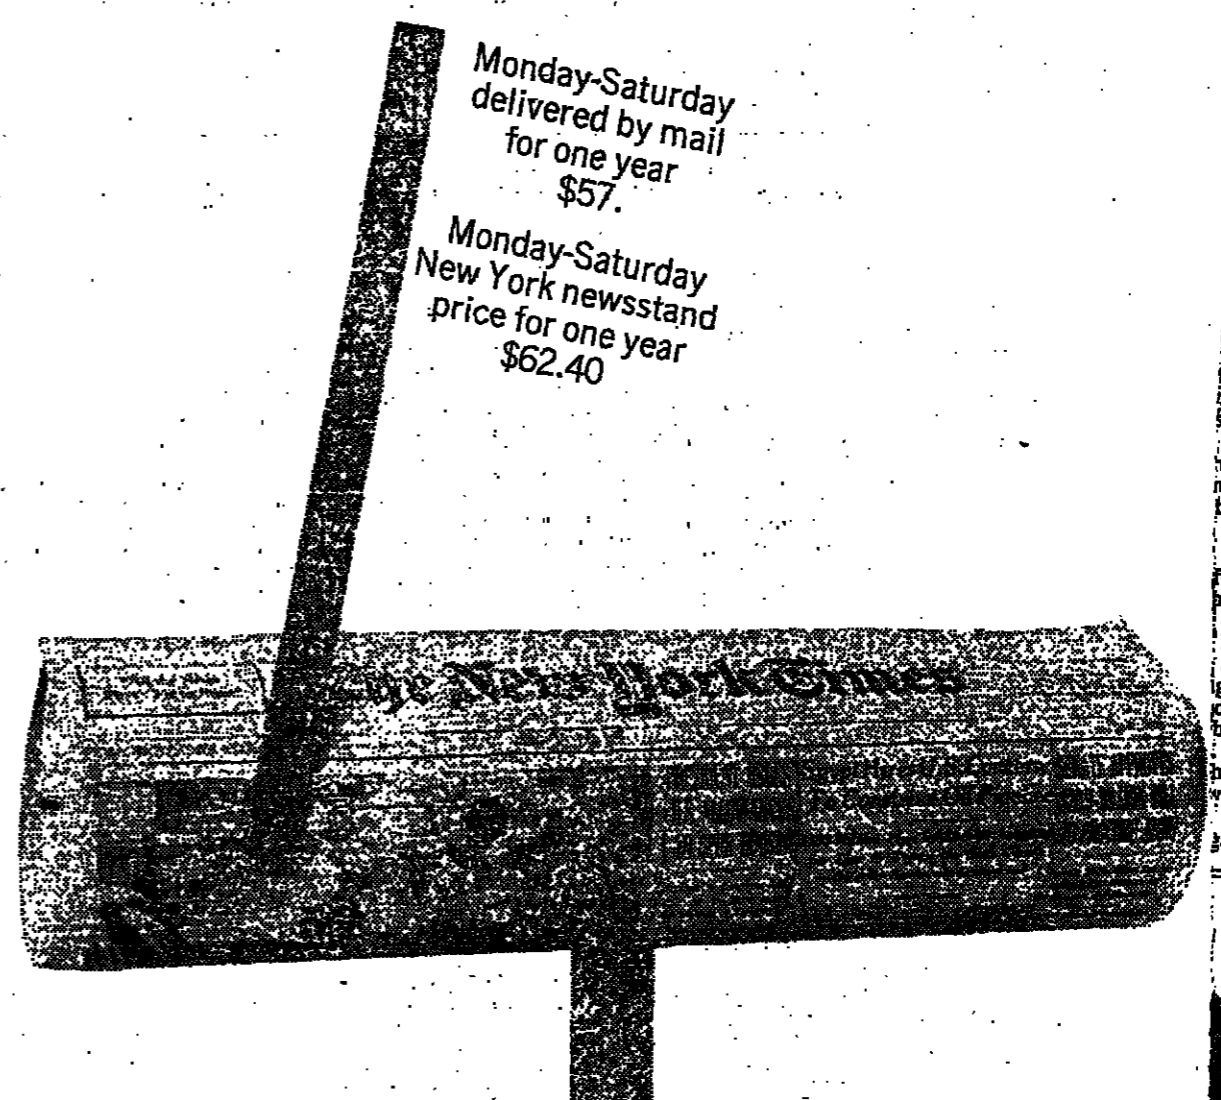

You'd be amazed what your two feet can learn about moving your body!

Maybe you think the Hustle is not for you—or that you remember enough about the Cha-Cha and Tango. Well, come and see for yourself. It's a whole new ballgame! Close dancing is in and it's full of energy and rhythm. It's "Coordinated Self-Expression For Two!" Enroll today. The cost is modest, the benefits huge.

YOUR DEMONSTRATION LESSON IS FREE. COME WITH OR WITHOUT A PARTNER.

Arthur Murray
 MANHATTAN 604 Fifth Ave. Call now 247-4032

For $5.40 less a year than the New York newsstand price, you can get the weekday New York Times delivered to your home by mail!

Monday-Saturday delivered by mail for one year $57.
 Monday-Saturday New York newsstand price for one year $62.40

The New York Times
 Mail Subscription Department
 Times Square, New York, N.Y. 10036

Please send me by mail the weekday New York Times for one year at $57.

Name _____
 Address _____
 City _____
 State & Zip _____

Just send in this coupon and your check.

Handwritten note: $57.40

...ters to the E...

الجمهورية الجزائرية الديمقراطية الشعبية

...ning ...a: II

ny Lewis

... of white suprem...
... has been officiall...
... as "apartheid" ...
... more recently the ...
... "development" and ...
... "All are intended ...
... government's basic ...
... the black majority ...
... in small tribal ...
... the whites keep to ...
... of South Africa ...
... of that official ...
... stripped away by ...
... black townships ...
... can believe, any ...
... aid assures peace ...
... that the millions ...
... want to be citizens ...
... ward "homeland" ...
... have seen, while ...
... alien serfs where ...

... figures among the ...
... up, the Afrikaners ...
... mental rethinking ...
... theory. Privately, a ...
... the doctrine of ...
... it is dead. But it ...
... the Government ...
... outsiders should ...

ABROAD

... J. Vorster finds ...
... constituency among ...
... Afrikaner farmers ...
... the blacks make ...
... a bar is likely to ...
... affairs," not about ...
... a sheer weight of ...
... to make most ...

... out concessions: ...
... 18 percent of the ...
... even when politi ...
... cally failed, com ...
... difficult.

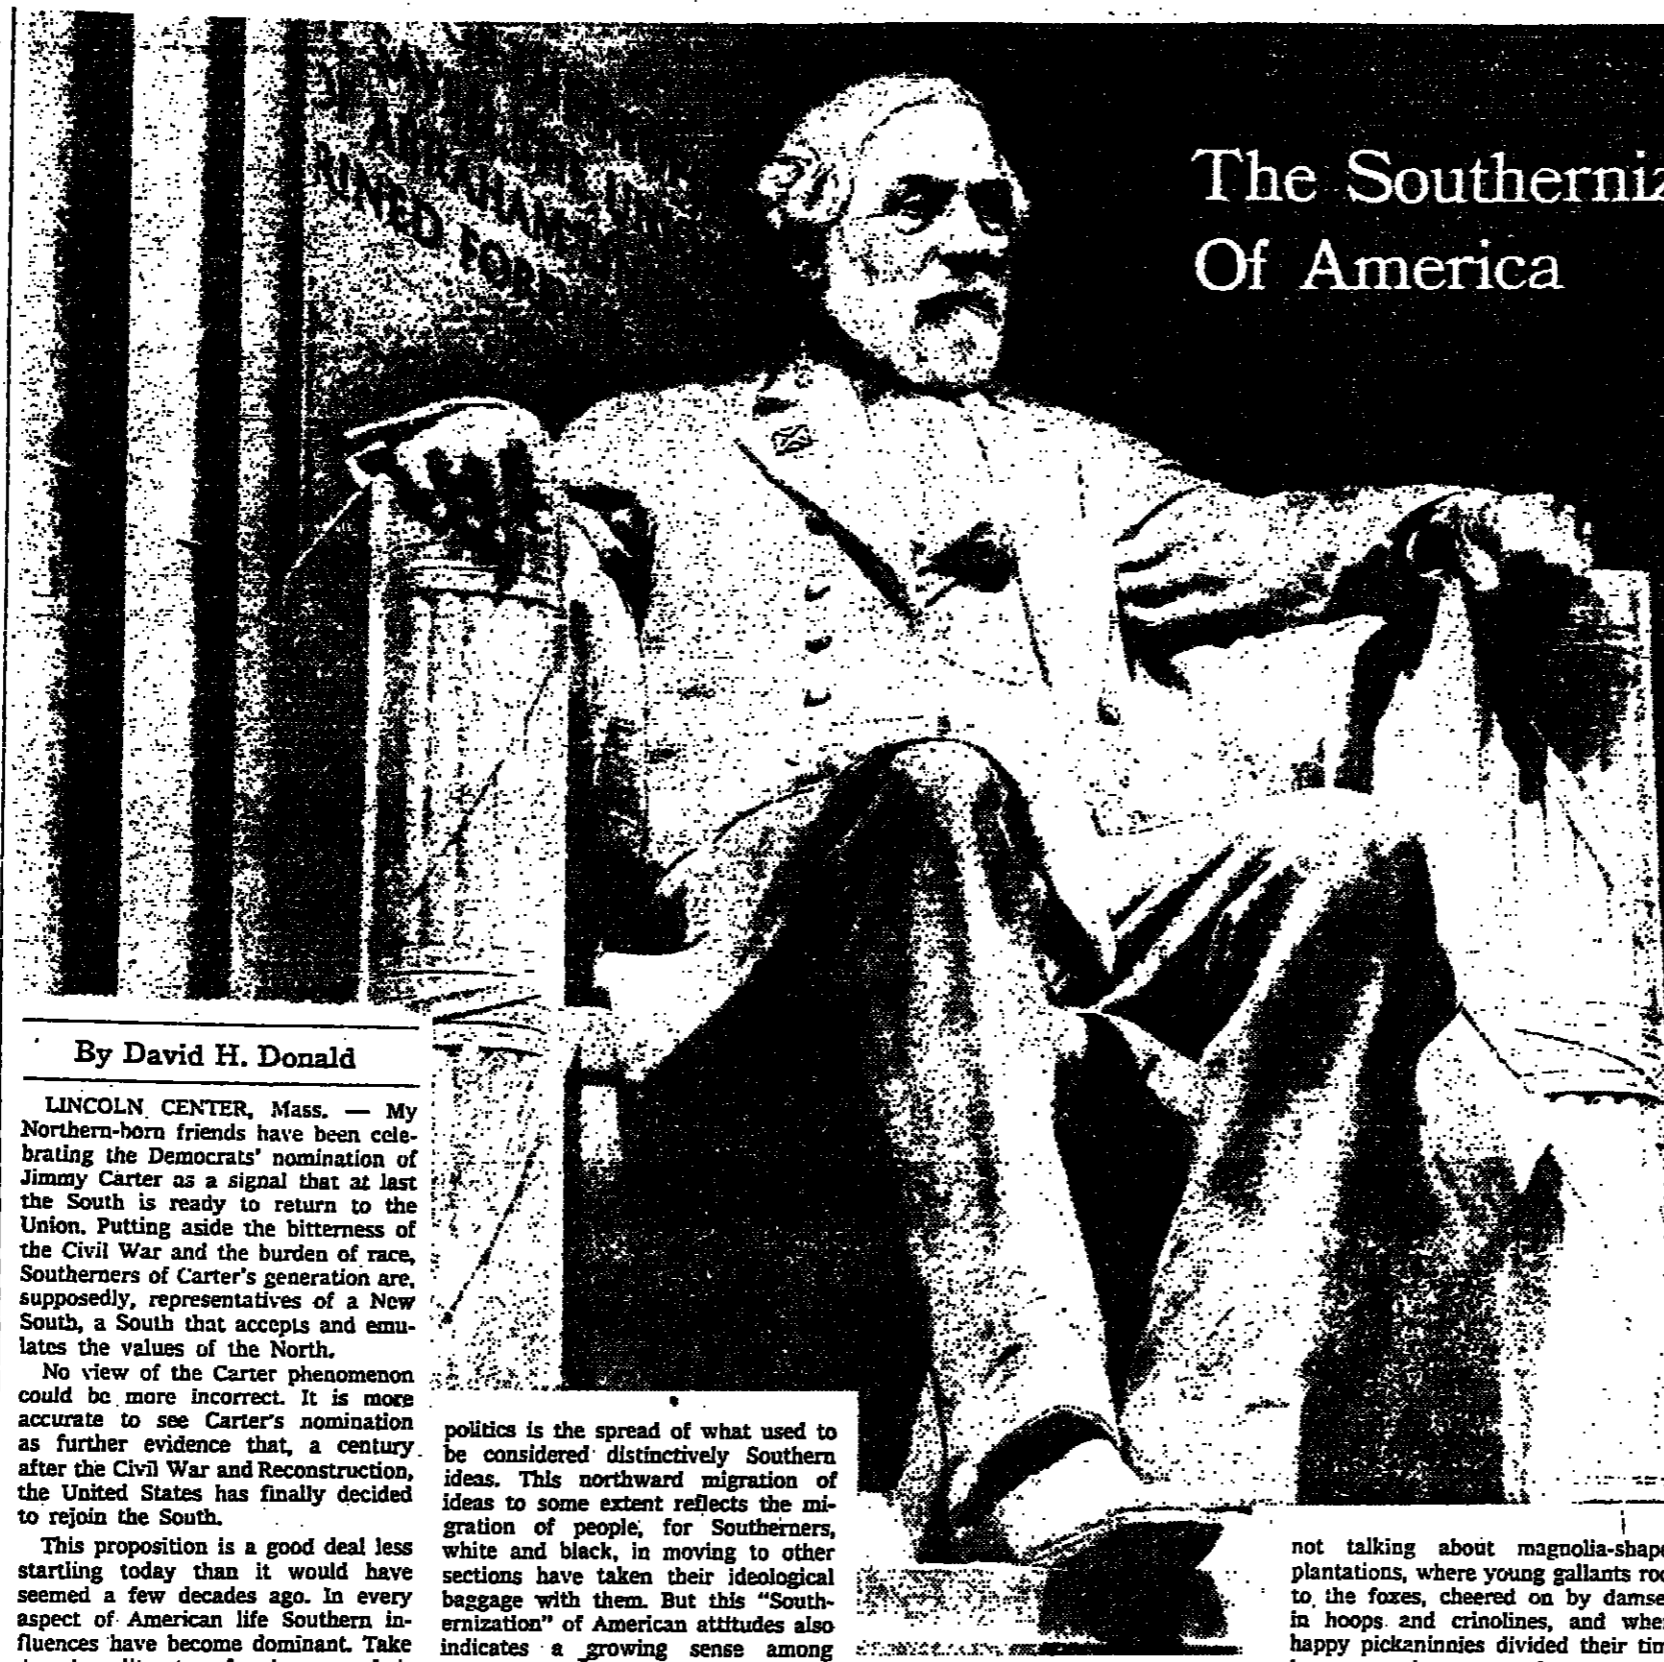

... ample, leaders of ...
... elands" issued a ...
... g restrictions on ...
... not and calling for ...
... location for blacks ...
... businessmen—who ...
... of relying for labor ...
... ated, dehumanized ...
... ment of their own ...
... to points.

... ck where you can ...
... bring your family ...
... to public education ...
... Americans would ...
... the most elec ...
... tions, but they ...
... ctation of black ...
... y cannot enter any ...
... area without a ...
... they cannot ordi ...
... amilies with them ...
... at a job and resi ...
... for many years ...
... Jack yearlings for ...
... in the townships ...
... ment, would imply ...
... as permanent citi ...
... To us that seems ...
... ality. But to many ...
... as it would be an ...
... ac premises.

... ing, therefore, to ...
... rican Government ...
... of immobilism ...
... ago it would have ...
... unrest with un ...
... as it did at the ...
... ville massacre in ...
... ies too much about ...
... American, opinion ...
... s been too worried ...
... istants' opinion ...
... change in policy ...
... iff has said almost ...
... turbulent months ...
... alternately blamed ...
... k power advocates ...
... and hinted at con ...
... the most concrete ...
... has been to detain ...
... without charge on ...
... l troublemaking.

... les out for talks ...
... ers and the Gov ...
... blacks are almost ...
... or revolutionary ...
... tes, and they are ...
... minister of justice ...
... now called a meet ...
... icks.

... here are obstacles ...
... id not readily un ...
... be natural African ...
... alled or banned by ...
... elson Mandela, a ...
... n Island, Robert ...
... to the small tow ...
... d whenever new ...
... the recent protests ...
... lopped off. The ...
... ctively impious ...
... should be talking ...
... African situation ...
... d the outlook is ...
... e time is out of ...
... eople used to talk ...
... ing soon in South ...
... I quite wrong, and ...
... been assumed that ...
... would change for ...
... at was wrong, too ...
... rant consequences ...
... ates. Secretary of ...
... covered southern ...
... nd made a policy ...
... Vorster's support ...
... fringe of his coun ...
... d Namibia, while ...
... ter any considera ...
... r issues in South ...
... he assumptions un ...
... have been shaken ...
... home limits Mr ...
... to apply leverage ...
... an white minority ...
... us of racial peace ...
... th Africa can no ...
... by its Government ...

The Southernization Of America

By David H. Donald

LINCOLN CENTER, Mass. — My Northern-born friends have been celebrating the Democrats' nomination of Jimmy Carter as a signal that at last the South is ready to return to the Union. Putting aside the bitterness of the Civil War and the burden of race, Southerners of Carter's generation are, supposedly, representatives of a New South, a South that accepts and emulates the values of the North.

No view of the Carter phenomenon could be more incorrect. It is more accurate to see Carter's nomination as further evidence that a century after the Civil War and Reconstruction, the United States has finally decided to rejoin the South.

This proposition is a good deal less startling today than it would have seemed a few decades ago. In every aspect of American life Southern influences have become dominant. Take American literature for the most obvious instance. In large measure the history of American letters in the 20th century is the history of Southern writers and Southern writing. Look at the roll-call of major Southern writers: Ralph Ellison, William Faulkner, Ellen Glasgow, Katherine Anne Porter, Allen Tate, Robert Penn Warren, Eudora Welty, Tennessee Williams, Thomas Wolfe, Richard Wright—and the list could go on and on. Their works are the most durable literary achievements of our times. The "Southern" has become a fictional genre as readily identifiable as the Western—but with infinitely greater imaginative power and literary merit. If in very recent years the impact of Southern writers on national literature has appeared to diminish, it is largely because their literary techniques and basic presuppositions have been accepted and emulated by authors from other sections.

At the risk of being parochial, I ought to say a little, too, about the influence of Southern themes and Southern ideas on the writing of American history. The idea of a distinctive, and distinguished, body of Southern history is a relatively recent one; history was what the New England Brahmins were supposed to do best. Yet today the study of the South is the most active and intellectually vigorous interest in the American historical profession. For instance, in 1974 the two most important books published in American history were studies of slavery: "Time on the Cross," by Robert W. Fogel and Stanley L. Engerman, and "Roll, Jordan, Roll," by Eugene Genovese. Last year the two most significant works were also on Southern topics: Edmund S. Morgan's "American Slavery—American Freedom," and David Brion Davis's "The Problem of Slavery in the Age of Revolution, 1770-1823." This year Herbert Gutman's "The Black Family in Slavery and Freedom," soon to be published, is one of the major books of our times. The fact that all these histories deal with Southern subjects is important; but even more suggestive is their tone, for they portray slaveholders as basically benevolent and patriarchal, praise the cultural achievements of blacks under adversity, and conclude that the Old South was a region of astonishing economic efficiency and prosperity. Somewhere the ghost of John C. Calhoun must be grimly smiling at this belated national acceptance of his views of Southern superiority.

In national politics as in national letters the Southern influence has become a dominant one. Since 1948 both parties have constantly and assiduously cultivated the Southern vote. The importance of the South led John F. Kennedy to pick a Southerner as his running mate in 1960, and the strength that Lyndon B. Johnson brought to the ticket was indispensable for Democratic victory. President Johnson's triumphant election in 1964 put an end to the myth that no Southerner could win the White House.

In the current Presidential contest there is much talk about the "Southern rim"—that tier of states stretching across the entire Southern part of the nation, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, with enough electoral votes to determine the outcome of the election. Examined more closely, this "Southern rim" seems to be the Confederacy extended westward—just what the more ardent Confederates always wanted.

Even more impressive than the Southern influence on literature and politics is the spread of what used to be considered distinctively Southern ideas. This northward migration of ideas to some extent reflects the migration of people, for Southerners, white and black, in moving to other sections have taken their ideological baggage with them. But this "Southernization" of American attitudes also indicates a growing sense among Northerners and Westerners that they now confront the same issues and the same problems that have so long bedeviled the South.

In part these issues are racial. The presence of a large black population in Northern cities has produced the same reactions that have so long characterized the South. In Boston, school desegregation has provoked the responses that it did in Little Rock: first, an angry flare-up of white resistance and racial violence; then a massive white flight to the suburbs and to private schools; and, finally, a refusal to give further tax support to a public school system that the whites have abandoned.

But, fortunately, racial prejudice is not the only Southern export that has found a lively market in the North. Only a few years ago the sociologist John Shelton Reed could plausibly argue that Southerners are distinctive because of their attachment to place, their belief in individualism (even to the point of resorting to violence to redress personal grievances), and their devotion to evangelical Protestantism. Today it would be hard to maintain that these values are distinctively Southern.

Behind the resistance to forced busing in Northern cities lies not merely deep racial fear but profound attachment to local communities, like the Irish enclave of South Boston and the Italian neighborhood in East Boston. With violence rampant across the land, nobody can argue that Southerners have a monopoly on mayhem. And if the South has kept its essentially Protestant persuasion, in recent years evangelical sects have been the fastest growing religious bodies in the North.

Adding to the similarities between Northern and Southern values is the mood of disillusionment and frustration that has spread to all parts of the country. The United States has set itself up as the moral leader of the world, but its government has been tainted by corruption and deception. The national wealth has been wasted on wars and preparation for wars, while poverty and even hunger stalk our streets. Our government spies on its citizens and taps their telephones, but it fails to act against obscenity and pornography, against narcotics, against violence and criminality. For the first time in our history American citizens of all regions have a sense that society is not responsive to their wishes but is beyond their control.

land, the factory owners squeeze the mill operatives, and the planters cheated their tenants. This is the South that is thin in culture, suspicious in outlook, and bigoted in ideas. This is the South of Bilbo and Bull Connor. But there is another South. I am not talking about magnolia-shaped plantations, where young gallants rode to the foxes, cheered on by damsels in hoops and crinolines, and where happy pickaninnies divided their time between eating watermelons and serving mint juleps to the Old Marster. That South never existed outside of "Gone With the Wind." But there is, and there always has been, a real South of basic goodness and decency, whose inhabitants, black as well as white, have a deep sense of attachment to place, a strong feeling of kinship, and a profound belief in their God. This is the South that is a land of frankness and openness, a land of generosity and courtesy. This is the South of Lillian Smith and Martin Luther King, Jr. We Southerners have the obligation to determine which of these opposing models will become the national pattern. We must make sure that the future historians can write that, when the United States finally rejoined the South in 1976, it was in order to affirm this nation's humanity, its sense of community, and its deep dependence upon the Almighty.

David Herbert Donald teaches Southern history at Harvard. This article is adapted from a commencement address at his alma mater, Millsaps College, in Jackson, Miss.

Agriculture without family farmers? It just isn't productive.

America's agricultural system is far and away the world's best—but it isn't perfect. If it were, consumers wouldn't face occasional erratic food price increases . . . and farmers would enjoy a higher standard of living. But our problems are minor—and consumers in other nations would agree.

In Russia, for example, farming is a risk-free occupation because the state pays farmers to work state-owned land. But this system doesn't generate booming production. Because Soviet farmers have no personal investment to protect, they lack the incentive to work harder and produce more. They do only what the government requires. The results? Despite pouring over a quarter of her total resources into farming, Russia has been unable to adequately feed her own people. The Soviets must buy food from the United States, a nation devoting only 5% of its manpower to agriculture.

American farming is built on men like turkey grower Carl Skarie of Minnesota. Carl has a sizable personal investment in his farm, so he gives farming his all—and grows over 100,000 birds annually on just 40 acres of land.

Of course, turkey markets fluctuate, and Carl's return after expenses can vary greatly from year to year. For this reason, he belongs to a farmer-owned cooperative. His co-op guarantees a market for Carl's turkeys—at prices set in a competitive marketplace.

Thanks to his farmer cooperative, Carl Skarie has the opportunity to continue farming—to continue adding to America's food bounty. Yet some critics claim that co-ops threaten fair competition and set unfair prices. They believe that today's farmer doesn't need cooperative support—and they want co-ops restricted or weakened.

If these detractors succeed, many family farmers like Carl could be forced out of business. Food shortages and high prices could become commonplace.

American consumers benefit greatly from the world's most efficient food production system. And that is why everyone should support family farmers and farmer cooperatives.

Carl Skarie
Turkey Grower

Detroit Lakes, Minnesota
Cooperative Member

Farmer Cooperatives. They're doing the country a lot of good.

This message was brought to you by over a million farmers through their cooperative associations and organizations. For more information, contact The National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, 1129 Twentieth St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036. (202) 699-1625.

Introducing The Credit Account.

Once you have it, you'll understand credit better, and know how to use it right.

The Credit Account* is pure bank credit.

A phone call or visit to European-American can get you the best kind of credit there is. Pure bank credit.

We call it The Credit Account. It's a separate account. Separate from your checking account. Separate from all other accounts. It's straight credit, pure and simple. Easy to use. Easy to understand.

Just qualify and we'll make from $1,000 to $10,000 available to you.

Then, whenever you need money—for any reason you choose—you've got it.

The Credit Account is a lesson in using credit to your advantage.

The Credit Account helps you use credit right, because it's credit with built-in advantages.

Here are some of the ways to use credit as it ought to be used.

Use The Credit Account instead of loans. You'll pay lower interest than on almost any installment loan.

Use it to pay off other credit that costs you more in interest. Like many department store charge accounts, credit card accounts, and revolving credit accounts.

Use The Credit Account to organize and pay off all your credit through one inexpensive credit source. One source, so you can review your entire credit picture at a glance.

And remember this, too: unlike some other kinds of credit, The Credit Account costs you nothing until you use it. Not a cent.

Another advantage: privacy.

Once you have The Credit Account, why and when you need money becomes what it should be. Your business. Not ours.

You only have to apply for the Account once. After that, there are no interviews when you need money. No application forms to fill out. No trouble.

Call (212) 895-3404.
(516) 248-7020
or (914) 761-6400.

You can get The Credit Account by phone, too. Call us from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. any weekday.

Give us the information we need. We'll get back to you as soon as possible with the amount of credit we can put in your Credit Account.

Or if you like, stop in at the European-American branch that's best for you.

The Credit Account will help you use credit the way credit was meant to be used. It's smart, and it works.

European-American Bank

Think about it.*

Chartered in New York State. Member F.D.I.C.
*Service marks of European-American.

...se the Lord Ch...
...ings Gospel to...

...The P.T.S. ...
...sense that ...
...of the ...
...Ed ...

News Summary

The Main ...

International

Taiwan is developing the capacity to manufacture an atomic bomb ...

Israel's heavily guarded borders ...

National

Federal action is needed to control Medicaid administration ...

Handwritten Arabic text: "سنة ١٤١٧ هـ"

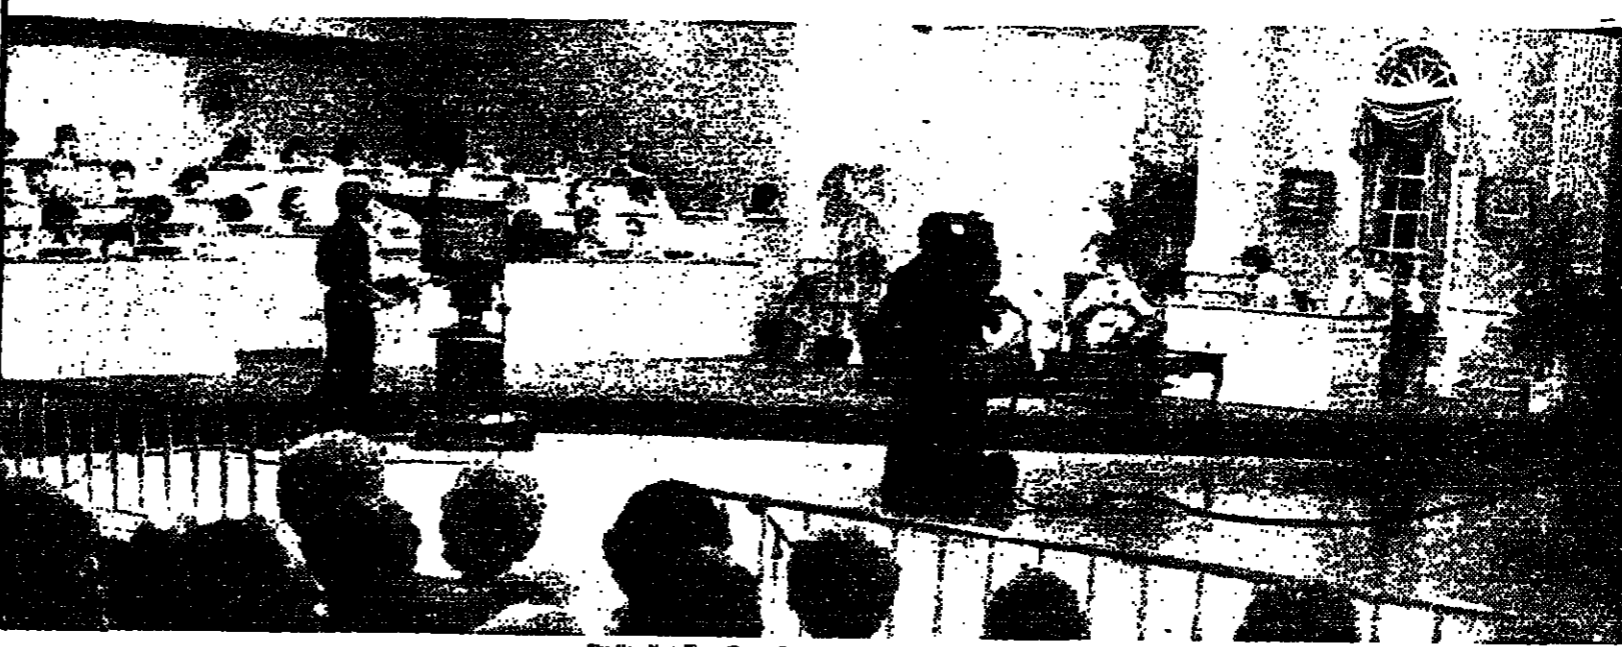

Praise the Lord Club Brings Gospel to TV

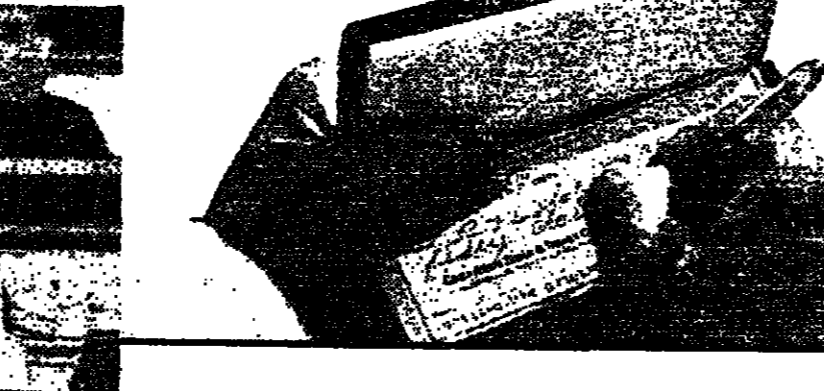

...YNE KING ... Aug. 27 — The Rev. did in a vested robin's-landing against a blue perfect for the televi-ling noiselessly about ing of his gospel talk 's session with a faith studio audience. d a litany of afflictions is fervent, emotional, of "Hallelujah" and te gland condition that t now ... there is a whaps a missing disk d ... someone to my ment ... a woman to emale condition ... in the name of Jesus one ... you will not there are tumors and re and they will never infection in the body the Lord is burning out how ... there is some- the marrow of the temia ... the Lord is 's dizzy spells, some- for that one sugar diabetes, we xt visit to the doctor re and Fever' music that had glided stopped. The healing ad been no miracles o one had laid claim ailments Mr. Bakker d was healing in the however, had jumped ar his body had been fever." and that Mr. had quenched it.

ABOVE: A taping of the Praise the Lord Club television program at the club's own studio in Charlotte, N.C. On the stage, telephone operators write down callers' requests for faith healing. LEFT: The Rev. James Bakker asks for God's blessing on the telephoned messages. BELOW: Telephone operators are also used to accept donation pledges. In addition, money comes from members of the audience. Spectator emotion at the tapings often runs high.

Robert Frost Gets His Road and His Day in Vermont

By JOYCE MAYNARD ... RIPTON, Vt., Aug. 28— This was not the kind of day one would have been likely to put on a postcard. It rained in northern Vermont, and even in the afternoon, when a little sun broke through, the only mountain a person could see was the one directly underfoot.

I shall be telling this with a sigh Somewhere ages and ages hence: Two roads diverged in a wood, and I— I took the one less traveled by, And that has made all the difference. —Robert Frost, "The Road Not Taken" professor, and Alfred Edwards, the former president of Holt, Rinehart and Winston, Frost's publisher for nearly 50 years.

appropriateness of the trail as a memorial. "All of Frost's poetry could be regarded as an interpretive trail," Mr. Cox said. "It is a trail of metaphor leading from matter to spirit. Some poets of the 20th century have the air of the computer. Their poetry is not so much subtle as dense. Like underbrush, it is hard to get through. With Frost, there is no underbrush."

Not much interested in reading poetry, the children on the walk ran back and forth across a little bridge spanning the Middlebury River's south branch. A few tourists, cameras around their necks, snapped photographs, and asked an old-timer who had known Frost to pose next to a tree.

Community Numbers School

an. Aug. apparently smoking up Sigma ...er Sigma ...ker Unillling five student ...partment. members in the top ...-year-old no fire ... was Stu- ...the tele- ...call the ...ment just ...t the fire ...'We've got ...ling." ...nd by his ...victims ...set in an ...fifth was floor. ...the fire ...first-floor ...spread up ...airwell in ...building. ...had just ...nd clean- ...an open ...today. ...were iden- ...eve Hoge, ...ident. ...ant. Dave ...retary, of ...rk Mor- ...Overland ...Bailey of ...a broken ...he jumped ...About 30 ...were stay- ...State Fire ...smoldered ...the sofa, ...that once ...t, the fire ...igarette or ...a match."

News Summary and Index

MONDAY, AUGUST 30, 1976

The Major Events of the Day

International

Taiwan is developing the capacity to manufacture an atomic bomb one day as a result of a new program there to reprocess spent nuclear reactor fuel into plutonium, officials in Washington said yesterday. Taiwan is purchasing four nuclear power plants from the United States that are expected to provide one-third of Taiwan's electrical power. [Page 1, Column 4.]

National

Federal action is needed to correct "abysmal" Medicaid administration at all levels of government, according to a Senate report on the 10-year-old Medicaid program. The report said there was widespread abuse by both providers of health services and recipients and estimated that one-quarter to a half of the $15 billion a year being spent on Medicaid was being wasted through fraud, poor medical care, and the dispensing of services to ineligible persons. The report was based on a four-month investigation of Medicaid operations in New York City, Newark, Passaic and Paterson, N. J., Chicago, Detroit, Los Angeles and Oakland, Calif. [1:8.]

Metropolitan

Senator Frank E. Moss, Democrat of Utah, went to East Harlem masquerading as a patient and helped to document what his Senate committee says was widespread waste and mismanagement in New York City's huge Medicaid program. Senator Moss, chairman of the Subcommittee on Long-Term Care, got a Medicaid card and visited the East Harlem Medical Center at 145 East 116th Street. His experience contributed to the subcommittee's report, which said that fraudulent practices and use by ineligible persons of the New York Medicaid program had wasted millions of dollars. [1:6-7.]

The Other News

International U.S. influence on Iran is gigantic and diverse. Page 1 Profiles of crash victims and a survivor. Page 2 U.S. team investigating 2 Air Force crashes. Page 2 Moscow bids Syrians leave Lebanon. Page 3 New Zealand protest aimed at U.S. warship. Page 3 Spain bans reporting on re- forms. Page 4 ASEAN quiet but conflict is unresolved. Page 5 Argentina expected to ban anti-Semitic tracts. Page 7 Research seen imperiled by U.N. sea conference. Page 8 South Africa may allow vote in territory. Page 9 Lockheed bribe in Britain is charged. Page 43

Quotation of the Day

"Investigators were repeatedly 'ping-ponged' to neurologists, gynecologists, internists, psychologists, psychiatrists, health specialists, podiatrists, dentists, chiropractors, opticians, ophthalmologists, oculists and pediatricians. In some clinics, investigators had to run out of the clinics in order to end the protracted medical merry-go-round."—A Senate subcommittee report on Medicaid programs in eight cities. [14:7.]

Health and Science

New tests begun in inquiry on mystery illness. Page 16 Amusements and the Arts Betsy Jolas reflects on a life of music. Page 15 Paul Taylor's "creative binge" in dance. Page 15 Talks on Music Hall to begin today. Page 16 New York Film Festival opens Oct. 1. Page 17 Dagar shows subtly in Indian music. Page 17 "The Cleveland Street Scandal" is reviewed. Page 21 Real police look at the TV variety. Page 45

Going Out Guide

About New York Family/Style Who's to blame for the ruined clothes. Page 18 De Gustibus: Confusion on fish poaching. Page 18 Couple garden on a small plot of water. Page 18

Obituaries

Joseph Baumgold, president of diamond concern. Page 26 Dr. Joel Harley, clinical professor. Page 26 Business and Financial Wolfson is challenged on legal expenses. Page 33

What's your beat?

Rock, Bach... you name it... The New York Times will keep you up-to-the-minute with New York's musical events. Pick up the beat, Monday through Sunday, on the Entertainment Pages of The New York Times.

Justice Agency, Senate Panel Get Files Indicating Price-Fixing of Uranium

By DAVID BURNHAM Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—The Justice Department and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee have been given copies of documents that appear to prove the existence of an international cartel that has been fixing the price of uranium since late 1971.

answered in order for the United States, and individual state governments, to proceed with the intelligent planning and regulation of energy supplies," they said.

submitted them to an official body there that was holding hearings on the impact of uranium mining. Upon the request of the concern from which they appeared to have been taken, Mary Kathleen Uranium, the documents were returned.

MORE CRIMINALS BEING SENT TO JAIL

New York State Study Finds an Increase Over 1975

By EMANUEL PERLUMITTER Judges in New York State are sending more convicted felons to state prison, according to an analysis by the Division of Criminal Justice Services to be submitted today to Governor Carey and the Legislature.

Joseph Baumgold Is Dead at 68; Ran Diamond-Import Company

By JOHN C. DEVLIN

Joseph Baumgold, the president of Baumgold Brothers Inc., one of the nation's leading diamond importers and cutters, died Saturday at his Fifth Avenue home after a long illness. He was 68 years old.

Deaths

- FLAVELL—Tom, 68, died in the labor...
MORRISON—Florence K., 85, died...
SCHLOSSMAN—Emanuel, 77, died...

Deaths

- LIEN—Herman, 82, died...
MORRISON—Florence K., 85, died...
SCHLOSSMAN—Emanuel, 77, died...

Deaths

- LIEN—Herman, 82, died...
MORRISON—Florence K., 85, died...
SCHLOSSMAN—Emanuel, 77, died...

Peking Praises Father Who Let Children Die

PEKING, Aug. 29 (Agence France-Presse)—China's official party newspaper has praised the actions of a father who, instead of rescuing his two children during the Tangshan earthquake on July 28, left them to die and saved an old party cadre instead.

Viking 2 Taking Pictures To Help Plot Landing Site

PASADENA, Calif., Aug. 29 (UPI)—Viking 2 started taking pictures of the frozen volcanic waste of the Martian Plains of Utopia today as its Sept. 3 landing site could be plotted. The landing target was to be chosen tomorrow.

Emanuel Schlossman, 77, Retired Furniture Dealer

Emanuel Schlossman, who retired in 1966 as president of Schlossman Inc., a metropolitan-area furniture chain that pioneered in the credit field when it was founded in 1888, died Saturday night in his home, 930 Fifth Avenue.

HELEN HECHT

Helen Hecht, president and chairman of Hecht, Egan & Nash Inc., a Westchester real estate concern, died Saturday in Northern Westchester Hospital. The wife of Feis Hecht, an interior decorator and builder, she was 65 years old and lived on Lawrence Farms Crossway, Chappaqua, N.Y.

WILLIAM FORRESTER

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 29—William Forrester, who retired in 1971 as associate business manager and personnel director of The Pittsburgh Press, a Scripps-Howard newspaper, died today in St. Clair Memorial Hospital. He was 66 years old. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Thelma Ruth Cassel Forrester, four sons, Stephen, Kenneth, Roger and Bruce; a daughter, Mrs. Priscilla Cohn, and a grandchild.

CHARLES GODMAN CABOT

NORTH HAVEN, Me., Aug. 29 (AP)—Charles Godman Cabot, former associate justice of the Massachusetts Superior Court and Chairman of the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority from 1966-69, died yesterday at his summer home. He was 75 years old.

THOMAS J. FLAVELL

Thomas J. Flavell, a vice president of the Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union and manager of its Local 189 here, died Friday in Long Island Jewish Hospital. He was 75 years old and lived at 1108 New Hyde Park Road, New Hyde Park, L. I.

SIMON S. NEUMAN

Simon S. Neuman, chairman of Publisher Industries Inc., distiller of beverage and industrial alcohol products, died yesterday in the University of Pennsylvania Hospital in Philadelphia. He was 76 years old and was a resident of Wayne, Pa.

Katherine Sproehle, 81, A Writer for Magazines

Katherine Sproehle, a writer who contributed to The New Yorker, Vanity Fair, Saturday Evening Post and other magazines, died yesterday at her home, 700 Park Avenue.

LEE TALLEY

Lee Talley, retired chairman of the Coca-Cola Company, died Saturday at his home in St. Michaels, Md. He was 75 years old.

FLORENCE K. MORRISON

Florence Keane Morrison, mother of Henderson W. Morrison, administrative judge of Nassau County Court, died Saturday in Grover Hermann Hospital, Callicoon, N.Y., after a lingering illness. Mrs. Morrison lived in Long Eddy, N.Y., and was 80 years old.

DR. JOEL HARTLEY, CLINICAL PROFESSOR

Dr. Joel Hartley, clinical professor of orthopedic surgery at the Mount Sinai School of Medicine and an attending orthopedic surgeon at Mount Sinai Hospital, died in the hospital yesterday. He was 66 years old and lived at 8 East 96th Street and South Salem, N.Y.

JAMES F. MALONE JR.

James F. Malone Jr., a former Allegheny County District Attorney and a power in Pennsylvania Republican politics for more than 30 years, died today at the Fair Winds Manor, a nursing home, in Sarver, Pa. He was 72 years old.

ROSE G. LACHER

Rose G. Lacher, for 25 years president of Lacher, Blouese Company, 525 Seventh Avenue, until its liquidation 10 years ago, died Saturday in her home, 2 Fifth Avenue, after a short illness. She was 70 years old. She is survived by three children, Lola Rivlin, Mignon Bloom and Ada Freiberg.

Kazi Nazrul Poet Dies; Bangladeshi Ismat Was 77

DACC, Bangladesh, Aug. 29 (AP)—Kazi Nazrul Islam, one of the foremost poets of the 20th century on the Indian subcontinent, died today in a hospital here. He was 77 years old.

JAMES F. MALONE JR.

James F. Malone Jr., a former Allegheny County District Attorney and a power in Pennsylvania Republican politics for more than 30 years, died today at the Fair Winds Manor, a nursing home, in Sarver, Pa. He was 72 years old.

ROSE G. LACHER

Rose G. Lacher, for 25 years president of Lacher, Blouese Company, 525 Seventh Avenue, until its liquidation 10 years ago, died Saturday in her home, 2 Fifth Avenue, after a short illness. She was 70 years old. She is survived by three children, Lola Rivlin, Mignon Bloom and Ada Freiberg.

Deaths

- FLAVELL—Tom, 68, died in the labor...
MORRISON—Florence K., 85, died...
SCHLOSSMAN—Emanuel, 77, died...

Deaths

- LIEN—Herman, 82, died...
MORRISON—Florence K., 85, died...
SCHLOSSMAN—Emanuel, 77, died...

Memorial Services

WILLIAM FORRESTER, Sr., Memorial Service...
JAMES F. MALONE JR., Memorial Service...

CP 1150

Chisholm Battling Wright Shutdown Race in Brooklyn

OTHERS

of sparring and contesting candidates for the 12th Assembly District. Representative Shirley Chisholm and D. Wright are the two main contenders in the race. Chisholm is the incumbent and Wright is the challenger. The race is expected to be a close one.

Shirley Chisholm

Chisholm, who has served in Congress for 12 years, is running for re-election. Wright, who has served in the Assembly for 12 years, is running for the same seat. The race is expected to be a close one.

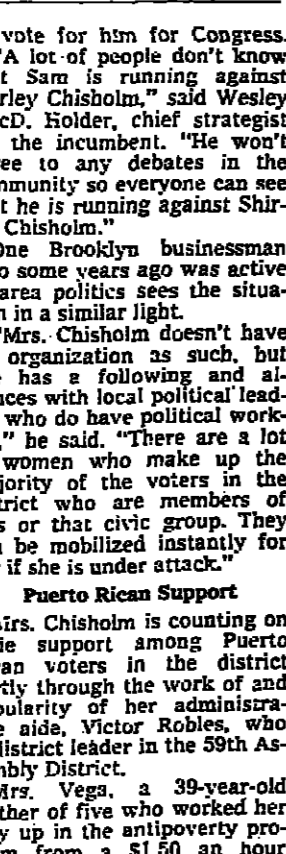

Samuel D. Wright

Wright, who has served in the Assembly for 12 years, is running for the same seat. The race is expected to be a close one.

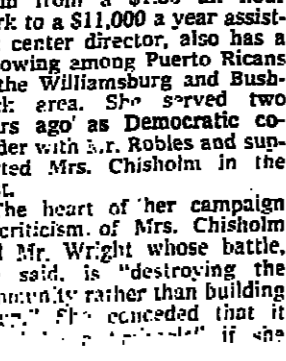

Luz P. Vega

Vega, who has served in the Assembly for 12 years, is running for the same seat. The race is expected to be a close one.

Mrs. Chisholm

Mrs. Chisholm, who has served in Congress for 12 years, is running for re-election. The race is expected to be a close one.

Mrs. Chisholm

won, but she said she wanted to give the people of her community the opportunity to judge her on the basis of her 12 years of work with the anti-poverty program.

Being re-elected, Mrs. Chisholm said, could mean another historic first for black women as a national figure whose status as the first black woman in Congress and the first black to mount a campaign for the Presidency has enhanced her ability to bring national funds to the area and brought national awareness of the problems of other poor, mostly minority areas.

But glints of her former competitiveness return when she is asked about Mr. Wright's challenge. "He's a modern day black Tammany politician building himself up with a patronage system, intimidation and fear," she said, charging that Mr. Wright used his influence over school district jobs and other program jobs to compel support of his candidacy.

Mr. Fortune read recently in the New York Amsterdam News that Mr. Wright had endorsed him for re-election. However, the Assemblyman said that his opponent, Martin Dilan, was a Wright associate who ran with the Councilman as a Carter delegate in last April's Presidential primary and received aid from Mr. Wright in a bid to unseat Mr. Fortune as the Democratic district leader.

Mr. Fortune said he was supporting Mr. Dilan against Mr. Wright.

Tifereth Israel synagogue after the 1971 fire at left, and the new building, at Clymer Street and Bedford Avenue

A Synagogue Rises From Ashes

By IRVING SPIEGEL

Some 100 Orthodox Jews who had worshipped in makeshift quarters for five years dedicated their new, one-story synagogue in the heart of the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn yesterday.

Five years ago a fire destroyed the 102-year-old synagogue of Congregation Tifereth Israel on that same corner, Clymer Street and Bedford Avenue. Four Torahs—the sacred scrolls of Judaism—were saved. Forty-four others were destroyed.

Yesterday the officers of the synagogue carried the four Torahs aloft under a canopy from the small brownstone basement synagogue where they had worshipped at 95 Division Avenue into their new house of worship.

The procession was led by Max Froot, the congregation's president; Hyman Fischberger, vice president; Dr. Gabriel Kirschenbaum, secretary-treasurer; his wife, Cole, financial secretary; and Morris Herman, a trustee.

For the last five years, the officers—led by Dr. Kirschenbaum, a physician who has been associated with the synagogue for 50 years, and his wife, who officiated, "there is had raised funds among friends to construct the new synagogue at a cost of close to $400,000.

It is a day for rejoicing, Mrs. Kirschenbaum said. "We can't thank enough those friends, the artisans, who gave of their time to make the two lettered stained-glass windows that will be installed in the sanctuary flanking the Ark."

As the Ark—the repository for the Torahs—was opened, Shule."

At yesterday's ceremony, a member of the congregation carried one of the four Torahs that were saved from the fire.

At yesterday's ceremony, a member of the congregation carried one of the four Torahs that were saved from the fire.

At yesterday's ceremony, a member of the congregation carried one of the four Torahs that were saved from the fire.

At yesterday's ceremony, a member of the congregation carried one of the four Torahs that were saved from the fire.

At yesterday's ceremony, a member of the congregation carried one of the four Torahs that were saved from the fire.

At yesterday's ceremony, a member of the congregation carried one of the four Torahs that were saved from the fire.

Axelson Is Little Changed by Heat of Fiscal Crisis

By STEVEN R. WEISMAN

His hair is not discernibly grayer. His temper remains mostly under control. He has not become noticeably addicted to the heated interviews and bureaucratic intrigue.

And so it is in reasonably good condition that Kenneth S. Axelson, the city's Deputy Mayor for Finance, is preparing to leave his post in a few weeks and return to the quieter pace of corporate affairs at J. C. Penney after a tumultuous year at City Hall.

Mayor Beame has decided on John C. Burton, chief accountant at the Securities and Exchange Commission, to succeed Mr. Axelson next month. But politicians agree that the transition will mark a milestone of sorts for the city and Mr. Beame.

Kenneth S. Axelson

It was Mr. Axelson, they point out, who last September dashed into the public arena, where he was immediately heralded as a harbinger of a new era of city finances, a sort of financial Lochinvar who would apply his business expertise to rescue a troubled metropolis from the throes of chaos and bankruptcy.

"Last fall," Mr. Axelson said the other day, "we were still in the process of trying to identify the dimensions of the problem. I think today I feel a considerable sense of accomplishment. We've made happen a lot of things that seemed undoable."

"I can say that Mr. Dilan is still getting financial support for his campaign from Mr. Wright and this whole thing was designed to confuse people," charged Mr. Fortune.

Mr. Wright denies that he is supporting Mr. Dilan against Mr. Fortune.

Mr. Fortune said he was supporting Mr. Dilan against Mr. Wright.

Mr. Axelson said he was leaving with mixed feelings. He returns to J. C. Penney because that was what he promised, he said, but the experience of working for the city has transformed his life and even the lives of his wife and children.

"There are gulfs and gulfs of difference in our social viewpoints," Mr. Bigel added, "and yet I really think that's more apparent than real. He's what I call the straightest of the straight arrows. He probably projects a degree of honesty and forthrightness that I can't positively imagine being encountered anywhere else."

When he began working for Mayor Beame, Mr. Axelson said he was told by everybody he had to have an office at City Hall, in deference to the rule of politics that propinquity breeds success. He got the office but very quickly learned never to use it—too many distractions, he says—and Mr. Axelson has generally remained in his 14th-floor suite at 250 Broadway, which he shares with his five assistants.

His influence with the Mayor is not thought to have diminished as a result, especially since he frequently exercised his same insistent quality on behalf of Mr. Beame in tense confrontations with the Emergency Control Board staff or with auditors from the United States Treasury Department.

BUDGET BODY SEES STABLE NEW YORK

Citizen Panel, Once a Critic of City's Fiscal Policies, Finds 'Realistic' Reform

By GLENN FOWLER

Mayor Beame and his budget aides received a kind word from an unexpected source yesterday when the Citizens Budget Commission said, in its annual fiscal summary, that the city "appears to be in the process of transition to a more stable future."

The summary noted, however, that nearly 42 percent of the city's tax revenues were required for pension obligations and to retire the municipal debt, leaving only slightly more than half of the revenue to cover current expenses.

William S. Renchard, chairman of the business-oriented "watchdog" organization, noted that "all official figures cannot be considered exact since the city's accounting systems are undergoing revisions."

"Nevertheless," he said, "it is clear that the city is moving toward a more realistic approach to its budgetary procedures."

For several years, the watchdog group had been caustically critical of city budget practices, having issued public warnings of unsound municipal financing well before the fiscal crisis began in late 1974.

Projections of revenues that the city deems receivable in the 1976-77 budget year contain $269 million in allowances for uncollectible taxes and a $125 million reserve for anticipated disallowances of state and Federal aid.

Metropolitan Briefs

Use of New York State Seal Opposed

State Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz filed suit in State Supreme Court, Manhattan, seeking to enjoin the use by two Connecticut companies of the Great Seal of New York State. Mr. Lefkowitz charged that the companies, International Silver and American Archives, both of Meriden, had used the seal without authorization.

Man Killed, 3 Wounded on East Side

A man was killed and three other persons, including an 11-year-old boy, were wounded in a sudden burst of gunfire on a crowded sidewalk on Avenue D near Eighth Street on the Lower East Side in Manhattan. The youth was walking to a grocery store at the intersection when he was caught in an apparent crossfire. He was listed in serious condition during surgery at Bellevue Hospital.

From the Police Blotter:

Homicide detectives were investigating the mutilation-murders of a young woman and a man whose bodies were found in the bathroom of the woman's second-floor apartment at 125 Rockaway Parkway in the Brownsville section of Brooklyn. The woman, identified as Vanessa Flowers, 18 years old, had her left hand severed, apparently by a machete. The man, tentatively identified as Robert Goldsberry, about 20, had both arms nearly severed at the elbows. Autopsies were being performed to determine whether they had also been shot. Two children, ages 2 and 3, were found in the apartment unharmed. Vincent Adams was arrested for homicide for reportedly causing the death of a woman friend in her apartment at 140 East 31 Street when, after allegedly hitting her with his fists she fell and struck her head. The victim was identified as Denise LaDora, 27. For the second time in four days, an unknown gunman apparently using an air gun loaded with BB's broke the windows of parked cars in Rosedale, Queens. Thirty-five cars were damaged last night; 40 the night before.

Park Fiesta Gives Taste of Puerto Rico

A little bit of Puerto Rico came to Central Park yesterday, bringing joy and memories to thousands of former residents and their children. The 12th annual Puerto Rican Folk Fiesta filled the mall with mariachi bands, popular theater and other aspects of their favorite island in the sun.

The festival was, in part, a colorful exhibition of Puerto Rican culture and heritage for 60,000 people. Paintings of San Juan, P.R., wooden carvings, dolls, shells, jewelry made from shells and native foods filled the booths near the bandshell, where ballet and politicians were on display.

The festival abounded with tables of chicken and rice, shish kebabs, fried bananas, meat pies, sizzling sausages, coconuts and pineapples. Non-Hispanic vendors were asked by the police to leave.

Two years ago the city spent $17,419 to clean up the grassy area near Central Park Mall after the Puerto Rican festival. Last year, after a controversy between the Puerto Rican community and the Parks Department, which had asked a $17,500 bond, Mayor Beame granted permission for the festival in exchange for a $5,000 bond.

This year the fiesta committee posted a $5,000 bond and $150 for liability insurance, according to Mrs. Lemus.

But Mr. Badillo appeared and began shaking hands. Representative Bella S. Abzug, who had traded her white wide-brimmed hat for a straw sombrero, was next to him.

ams
Two lf

Aug. 29 (AP) m carded a 9 and scored 6 today in d American l scored his f the season y into next d Series of total.

m — who n four con- column for s and is a re-14 under h course a ntry Club, a that mean- around the ter, which y grave for 1 Graham's of trouble keys to his winner of Classic two t 66 holes out making ing started sole of the extending to f the final the former n champion nd not re- ide the only with birdies 17th that th'n three aving three of Davo 1 shot into : 18th and foot putt to second with under par. third with followed by 31, Column 5

rs Will Vote F.L. Contract

by WILLIAM N. WALLACE

before the al Football in Sept. 12

persive anxiety of the last two years remaining.

The owners' contract offer is regarded by the Players' Association as being far from generous.

The view is that this is a fair swap to help even the score because the owners lost compensation rights for players who switched teams by their own volition when the courts declared the Rozelle Compensation Rule illegal.

Other features of the offer are said to be a four-man taxi squad, the latter four to be paid $500 a month, reestablishment of Pete Rozelle, the commissioner, as the judge in injury grievance

Leon Brown, at left, Mets' center fielder, was unhappy yesterday as ball hit by Reggie Smith of the Dodgers sailed over the wall for a home run in the first inning. Smith, above, and his teammates, however, were quite pleased.

Smith's Early Clout Beats Seaver, 2-1

By THOMAS ROGERS

"Some more of the same" was what Tom Seaver called the Mets' 2-1 loss to the Los Angeles Dodgers yesterday at Shea Stadium.

Reggie Smith, at bat for only the second time since injuring himself in a fall Aug. 7, ripped Seaver's first delivery more than 400 feet over the center-field fence, and the Dodgers had all the runs they would need.

Ron Cey and Jim Lytle rapped solid singles before Seaver could end the inning, but the damage had been done.

Tommy John, a left-hander who mixed an occasional curve with a steady diet of fastballs for Met batters, allowed New York only six hits and worked himself out of three perilous situations to even his won-lost record at 8-8.

The only New York run was delivered in the sixth inning with one out, when Leon Brown, Felix Millan and John Milner rapped consecutive singles. John escaped further damage by fanning Dave Kingman and retiring Joe Torre on a grounder.

In the fourth, the Mets had threatened when Millan reached base on a throwing error by Cey, at third, and advanced to third on a single by Milner.

had threatened when Millan reached base on a throwing error by Cey, at third, and advanced to third on a single by Milner.

"I feel I've pitched consistently since the first week of May," said Seaver, who reduced his earned-run average to 2.50, the lowest for a starting pitcher in the National League.

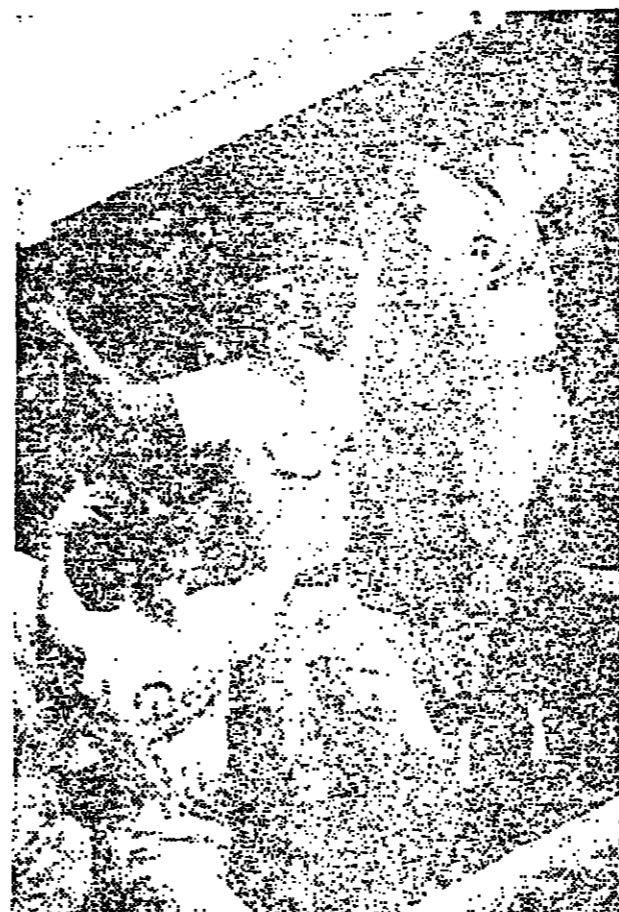

They haven't, but you never resign yourself to losing. The only thing is, when you're losing you're more aware of the bad breaks—the line drives of ours that get caught and the ones by the other guys that don't.

Some of the Dodgers danced in their dugout when the public-address system blared a recording by Ron Cey, the Dodger third baseman who is also a vocalist.

Some of the Dodgers danced in their dugout when the public-address system blared a recording by Ron Cey, the Dodger third baseman who is also a vocalist.

Some of the Dodgers danced in their dugout when the public-address system blared a recording by Ron Cey, the Dodger third baseman who is also a vocalist.

Some of the Dodgers danced in their dugout when the public-address system blared a recording by Ron Cey, the Dodger third baseman who is also a vocalist.

Some of the Dodgers danced in their dugout when the public-address system blared a recording by Ron Cey, the Dodger third baseman who is also a vocalist.

Nastase Overwhelms Tanner in Final

By NEIL AMDUR

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J., Aug. 29—The Nastase was in rare form today, playing the type of tennis that wins tournaments and respect.

The top-seeded Rumanian overwhelmed second-seeded American today, won the women's singles title and $1,800 with a surprisingly easy 6-3, 6-2 victory over Len Antonopolis of Glendora, Calif., the 17-year-old cen-quoror of Dr. Renee Richards. But today's stadium drama belonged to Nastase.

Tanner set Nastase "doing a lot of other things" earlier this year when the flamboyant Rumanian walked off the court and defaulted a match at the American Airlines event, trailing, 3-6, 1-3, 0-40.

Nastase never let his temper overshadow his talent today. And the crowd, which often has jeered his more petulant antics, seemed almost awed by his artistry.

He was everywhere, retrieving shots in the corners that seemed like certain winning shots. He was everywhere, retrieving shots in the corners that seemed like certain win-ing shots. He was everywhere, retrieving shots in the corners that seemed like certain win-

Yanks Fall, 5-4; To Angels in 11

By MURRAY CHASS

ANAHEIM, Calif., Aug. 29 — Thurman Munson, who was hit in the head by a Nolan Ryan fastball and lived to tell about it, bounced back today and nearly became a hero. Nearly. Just as the Yankees nearly won.

But the Yankees lost to California, 6-4, in 11 innings so Munson's quick comeback didn't turn out to be so glamorous.

Munson, who didn't start the game after his head served as target practice for Ryan last night, came to bat as a pinch-hitter in the ninth inning and singled home the tying run. He also singled in the 11th, but the Angels won in their half of the 11th when Graig Nettles fielded Bill Melton's routine one-out ground ball and fired it well over Chris Chambliss's head at first. Jerry Remy was on second at the time on a walk and a sacrifice and he raced around to score on the error.

Even then, Munson came close to being a hero. "I thought I was going to make a helluva play there," he said minutes after taking Chambliss's separate throw from short right field. "Looking toward right for the ball, I couldn't see either the plate or the runner. I just said, 'Hell, I'm gonna catch the ball and dive in front of the plate. So I caught the ball and dove, but he wasn't there." He just beat the throw." Dick Tidrow, who relieved Ken Holtzman after nine innings, suffered the loss in the Yankees' fifth extra-inning affair in their last eight games. Tidrow had pitched brilliantly for 10 2/3 innings in the 19-inning victory over Minnesota last Wednesday night in New York.

The Yankees' 8-1 triumph over the Angels last night was the only game of the last five between the teams that didn't go past nine innings. It was in the second inning last night that Ryan bounced a pitch off Munson's batting helmet. Munson felt the fireballing right-hander was deliberately throwing at him; Ryan denied it. "Anyone who came up at that time was the logical person to get hit," Munson said. "He knew he wasn't pitching the next inning and he just had four straight shots hit off him. I was standing further from the plate and I was standing deeper in the box than any man by far and the ball was behind me. It wasn't my fault the left-handed were hitting him. It wasn't my fault his arm's hurting him and he can't throw any curveballs."

Ryan, who had lasted only two innings in suffering his Continued on Page 39, Column 4

U.S. Women Take Tennis Cup Final

By TONY KORNEHEISER

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29 — Call it the implausible Dream—not impossible—that Billie Jean King, who has been retired from tournament singles play for more than one year, and Rosemary Casals, who has not won a singles tournament in three years, should make the United States women's team the best in the world.

They won the Federation Cup here today by defeating Australia, 2-1, and collected the $40,000 prize that went to the winning team. Had the team played as originally constituted, the presence of Chris Evert would have made the Americans virtually untouchable.

But an inflated tendon on her right hand kept Chris in Fort Lauderdale, and Mrs. King, who is unranked in the United States this year, and Miss Casals, who is ranked 10th—behind such people as Marcie Louie and Kathy Kuykendall—had to do it alone. And they were as good as they have ever been, sweeping through five rounds in six days.

Football and the Airborne Dollar

Days of radio broadcasting of sports of baseball teams viewed the new medium combination of suspicion and fear they felt.

Attendance has shown a small decline in a Congress forbade blacking out games as; according to Broadcasting Magazine, slightly on the National Conference games and the cleared talk shows on Monday American Broadcasting Companies, while Conference games on the National Broad- way improved their ratings a trifle; prices, gone up on everything.

Golden Moments journal reports that professional and col- lect $81.5 million from networks and his year. The mercenaries get about $60 Because the N.F.L. is working on a hold- with the networks, the increase over last ramatic, a paltry $367,000, but it is still on airborne dollar plateau than the American Conference but is on about the same financial level. For rights to college games, ABC pays the N.C.A.A. $16 million. The Rose Bowl Jan. 1 costs NBC $1.5 million, and the same network pays $600,000 for the Orange Bowl at night, bringing its New Year's Day contribution to scholarship to $2.5 million.

All this adds up to $72.9 million, leaving $8.6 million to be accounted for by other bowl games, preseason games, radio rights and deals with local stations.

Sponsors wishing to apprise football buffs of the unique properties of the automobile, snow tire, deodorant, laxative or after-shave lotion which they are offering at a special low price will pay $225,000 a minute to do so during Super Bowl XI, and NBC has already sold all the time spots.

At intervals during the National Conference championship game on Dec. 26, the director will instruct the referee to call timeout, whereupon CBS will accommodate its sponsors at $150,000 a minute. NBC will perform the same service from the Rose Bowl for $170,000 a minute. Last year these prices were $134,000 and $140,000.

Giants Still Have Room To Improve

By MICHAEL KATZ

In the early-morning fog yesterday, the Giants booted New Jersey, but even after an unscheduled landing in their new home state, they were flying high.

Their chartered plane, taking them back from their two-touchdowns-in-the-last-six-minutes-what-a-way-to-win victory in Green Bay, was unable to land at foggy Westchester Airport.

So at 3 o'clock in the morning at Newark Airport, with no one in the place except a happy football team and cleaners, the night was still young. The Giants, who began Saturday night by falling behind the Green Bay Packers, 16-6, before rallying for a 20-16 preseason victory, still had to get to Westchester, where their cars were parked.

Advertisement for Pall Mall Gold 100's cigarettes. Features a large illustration of a man and woman embracing, and a pack of cigarettes. Text includes: 'Decisions...decisions...Make your decision', 'PALL MALL', 'PALL MALL GOLD 100's. The great taste of fine Pall Mall tobacco. Not too strong, not too light. Not too long. Tastes just right.', and 'Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking is Dangerous to Your Health.'

الرياضية

Run to Belmont Racing Today

By MICHAEL STRAUSS

SPRINGS, on Sundays, he undoubtedly was on to year's attendance, too," said Thomas Fitzgerald the president of the N.Y.R.A. "But we have to remember that Sunday racing, with its double time for employees, is extremely expensive to stage."

The opening program at Belmont Park, where 21 stakes during the meeting will offer $1,955,000 in added money, will feature two divisions of the six-furlong fall Highweight Handicap. The fixture had to be split because of the large entry of 20 sprinters. Originally valued at $75,000 added in the one-race presentation, each section now will offer $60,000 in added money.

Two previous winners of the Highweight will perform in the second division which is to occupy the eighth spot on the program. Trying for second triumphs will be Penny-Bryn's fine mare, Honorable Miss, and Miguel Alfonso's Piazan.

The celebrated Bill Shoemaker, now mostly a Pacific coast jockey, will be seen in both phases of the Highweight. He will be on Our Hero and then, Honorable Miss.

Strapto Stable's Soy Numero Uno, the $35,000 yearling who has made a great comeback from a leg injury this year, heads the Highweight's first division. This 3-year-old colt has triumphed in all three 1976 starts. He will carry 137 pounds.

Honorable Miss triumphed in 1975 under 133 pounds as compared to the 130 she has been assigned this year. Piazan, the 1974 victor, who toted 133 pounds in that successful run, getting in this time with 122. Gallant Bob, last season's sprint champion, is to carry the top weight of 140 pounds.

RACING
L.I. 1:30
Sport, N.J.

la Takes Prix d'Ete

Aug. 29 (AP)—Precious Fella, driven by stured the $163,700 Prix d'Ete pnce today s at Blue Bonnets Raceway. Precious car and Michael Kimmelman, Mort Feder, Cameron of Pinehurst, N.C., earned place ce finish in the second division of the round earlier in the afternoon. Keystone first division heat, finished second in the he winner of the second division, placed

ntess First in Matchmaker

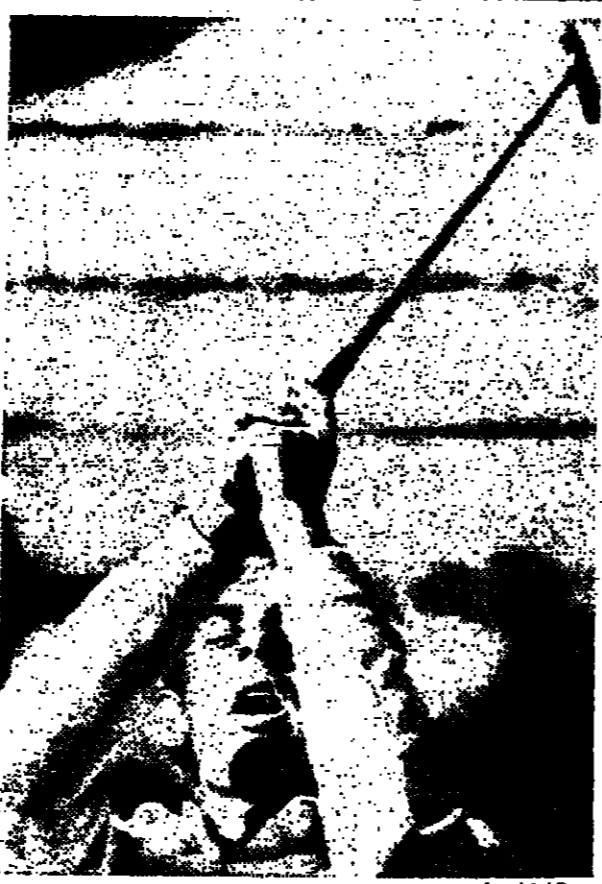

TY, Aug. 29 (AP)—Chris McCarron rode to victory in the $125,000 Matchmaker. The triumph by the 4-year-old owned by arned Holzinger's stable stallion service e, a service valued at $75,000. What A cated for $8 million. ess, carrying 119 pounds, won by threeth from Vodka Time, who was lengths Verse. The winner ran the 13/16-mile d returned $5.40 for a $2 bet.

Entries at Belmont

Table listing race entries at Belmont Park, including race names, horse names, jockeys, and trainers.

Entries at Yonkers

Table listing race entries at Yonkers Raceway, including race names, horse names, jockeys, and trainers.

David Graham showing his disappointment after missing a birdie putt on the 18th hole in the final round of the American Golf Classic. His mood changed when he won.

High Tides Around New York

Location	Time	Wave Height
Sandy Hook	12:29	3.12
Rockaway Inlet	1:01	3.28
A.A. P.M.	4:15	4.52
A.A. P.M.	5:32	5.52
A.A. P.M.	6:11	6.59
A.A. P.M.	7:14	7.48
A.A. P.M.	8:24	8.35
A.A. P.M.	9:34	9.24
A.A. P.M.	10:44	10.11

Grahams 1, 2 in Golf At Akron

Continued From Page 29
Bob Gilder, Ed Sneed and Jim Simons at 280. Gilder had a 70, Sneed, 73 and Simons, 74.

The $40,000 victory from the total purse of $200,000 pushed David Graham's earnings for the year to $154,708.

Ray Floyd, the Masters champion, who had a share of the lead starting the last round, carded a bogey from the water on the final hole and slipped to a 76-281.

THE LEADING SCORES

Player	Score
David Graham	69
Tom Jenkins	72
Ed Sneed	73
Jim Simons	74
Bob Gilder	75
Ray Floyd	76
Lee Trevino	77
Tom Watson	78
Jack Nicklaus	79
Sam Snead	80
Arnold Palmer	81
Walter Hagen	82
Ben Hogan	83
Jimmy Carter	84
Sammy Snead	85
Sam Ratcliff	86
Sammy Davis Jr.	87
Sammy Davis Sr.	88
Sammy Davis III	89
Sammy Davis IV	90
Sammy Davis V	91
Sammy Davis VI	92
Sammy Davis VII	93
Sammy Davis VIII	94
Sammy Davis IX	95
Sammy Davis X	96
Sammy Davis XI	97
Sammy Davis XII	98
Sammy Davis XIII	99
Sammy Davis XIV	100

'Dry Trot' Held at Complex

By STEVE CADY
Special to The New York Times
EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J., Aug. 29—"I'm sick," a smiling horseplayer said today as he cashed another fistful of tickets at the new Meadowlands track.

The ungrateful winner had just watched P.A. Carlos score easily at $4 for $2 in the third of five six-stake events during a dress rehearsal for Wednesday night's official opening. Earlier, he had made a couple of hundred on Lady Bea S., the $23 winner of the first race, and followed that up by cashing a $149 daily-double ticket on Lady Bea S. and K.H. Kathy.

None of it counted, of course, because the money that went through the pari-mutuel machines today was play money. At times, though, as the customers rushed to buy their tickets or lined up to cash them, it almost seemed like the real thing.

Management had anticipated a crowd of perhaps 6,000. More than 15,000 showed up for a free ride that included no-charge parking, admission, past-performance program and $50 apiece in play money. As the message on the tote-board television screen put it at the conclusion of the afternoon dress rehearsal, "This is just the beginning." Real money starts changing hands Wednesday night with the first of 102 programs of harness racing extending through Dec. 31.

Despite the advantage of a one-mile racing surface, only one of the five winners on a program of three trots and two paces negotiated the distance in less than 2 minutes. P.A. Carlos, earning real money like the others, took the $6,200 third race, a one-mile pace, in 1:59.35. A combination of sunshine and lower humidity helped chase away the haze and give spectators a clear idea of just how close the Meadowlands track is to midtown Manhattan. The Empire State Building, six miles to the East, stood out almost as if it were in the parking lot beyond the first turn. To the north, beyond the backstretch, the tops of the George Washington Bridge's two towers could be seen above the Palisades.

Beyond the bridge, in Westchester County, lies Yonkers Raceway. An early sampling of fan opinion indicated that few New Jersey patrons will be going to Yonkers while harness racing is available at the Meadowlands.

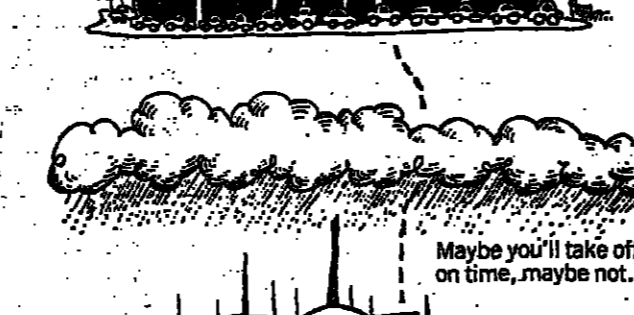

On September 8th, New Yorkers get something they can really use. Instant Cash. THE EMPIRE STATE NEW YORK'S LOTTERY. Where no one has a better chance than you.

THE $36. OBSTACLE COURSE.

To Washington By Plane:

Find the gate and get a ticket. $36. one-way fare.

Maybe you'll take off on time, maybe not.

Meet new friends.

Circle the airport is lots of fun.

Now it's Washington traffic and about $4.

THE $23. METROLINER RUN.

To Washington By Train:

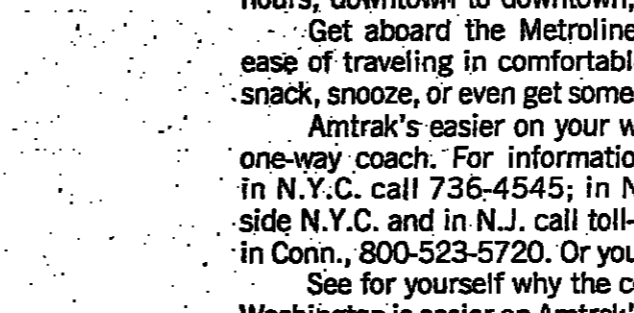

Get on board.

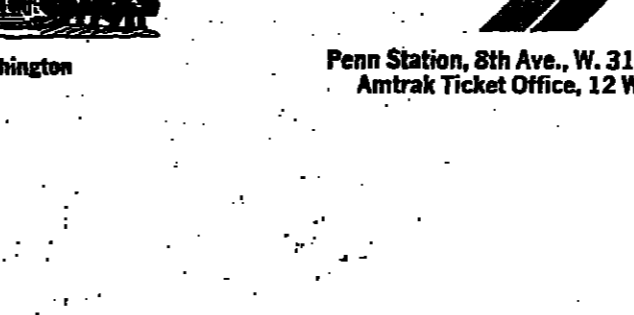

We have 13 Metroliners a day.

Relax! Have a drink, stretch out, eat, walk around, work, sleep.

2 seats abreast, wide and comfortable.

Arrive in the center of Washington, relaxed and about $20. richer.

Washington

It doesn't matter how you look at it, Amtrak's Metroliner is the easiest way to Washington. With 13 trains daily, Monday through Friday (with frequent service weekends), taking about three hours; downtown to downtown, why bother flying? Get aboard the Metroliner and discover the ease of traveling in comfortable wide seats. Relax, snack, snooze, or even get some work done. Amtrak's easier on your wallet, too. Just $23. one-way coach. For information and reservations in N.Y.C. call 736-4545; in New York State outside N.Y.C. and in N.J. call toll-free 800-523-5700; in Conn., 800-523-5720. Or your travel agent. See for yourself why the coming and going to Washington is easier on Amtrak's Metroliner.

Amtrak logo and address: Penn Station, 8th Ave., W. 31st-W. 33rd Sts. Amtrak Ticket Office, 12 West 51st St.

you're minutes of the time

THE HEAD W

Football Redskins

se in Output ated by China s Lack an Assessment arthquakes' Impact

By FOX BUTTERFIELD Special to The New York Times China's in their economic claims only in 7 percent this year...

The area hardest hit by the northern China tremor—a triangular region bounded by Tangshah, Peking and Tientsin—is China's third largest industrial center...

Moreover, the analysts have noted that the quake evidently hit particularly hard at China's rapidly expanding thermal power industry...

Two large new power plants being built in Tangsu and by French and Japanese engineers were reportedly destroyed...

The loss of these new power plants will presumably have a serious effect on new factories that had been planned for Peking and Tientsin under China's fifth five-year plan...

Pouring steel into ingots at the Tsingtao steel mill in Shantung province. Analysts have noted that the recent earthquakes evidently hit hard at China's iron and steel industry.

China, Lacking Recognition, Holds Down U.S. Trade

By ANN CRITTENDEN Trade between the United States and China will remain at its current low level until the United States Government recognizes the Peking regime...

Mr. Phillips was interviewed after a recent trip to Peking, during which he spoke with some 12 officials in state trading corporations...

Settlement of this long-standing dispute would pave the way for airline and trade agreements between the two nations.

Contrary to prior impressions, Mr. Phillips was led to believe that the Chinese were willing to negotiate the issue of the $196.7 million in American assets frozen in China...

At present, relatively little specific business is apparently being negotiated, although the Chinese seemed eager to at least keep the door open to commercial and technical contacts.

This year, the Chinese are weighing their industrial purchases with greater care and have reduced their imports of agricultural goods as well.

Christopher H. Phillips, head of National Council for U.S.-China Trade.

Wolfson Challenged On Legal Expenses

Stockholder Suit Says Company Payment of $1.3 Million Violated Settlement

Two minority shareholders of the legal expenses. Any recovery from Mr. Wolfson would go to the company. Mr. Wolfson was one of the most publicized—and controversial—business names of the 1950's and 1960's.

The 64-year-old Mr. Wolfson, who with members of his family controls 40 percent of Merritt-Chapman, insists the charges are "wholly without merit."

There are two key issues in the case. One is whether reimbursement for the legal costs—paid last year for the most part—breached a settlement reached nine years ago under which Mr. Wolfson agreed to a court-ordered limit on his pay and expenses from Merritt-Chapman.

Bill Collectors Defensive About Harassment Issue

A New Jersey motorist we'll call Al felt both his voice and his blood pressure begin to rise the minute he answered the telephone.

Al was angry. A year earlier the same agency had tried to collect a somewhat lesser amount—the interest charges continued to mount as time marched on—and Al had retracted with a very sharp letter.

Al went on to tell the collection agency that he would file formal complaints against it with both the New York State and New York City Consumer Affairs Departments...

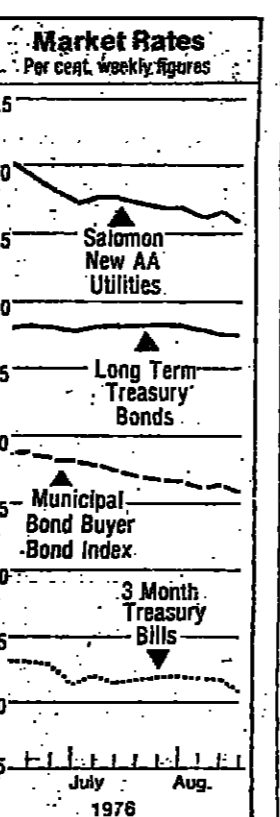

The "horror stories" that came out of Congressional hearings on the strongarm tactics of some collection agencies—threats of bodily harm, jail, and even arson—

of New Issues Low-Rate Trend

Wall Street investment bankers and the finance officers of the local governments involved hope, of course, to see the trend toward lower rates continue, and investors are equally hopeful that rates will be raised somewhat to make this week's heavy volume sell more quickly.

When the weekly credit market letters were published at the end of the week, however, some appeared to restate the optimistic view that interest rates might still decline a little during the final weeks of the summer.

Henry Kaufman of Salomon Brothers, for example, came to this conclusion: "Considering all the factors influencing monetary policy for the near term, there is a little more than even chance of another 'nuance move' toward ease by the end of this quarter."

The New York Times/Aug. 30, 1976

Washington and Business Consumer Legislation's Blurred Future

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—Several pieces of the sort of legislation generally regarded as anathema by businessmen and a blessing by consumers, after months (and even years) of fighting and negotiating among the principals, will face their final tests for enactment in Congress in the next few weeks.

The bills considered most important by consumer advocates are those dealing with the Consumer Protection Agency and antitrust legislation and the outcome of both have been made uncertain by threatened and real filibustering in the Senate, as well as statements by Jimmy Carter, the Democratic Presidential candidate.

The battle over the Consumer Protection Agency bill, which would establish an independent agency to represent consumer interests before other Federal agencies and courts as well as serving as a clearing house for consumer complaints, was joined last year when the Senate and House passed slightly different versions.

Apartment Construction Is Slow

By ROBERT LINDSEY Special to The New York Times LOS ANGELES, Aug. 29—Surprisingly sluggish demand for apartments in many parts of the country has sent housing economists searching for possible basic changes in the life style of younger Americans who would normally be forming their own households and moving into apartments now.

More than a year after the economy began pulling out its steepest recession in more than 30 years, the nation's economically vital housing industry is still searching for a sure path to recovery.

In recent weeks, most housing economists have once again revised downward their forecast of how many new housing units would be started this year. Many now anticipate fewer than 1.5 million housing starts, well below earlier expectations.

Surprised Analysts Ask if Life Style Has Changed

country recently. According to some estimates, single-family home starts could approach 1.2 million this year, which would be close to the volume of 1.3 million in 1972, the highest ever.

"We're estimating 1.48 million to 1.49 million housing starts," said Robert Sheehan, director of economic research for the National Association of Home Builders. That's about 125,000 fewer new homes started this year than the association estimated in May, and 75,000 fewer than in June.

"I think at this point we will have difficulty seeing 1.5 million, and if we have another month like July, there will be great difficulty in seeing 1.45 million," said Donald Kaplan, the director of research for the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Construction of apartments is off, and demand for apartments is sluggish in many parts of the country. Here a California couple check kitchen in an Orange County apartment.

Ask your insurance agent or broker how we're different. CHUBB Group of Insurance Companies

If You Get Sick, Why Should Your IRA or Keogh Plan Suffer? We'll show you how to guarantee regular contributions. Matt Jaffe ASSOCIATES, LTD.

son Is Challenged on Expenses for a Lawsuit

From Page 33

ment to apply to all reimbursements to Mr. Wolfson as that he had including any mandatory denunciations. The high cost of litigation is nothing new to Mr. Wolfson. His aggressive efforts to capitalize on the Capital Transit Company in Washington, D.C., is represented by Edward Williams, a lawyer who generated a good deal of opposition.

So did the abortive proxy fight Mr. Wolfson mounted in 1955 for control of Montgomery Ward & Company. His first real clash with the S.E.C. came in mid-1958, after an associate jury count was said that Mr. Wolfson had begun to sell his 400,000-share position in American Motors on the ground that the stock was "fully priced."

In fact, Mr. Wolfson had actually sold the stock short, S.E.C. officials contended—and the entrepreneur denied—that he hoped to profit from a drop in the price of the stock touched off by word that he had raised by attorney for whether those have been Delaware court of the earlier element limiting compensation for 400 a year.

Lawyers in New York settle relevant to the n. They main- was no effort and they argue aware law, the required to expenses even ense was only ul.

Attention is that Justice George scheduled to action tomorrow $50,000 limit e 1967 settle-

Louis E. Wolfson

was planning to unload. Mr. Wolfson's subsequent battles with the S.E.C. were highlighted by the revelation that he had arranged in 1965 to pay Abe Fortas, a close friend of President Johnson and one of the most politically potent lawyers in Washington, $20,000 a year for life in exchange for "continuing services" to the Wolfson Foundation.

Mr. Fortas received one $20,000 payment and returned it 11 months later. But the financial link became known while Mr. Wolfson was in jail that he had other problems with the S.E.C. were as yet unresolved.

Mr. Fortas, who by then had been named to the Supreme Court by President Johnson, became the first justice in the Court's history to resign under public pressure. He did so on May 15, 1969.

NEW ISSUES TEST

LOW-RATE TREND

Continued From Page 33

Corporate bond market faces a tight supply of securities to be sold.

The Treasury will sell $2 billion of four-year notes tomorrow. On Friday the already outstanding Treasury 7 1/2 percent notes that mature June 30, 1980, were offered at a price to yield 7.05 percent. Consequently, traders suggested that the new notes might give investors a yield somewhere between 7.05 percent and 7.15 percent.

In this week's heavy tax-exempt bond-sale schedule, the following are the largest issues:

MONDAY
Watts County Comm. Bonds, $100 million, rated AA by Standard & Poor's, Competitive.
TUESDAY
Metropolitan Public Power Supply, $100 million, rated AA by Standard & Poor's, Competitive.
Metropolitan Public Power Supply, $100 million, rated AA by Standard & Poor's, Competitive.
Metropolitan Public Power Supply, $100 million, rated AA by Standard & Poor's, Competitive.
Metropolitan Public Power Supply, $100 million, rated AA by Standard & Poor's, Competitive.

announcing the following issues are scheduled:

WEDNESDAY
Verde Electric & Power Co., $100 million of bonds, due 2005, rated stable-A, Merrill Lynch.
DURING WEEK
Artesia Steel Corp., $100 million of debentures, due 2001, rated stable-A, Merrill Lynch.

Manila Acts on Fuel
MANILA, Aug. 29 (Reuters) —The Philippines Government today began a campaign to persuade motorists to give up their cars for one day a week to save bills for fuel, all of which is imported.

U.S. Trade Restricted By Chinese

Continued From Page 33

As a result, the council estimates that their foreign-trade accounts will be almost in balance this year after deficits of close to $1 billion in 1974 and $300 million last year.

The overall level of trade, which was about $14 billion in 1975, should increase by only 5 percent this year, the council estimates.

Trade between the United States and China is actually declining in 1976. After a high point of $935 million in 1974, the two-way trade dropped to $463 million last year, largely because of reduced American agricultural exports to China. In 1976 total trade could fall a further $20 million to $30 million, the council expects, primarily because the Chinese have stopped imports of American cotton, which amounted to $75 million or $80 million in 1975.

"They told us there were no prospects for a resumption of cotton sales," Mr. Phillips said. "They said that American prices were too high and that in the future they could import only from countries with which they have bilateral trade agreements."

The Chinese believe the United States has resumed a hard-line stand toward their regime, Mr. Phillips noted. Consequently those officials who supported Chairman Mao Tse-tung's opening to the West seem on the defensive against the ideologues who oppose greater commercial contacts with the United States.

Although trade delegations from American mining, construction, agricultural and petroleum production equipment manufacturers will be going to China in the coming months, Mr. Phillips warned that at the moment the political climate for actually closing deals was less than inviting.

As a result, the council estimates that their foreign-trade accounts will be almost in balance this year after deficits of close to $1 billion in 1974 and $300 million last year.

The overall level of trade, which was about $14 billion in 1975, should increase by only 5 percent this year, the council estimates.

Trade between the United States and China is actually declining in 1976. After a high point of $935 million in 1974, the two-way trade dropped to $463 million last year, largely because of reduced American agricultural exports to China. In 1976 total trade could fall a further $20 million to $30 million, the council expects, primarily because the Chinese have stopped imports of American cotton, which amounted to $75 million or $80 million in 1975.

"They told us there were no prospects for a resumption of cotton sales," Mr. Phillips said. "They said that American prices were too high and that in the future they could import only from countries with which they have bilateral trade agreements."

The Chinese believe the United States has resumed a hard-line stand toward their regime, Mr. Phillips noted. Consequently those officials who supported Chairman Mao Tse-tung's opening to the West seem on the defensive against the ideologues who oppose greater commercial contacts with the United States.

Although trade delegations from American mining, construction, agricultural and petroleum production equipment manufacturers will be going to China in the coming months, Mr. Phillips warned that at the moment the political climate for actually closing deals was less than inviting.

Although trade delegations from American mining, construction, agricultural and petroleum production equipment manufacturers will be going to China in the coming months, Mr. Phillips warned that at the moment the political climate for actually closing deals was less than inviting.

Although trade delegations from American mining, construction, agricultural and petroleum production equipment manufacturers will be going to China in the coming months, Mr. Phillips warned that at the moment the political climate for actually closing deals was less than inviting.

Although trade delegations from American mining, construction, agricultural and petroleum production equipment manufacturers will be going to China in the coming months, Mr. Phillips warned that at the moment the political climate for actually closing deals was less than inviting.

Although trade delegations from American mining, construction, agricultural and petroleum production equipment manufacturers will be going to China in the coming months, Mr. Phillips warned that at the moment the political climate for actually closing deals was less than inviting.

Although trade delegations from American mining, construction, agricultural and petroleum production equipment manufacturers will be going to China in the coming months, Mr. Phillips warned that at the moment the political climate for actually closing deals was less than inviting.

Although trade delegations from American mining, construction, agricultural and petroleum production equipment manufacturers will be going to China in the coming months, Mr. Phillips warned that at the moment the political climate for actually closing deals was less than inviting.

Personal Finance

through his boss, they are in fact forbidden to talk to an employer, except under such narrow circumstances as making an effort to determine the consumer's whereabouts.

Many legitimate collection agencies claim they, too, are being victimized by a "minority" of high-pressure types in the industry. "We've got reputations to protect, too, you know," said the head of one old-line agency.

Did he think Al, the New Jersey motorist, had been pushed too hard? "Sometimes you get people who are a little too zealous," the agency head said. "It's all part of the business."

—RICHARD PHALON

GOLD/SILVER COINS BOUGHT & SOLD
Call: 800-243-5670 For Spot Quotes
SAM SLOAT INC.
128 Main St., Westport, Conn.
203-226-4279

Introducing the new parent company for United Gas Pipe Line Company and its subsidiaries.

United Energy Resources, Inc.

As our nation's energy position changes and becomes more complex, the challenges increase for energy companies like United Gas Pipe Line Company. So, we've taken an important step to meet those challenges.

United Energy Resources, Inc., has been created as the new parent company of United Gas Pipe Line Company and its wholly-owned subsidiaries.* This new corporate structure gives us greater organizational and financial flexibility to fulfill a twofold purpose: (1) to obtain additional supplies of natural gas for our customers; and (2) to expand our role in the total energy picture.

United Gas Pipe Line Company will continue to operate as one of the nation's leading gas transmission companies; while United Energy Resources will assume overall corporate management functions. You'll see a new ticker symbol on Wall Street, too, replacing the old UGS symbol: now, we're UER on the New York Stock Exchange and the Pacific Stock Exchange. Our Wall Street Journal listing: UnEnRes.

And now, as the companies of United Energy Resources, we've got a better way to tackle the important job ahead.

UNITED ENERGY RESOURCES, INC.
* United Gas Pipe Line Company • United Texas Transmission Company • United Offshore Company (50% owner of Sea Robin Pipeline Company) • Texas Offshore Pipeline System, Inc. (20% interest in High Island Offshore System) • Unitex Offshore Transmission Company • Wewoka Exploration Company • South Gulf Management, Inc. • Unitex Hydrocarbons, Inc.

700 Milam Street, P.O. Box 1478 Houston, Texas 77001

Appt. Farm - Westchester 2617
WHITE PLAINS LAKE ST.
STEPPING STONES
Appt. Farm - Westchester 1616

BROOKVILLE VIC BRONX RIVER RD
APARTMENTS
SILVERTOWN
1, 2, 3, 4 BEDROOMS

BROOKVILLE & YONKERS VIC
PARKWAY
APARTMENTS
SILVERTOWN

NEW ROCHELLE VIC PALM BLVD
APARTMENTS
SILVERTOWN

YONKERS VIC LUX ELEVATED
APARTMENTS
SILVERTOWN

YONKERS VIC COUNTRY SETTING
APARTMENTS
SILVERTOWN

YONKERS VIC BRUCE AVE
APARTMENTS
SILVERTOWN

Appt. Farm - N.Y. State 1662
WARRICK-ON-ROCK
APARTMENTS

Appt. Farm - New Jersey 1863
LUX EFFICIENCY 1 & 2 BR
APARTMENTS

Appt. Farm - New Jersey 1664
19' COLOR TV & UTILS FREE
APARTMENTS

BERGEN COUNTY LITTLE PERRY LIBERTY BELL VILLAGE
APARTMENTS

Appt. Farm - N.Y. State 1662
WARRICK-ON-ROCK
APARTMENTS

Appt. Farm - N.Y. State 1662
WARRICK-ON-ROCK
APARTMENTS

Appt. Farm - N.Y. State 1662
WARRICK-ON-ROCK
APARTMENTS

Appt. Farm - N.Y. State 1662
WARRICK-ON-ROCK
APARTMENTS

Appt. Farm - N.Y. State 1662
WARRICK-ON-ROCK
APARTMENTS

Appt. Farm - N.Y. State 1662
WARRICK-ON-ROCK
APARTMENTS

Appt. Farm - N.Y. State 1662
WARRICK-ON-ROCK
APARTMENTS

EMPLOYMENT AGENCIES
Brody Agency
274 MADISON AVE
899-5400

HANCON
264 MADISON AVE
899-5400

SECT. GAL/MAN PRS. CLERKS
25 W 14 ST

GENEVA $125K TO $200K
25 W 14 ST

25 W 14 ST
Employ Center Bldg

ACCOUNTANCY F/P/D $10-$15,000
CONTROLLERS STAFF

MAJOR RETAIL CORP
ACCOUNTANT

ACCOUNTANT Sr & Semi Sr
ACCOUNTANT, JR.

ACCOUNTANT
ACCOUNTANT

ACCOUNTANT
ACCOUNTANT

ACCOUNTING CLERK
ACCTS PAYABLE CLERK

ACCOUNTING CLERK
ACCTS PAYABLE CLERK

ACCOUNTING CLERK
ACCTS PAYABLE CLERK

ACCOUNTING CLERK
ACCTS PAYABLE CLERK

ACCOUNTING CLERK
ACCTS PAYABLE CLERK

ACCOUNTING CLERK
ACCTS PAYABLE CLERK

ACCOUNTING CLERK
ACCTS PAYABLE CLERK

ACCOUNTING CLERK
ACCTS PAYABLE CLERK

ASST BOOKKEEPER
CARLTON
BOOKKEEPER F/C
NEW JERSEY

BKPR'S ASSISTANT
MR. LANDESMAN 563-3000

BOOKKEEPER
BOOKKEEPER

BOOKKEEPER
BOOKKEEPER

BOOKKEEPER
BOOKKEEPER

BOOKKEEPER
BOOKKEEPER

BOOKKEEPER
BOOKKEEPER

BOOKKEEPER
BOOKKEEPER

BOOKKEEPER
BOOKKEEPER

BOOKKEEPER
BOOKKEEPER

BOOKKEEPER
BOOKKEEPER

BOOKKEEPER
BOOKKEEPER

BOOKKEEPER
BOOKKEEPER

BOOKKEEPER
BOOKKEEPER

BOOKKEEPER
BOOKKEEPER

BOOKKEEPER
BOOKKEEPER

BOOKKEEPER
BOOKKEEPER

BOOKKEEPER
BOOKKEEPER

MONEY TRANSFER INVESTIGATIONS CLERKS

CONSTRUCTION SUPT
EXECUTIVE OPERATIONS

CONTROLLER
Northern New Jersey

CONSTRUCTION
ESTIMATOR & COORDINATOR

CONSTRUCTION
ESTIMATOR & COORDINATOR

CONSTRUCTION
ESTIMATOR & COORDINATOR

CONSTRUCTION
ESTIMATOR & COORDINATOR

CONSTRUCTION
ESTIMATOR & COORDINATOR

CONSTRUCTION
ESTIMATOR & COORDINATOR

CONSTRUCTION
ESTIMATOR & COORDINATOR

CONSTRUCTION
ESTIMATOR & COORDINATOR

CONSTRUCTION
ESTIMATOR & COORDINATOR

CONSTRUCTION
ESTIMATOR & COORDINATOR

CONSTRUCTION
ESTIMATOR & COORDINATOR

CONSTRUCTION
ESTIMATOR & COORDINATOR

CONSTRUCTION
ESTIMATOR & COORDINATOR

CONSTRUCTION
ESTIMATOR & COORDINATOR

CONSTRUCTION
ESTIMATOR & COORDINATOR

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Inventory Control Clerk
Inventory Control Clerk

Help Wanted 2690

Interviewers
FULL TIME POSITIONS
Meet New People
Eom As You Learn
Guaranteed Earnings
Work Near Home
Cor Helpful
J. Bonchi 212-251-7700

Help Wanted 2680

PROGRAMMER
COMPUTER
Public Relations
TELEPHONE SURVEY
Recruiting Manager
Superintendent

Help Wanted 2690

SECRETARIES
(Upholder without Steno)
Urgently Needed
You'll get
OLSTEN
TEMPORARY SERVICES

Help Wanted 2690

MANAGER
MBI, Investigative
and Security Service
SERVICE WRITER
AMERICAN CO.

Help Wanted 2690

SUPERVISOR DAYS
BENJAMIN & SERVICEMEN
PLANET ELECTRONICS
OFFICE
TEMPORARIES
WELCOMES
NEW REGISTRARS

Help Wanted 2690

SECRETARIES
$30 Bonus
the Laury
Girls, Inc.
TECHNICAL SERVICE
TEACHER-FRENCH

Help Wanted 2690

Slurp As Long As You Like!
aubrey thomas
TYPIST/CLERK
FOREST HILLS
TYPIST CLERK
$300 START

2690

INTERVIEWERS
FULL TIME POSITIONS
Meet New People
Eom As You Learn
Guaranteed Earnings
Work Near Home
Cor Helpful
J. Bonchi 212-251-7700

2680

PROGRAMMER
COMPUTER
Public Relations
TELEPHONE SURVEY
Recruiting Manager
Superintendent

2690

SECRETARIES
(Upholder without Steno)
Urgently Needed
You'll get
OLSTEN
TEMPORARY SERVICES

2690

MANAGER
MBI, Investigative
and Security Service
SERVICE WRITER
AMERICAN CO.

2690

SUPERVISOR DAYS
BENJAMIN & SERVICEMEN
PLANET ELECTRONICS
OFFICE
TEMPORARIES
WELCOMES
NEW REGISTRARS

2690

SECRETARIES
$30 Bonus
the Laury
Girls, Inc.
TECHNICAL SERVICE
TEACHER-FRENCH

2690

Slurp As Long As You Like!
aubrey thomas
TYPIST/CLERK
FOREST HILLS
TYPIST CLERK
$300 START

2690

INTERVIEWERS
FULL TIME POSITIONS
Meet New People
Eom As You Learn
Guaranteed Earnings
Work Near Home
Cor Helpful
J. Bonchi 212-251-7700

2680

PROGRAMMER
COMPUTER
Public Relations
TELEPHONE SURVEY
Recruiting Manager
Superintendent

2690

SECRETARIES
(Upholder without Steno)
Urgently Needed
You'll get
OLSTEN
TEMPORARY SERVICES

2690

MANAGER
MBI, Investigative
and Security Service
SERVICE WRITER
AMERICAN CO.

2690

SUPERVISOR DAYS
BENJAMIN & SERVICEMEN
PLANET ELECTRONICS
OFFICE
TEMPORARIES
WELCOMES
NEW REGISTRARS

2690

SECRETARIES
$30 Bonus
the Laury
Girls, Inc.
TECHNICAL SERVICE
TEACHER-FRENCH

2690

Slurp As Long As You Like!
aubrey thomas
TYPIST/CLERK
FOREST HILLS
TYPIST CLERK
$300 START

2690

INTERVIEWERS
FULL TIME POSITIONS
Meet New People
Eom As You Learn
Guaranteed Earnings
Work Near Home
Cor Helpful
J. Bonchi 212-251-7700

2680

PROGRAMMER
COMPUTER
Public Relations
TELEPHONE SURVEY
Recruiting Manager
Superintendent

2690

SECRETARIES
(Upholder without Steno)
Urgently Needed
You'll get
OLSTEN
TEMPORARY SERVICES

2690

MANAGER
MBI, Investigative
and Security Service
SERVICE WRITER
AMERICAN CO.

2690

SUPERVISOR DAYS
BENJAMIN & SERVICEMEN
PLANET ELECTRONICS
OFFICE
TEMPORARIES
WELCOMES
NEW REGISTRARS

2690

SECRETARIES
$30 Bonus
the Laury
Girls, Inc.
TECHNICAL SERVICE
TEACHER-FRENCH

2690

Slurp As Long As You Like!
aubrey thomas
TYPIST/CLERK
FOREST HILLS
TYPIST CLERK
$300 START

2690

INTERVIEWERS
FULL TIME POSITIONS
Meet New People
Eom As You Learn
Guaranteed Earnings
Work Near Home
Cor Helpful
J. Bonchi 212-251-7700

2680

PROGRAMMER
COMPUTER
Public Relations
TELEPHONE SURVEY
Recruiting Manager
Superintendent

2690

SECRETARIES
(Upholder without Steno)
Urgently Needed
You'll get
OLSTEN
TEMPORARY SERVICES

2690

MANAGER
MBI, Investigative
and Security Service
SERVICE WRITER
AMERICAN CO.

2690

SUPERVISOR DAYS
BENJAMIN & SERVICEMEN
PLANET ELECTRONICS
OFFICE
TEMPORARIES
WELCOMES
NEW REGISTRARS

2690

SECRETARIES
$30 Bonus
the Laury
Girls, Inc.
TECHNICAL SERVICE
TEACHER-FRENCH

2690

Slurp As Long As You Like!
aubrey thomas
TYPIST/CLERK
FOREST HILLS
TYPIST CLERK
$300 START

2690

INTERVIEWERS
FULL TIME POSITIONS
Meet New People
Eom As You Learn
Guaranteed Earnings
Work Near Home
Cor Helpful
J. Bonchi 212-251-7700

2680

PROGRAMMER
COMPUTER
Public Relations
TELEPHONE SURVEY
Recruiting Manager
Superintendent

2690

SECRETARIES
(Upholder without Steno)
Urgently Needed
You'll get
OLSTEN
TEMPORARY SERVICES

2690

MANAGER
MBI, Investigative
and Security Service
SERVICE WRITER
AMERICAN CO.

2690

SUPERVISOR DAYS
BENJAMIN & SERVICEMEN
PLANET ELECTRONICS
OFFICE
TEMPORARIES
WELCOMES
NEW REGISTRARS

2690

SECRETARIES
$30 Bonus
the Laury
Girls, Inc.
TECHNICAL SERVICE
TEACHER-FRENCH

2690

Slurp As Long As You Like!
aubrey thomas
TYPIST/CLERK
FOREST HILLS
TYPIST CLERK
$300 START

2690

INTERVIEWERS
FULL TIME POSITIONS
Meet New People
Eom As You Learn
Guaranteed Earnings
Work Near Home
Cor Helpful
J. Bonchi 212-251-7700

2680

PROGRAMMER
COMPUTER
Public Relations
TELEPHONE SURVEY
Recruiting Manager
Superintendent

2690

SECRETARIES
(Upholder without Steno)
Urgently Needed
You'll get
OLSTEN
TEMPORARY SERVICES

2690

MANAGER
MBI, Investigative
and Security Service
SERVICE WRITER
AMERICAN CO.

2690

SUPERVISOR DAYS
BENJAMIN & SERVICEMEN
PLANET ELECTRONICS
OFFICE
TEMPORARIES
WELCOMES
NEW REGISTRARS

2690

SECRETARIES
$30 Bonus
the Laury
Girls, Inc.
TECHNICAL SERVICE
TEACHER-FRENCH

2690

Slurp As Long As You Like!
aubrey thomas
TYPIST/CLERK
FOREST HILLS
TYPIST CLERK
$300 START

Representatives Bella S. Abzug and Herman Badillo at the Puerto Rican festival in Central Park. Mrs. Abzug is seeking the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate seat held by James L. Buckley. Mr. Badillo seeks re-election.

State A.F.L.-C.I.O. to Map a Bigger Political Role

By DAMON STETSON
Delegates representing the 2,000,000 A.F.A.-C.I.O. members in the state will meet at Klamath Lake tomorrow to develop plans for stepped-up political activity in the fall campaign.
The principal political focus of the four-day convention of the New York State A.F.L.-C.I.O. will be on the New York senatorial race, with all five Democratic candidates and Peter A. Peyer, the Republican opponent of Senator James L. Buckley in the G.O.P. primary, scheduled to address delegates on Wednesday and Thursday. Senator Buckley, whom labor seeks to defeat, has not been invited.
Jimmy Carter, the Democratic nominee for President whom many labor factions are backing, will speak to the delegates on Wednesday through a special telephone hookup, a spokesman for the labor federation said.

Some Endorsements Due
The division among the various unions in their support of senatorial candidates is expected to delay any formal endorsement in that contest until after the Sept. 14 primary. But in state and Congressional races in which there is no primary contest, formal endorsements based on the candidates' labor records will be made, a federation spokesman said.
"I don't think any of the senatorial candidates could get the two-thirds vote required for an endorsement at this time," the federation official said.
Four Democratic candidates for the Senate—Representative Bella S. Abzug, Ramsey Clark, the former United States Attorney General, Paul O'Dwyer, the New York City Council President, and Abraham Hirschfeld, a businessman—will speak to the convention on Wednesday. Mr. Peyer and Daniel Patrick Moynihan, a Democrat and former United States representative at the United Nations, will address the delegates on Thursday.
The reaction of delegates to the six candidates will be watched closely for indications of their size and substance of their support. Mr. Moynihan, Mrs. Abzug and Mr. O'Dwyer all have received pledges of support from stable groups of unions and labor leaders, many in the building trades are sympathetic to Mr. Peyer's cause.
The first steps toward increased political activity by the state federation came a year ago when convention delegates approved an increase from 5 cents to 8 cents in the monthly per capita tax for each worker, effective last Jan. 1, and 2 cents additional, effective next Jan. 1.
Although the federation fails to get full per capita payments for all members from every union, the increase and other contributions have provided $250,000 so far for COPE (Committee on Political Education) activities in the state this year.
Sy Cohen, the state COPE director, said that political plans were ahead of schedule. COPE is making a major drive to get all union members and their families registered to vote, he said.
The key to this effort, he said, has been the matching of computer tapes from election boards, showing those registered with the list of two million New York State A.F.L.-C.I.O. members at the computer bank in Washington.
The matching process picks up pertinent political information from the election board tapes and transfers it to the appropriate place under the union member's name—listing election district, Assembly District, State Senate District, Congressional District, whether or not the member is registered to vote and his or her party affiliation.
The next step, federation officials explain, is to obtain a printout of separate lists of union members, by local union, containing all this data. It is then checked by the local unions to correct discrepancies and to add home telephone numbers for eventual use by those making telephone banks prior to and on election day.
One of the major activities in the next few weeks, federation officials say, will be the drive to register members currently registered, and make the change on the computer tapes.
"Finally, the most important thing," said Mr. Cohen, "is to get out the vote on Election Day."
At this week's convention delegates will also elect officers for the coming year. Raymond Cornet, the long-time dean, is expected to be re-elected without opposition. Howard Moynihan of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, who has been serving as secretary-treasurer because of the illness of Louis Hollander, is the chief candidate for election by the delegates that post.
Anthony Scott of the International Longshoremen's Association, Daniel Gallagher of the Operating Engineers and William S. Mazur of the Sheet Metal Workers appear likely to be elected vice presidents.

Moynihan Accuses Rep. Abzug of 'Rule-or-Ruin' Stand

Daniel P. Moynihan accused Representative Bella S. Abzug yesterday of a "rule-or-ruin" attitude after she said she would not support him if he won the Democratic nomination for United States Senator from New York.
But he said in a statement that he had told the Democratic designating convention that he would support in the general election any of his four opponents in the primary and that he still felt that way.
Mrs. Abzug, wearing a spiky-brimmed straw sombrero as the day's version of the big hat that is her trademark, stood near the speakers' stand at the Puerto Rican folklore festival in Central Park and reiterated the statement of non-support for Mr. Moynihan that she made the day before at the Dutchess County Fair in Rhinebeck, N.Y.
"He's the Republicans' Democrat, not a Democrat Democrat," she said, alluding to Mr. Moynihan's service in the Republican Administrations of President Richard M. Nixon and President Ford.
Mr. Moynihan declined to join the squabble directly, but he did not miss the chance to criticize Mrs. Abzug. He described her attitude as a "corruption of liberalism" and added, "This is why Mrs. Abzug would surely lose to Senator Buckley in November." He said she shared an attitude of "those elements in our party that prefer to ruin if they cannot rule."
The exchange enlivened a campaign day that included the following:
City Council President Paul O'Dwyer criticized Mr. Moynihan and Mrs. Abzug for what he called their "divisive and dangerous" attacks on each other, which he said could cause "irreparable harm" to Democratic chances in both the Presidential and Senatorial campaigns.
Mr. O'Dwyer also issued a statement urging "a comprehensive national health insurance plan and a Federal solution to the burgeoning cost of health care."
Former Attorney General Ramsey Clark said on the WCBS-TV "Newsmakers" program that Israel should be given "everything it needs to defend itself." But he criticized what he described as "belligerent" speeches on the Midwest situation by his opponents.
Abraham Hirschfeld, a businessman, called in a statement for tax relief for the unmarried and divorced.
Senator James L. Buckley, the Conservative-Republican incumbent, announced the formation of a Clergyman-for-Buckley committee.
The squabble between Mrs. Abzug and Mr. Moynihan arose not out of any scheduled strategy but in response to a question late Saturday at the Dutchess County Fair.
Could she, someone asked, support Mr. Moynihan if he won?
"No, I will not," she replied. Yesterday she said the only reason she had not gone that far before was that no one had asked her recently.
A questioner wondered if her statement might reflect the belief that Mr. Moynihan was ahead.
"No, I'm ahead," she said, "but I like always for the people to know and remember who he is and where he came from."
Mr. Moynihan, who has been taking some pains to draw a distinction between himself and what he depicts as ultraliberals in the party, issued a statement urging "stiffer prison terms for habitual criminals and adequate prisons to hold them."
Mr. Clark, on the television program and in a position paper, said that industrial pollution caused cancer and reiterated his stand for stronger controls over companies, including Federal chartering of big national and multinational corporations.
Arms Denied
He also repeated his call for a Midwest development authority, "merely to talk in belittling terms of more arms, more arms, will cause more war," he said.
He declined to join Mrs. Abzug's rejection of support for Mr. Moynihan. In a race between Mr. Buckley and Mr. Moynihan, he said, he would support Mr. Moynihan.
Mr. O'Dwyer, in criticizing Mr. Moynihan's and Mrs. Abzug's attacks on each other, said through a spokesman that he would support whomever the party nominated for Senator in the primary Sept. 14.
"I wish they would cut it out and get down to a discussion of the issues," he said. "I really don't think the voters care what in Brooklyn in the late Representative John J. Rooney. The Democratic candidate is again running against Mr. Wydler, a Republican.
For almost nine hours yesterday, Governor Brown attended picnics, lunches, dinners and rallies in seven towns and villages in the Fifth Congressional District, praise Mr. Lowenstein, who has served as Since then, he has had three successive campaigns for the

Lowenstein's Bid for House Aided by Governor Brown
Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California spent the day campaigning in Nassau County yesterday for Allard K. Lowenstein, who is running for the House of Representatives.
Mr. Lowenstein, an organizer in the antiwar campaign that was to topple President Lyndon B. Johnson in early 1968, was elected to the House that year. Since then, he has had three successive campaigns for the House—two in Nassau, against Representatives Norman Lent and John W. Wydler, and one in Brooklyn against the late Representative John J. Rooney.
The Democratic candidate is again running against Mr. Wydler, a Republican.
For almost nine hours yesterday, Governor Brown attended picnics, lunches, dinners and rallies in seven towns and villages in the Fifth Congressional District, praise Mr. Lowenstein, who has served as Since then, he has had three successive campaigns for the Tom Brokaw isn't your every-day newsman.

That's why he's "Today's" new every-morning host.

The face is familiar. Tom Brokaw's been where the news-action's been hot—very hot—these past few years. He was NBC News White House correspondent during the year-long fall of Richard Nixon and the hectic Ford years that followed. And you've seen his floor-reporting at this summer's big conventions. So when NBC picked him as "Today's" new host, it was a natural choice.

Tom's young (36) but he's no newcomer. His career started at 15, as an announcer in his home town of Yankton, South Dakota. Then, after college, he worked for NBC stations in Omaha, Atlanta and Los Angeles.

Brokaw's colleagues saw him from the beginning as a guy whose success was inevitable. From the start he was bright, perceptive and tireless. More than that, he was a man whose interests ranged from Mars to Mozart, from the World Bank to the World Series.

Tom sees himself as a newsman first. "I'm a reporter," he says. "So I'm interested in news. But to me that word includes everything that affects living—environment, nutrition, what people do with their leisure time—the whole thing." Which makes him just the man for "Today" and its broad-spectrum coverage of "the whole thing."

Brokaw's own leisure-time activities are physical as well as intellectual, with an emphasis on tennis, back-packing and skiing.

Of course, Tom won't be doing it all alone on "Today." He'll have the able assistance of traveling co-host Jim Hartz; commentator-critic Gene Shalit; newscaster Floyd Kalber; and many other talented people.

"Today" has been a "team" program through most of the 23 years since it was launched. That characteristic has made "Today" the most popular and most highly respected early-morning program of them all.

And the man who now becomes its new host is one of the most popular and highly respected reporters of them all.

PUBLIC NOTICE

POWER AUTHORITY OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN pursuant to Section 1009 of the Public Authorities Law, that Power Authority of the State of New York will hold a public hearing at 10:30 a.m., Daylight-Saving Time, Tuesday, September 21, 1976 in the offices of the Authority, Seventeenth Floor, Coliseum Office Building, 10 Columbus Circle, New York, New York, upon the terms of proposed contracts for the sale, transmission and distribution of power with the following customers:

Village of Ardsley	Town of Mount Pleasant
Bedford Central School District	Town of New Castle
Chappaqua Central School District	New Rochelle Municipal Housing Authority
Town of Cortlandt	Town of Oyster Bay
Croton Harmon Union Free School District	Outing Union Free School District
Town of Greenburgh	Village of Pelham
Greenburgh Housing Authority	Port Chester Housing Authority
Town of Harrison	City of Rye
Irvington Union Free School District	Union Free Schools of the Tarrytowns
Lakeland Central School District	Fordham Housing Authority
Village of Larchmont	Urban Development Corporation
Town of Mamaroneck	Westchester Joint Water Works
Manhasset Union Free School District	City of White Plains
Village of Mamaroneck	The Municipal Housing Authority for the City of Yonkers
Village of Mount Kisco	Town of Yonkers

The proposed contracts are available for inspection at the offices of the Authority at Suite 1800, Coliseum Office Building, 10 Columbus Circle, New York, New York; Niagara Power Project, Administration Office, 6777 Lewis Road, Lewiston, New York; Robert Moses Power Dam, Massena, New York; James A. FitzPatrick Nuclear Power Plant Administration Office, 1700 West 120th Street, Buffalo, New York; Blenheim-Gilboa Pumped Storage Power Project Administration Office, 1700 West 120th Street, Buffalo, New York; Transmission Line Construction Office, Oneida County Airport, Jet Training Center, Oneida, New York; the Office of the Resident Construction Manager of the Albany No. 4 Power Plant, 20th Avenue and 84th Street, Long Island City, New York; the Office of the Resident Construction Manager of the Indian Point No. 2 Nuclear Plant, Village of Buchanan, New York; the Office of the County Clerk of Westchester County, 110 Grove Street, White Plains, New York; and at the office of the Village Clerk of the Village of Larchmont, 120 Larchmont Avenue, Larchmont, New York. Copies may be obtained in the office of the Authority at Suite 1800, Coliseum Office Building, 10 Columbus Circle, New York, New York 10019.

To insure an orderly and expeditious hearing any person who wishes to make a statement at the hearing with regard to any of the contracts is requested to make known to the Authority in advance of the hearing his name, the name of the organization or group which he represents and the estimate length of his statement. Long statements must be summarized and brought within reasonable compass for oral presentation at the hearing.

Written statements or memoranda should, if possible, be filed in the office of the Authority at the Coliseum Office Building, 10 Columbus Circle, New York, New York 10019, prior to the hearing. It is requested that six copies be submitted.

James A. FitzPatrick, Chairman

How to get home delivery of The New York Times

Just fill in and mail the coupon today. Or call toll-free 800-325-6400. And if you're not already a subscriber, the cost is just $2.50 a week!

The New York Times
Home Delivery Department
Times Square, N.Y. N.Y. 10036

Please arrange to have The New York Times delivered to my home as checked:

<input type="checkbox"/> Every morning	<input type="checkbox"/> Weekdays	<input type="checkbox"/> Sundays
--	-----------------------------------	----------------------------------

I'm a new subscriber, and qualify for your introductory price.

Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____
Phone _____

NY Times 1/50

Deride 'Superman' Image of TV Lawmen

REASTER light and the of another 'ventures' of who is un- television are rifling a ers and one wallops him in a heavy guard his

a little concentration, anyone can crack a tough case. The concern with image is official as well as private. The Police Department has set up a movie and television unit to provide free technical advice to film and television producers.

Kojak, sassy, combative, and every bit as cynical as one of New York's finest, is a figure that the real police almost admire. "He comes over as a good strong leader type of man who knows how to give orders," said Sgt. Donald J. Diskan, one of the supervisors of the Fifth Homicide Zone.

'Kojak' Chiefs Avert Split on Top Union Post

pected to be headed by Lloyd McBride, the St. Louis district director. In announcing his withdrawal, Mr. Johns, who is 61 years old, said that he would not seek any union office and that he was throwing his support behind Mr. McBride.

might allow Mr. Sadowski to capture the presidency. "I have every confidence that the overwhelming majority of the members in our great union will be behind a strong and experienced leadership team that will continue in the tradition of the present and past leaders of our organization," Mr. Johns said in a statement handed out to reporters.

tional officers were necessary, and he insisted that the action "has nothing at all to do with any states or any union move." The members of the executive committee are having Mr. Johns withdraw conveniently accounts for the five remaining offices for the three-man slate.

Co-Star in Television Series Found Dead in California

CEANSIDE, Calif., Aug. 29 (UPI)—Mary Annissa Jones, 18 years old, who played Buffy on the television series "Family Affair," was found dead in the home of a friend yesterday, the San Diego County Coroner's office said.

Mr. Williams and Mr. McKee had been on the McBride ticket. Mr. Abel said that if the convention agreed to create the two new international offices he would seek to have the vice presidency filled by a black man. Mr. Lynch is black.

cause of death was not immediately determined. Miss Jones, a resident of Playa Del Rey, had been staying at the home of Helen Hennessey in Oceanside, the coroner's office said. Her body, lying on the floor beside a bed, was found by friends. The coroner's office said Miss Jones had been at the Hennessey home for about a week and left last Thursday but returned later with three friends.

PLAYBOYS OF THE YEAR TONIGHT!

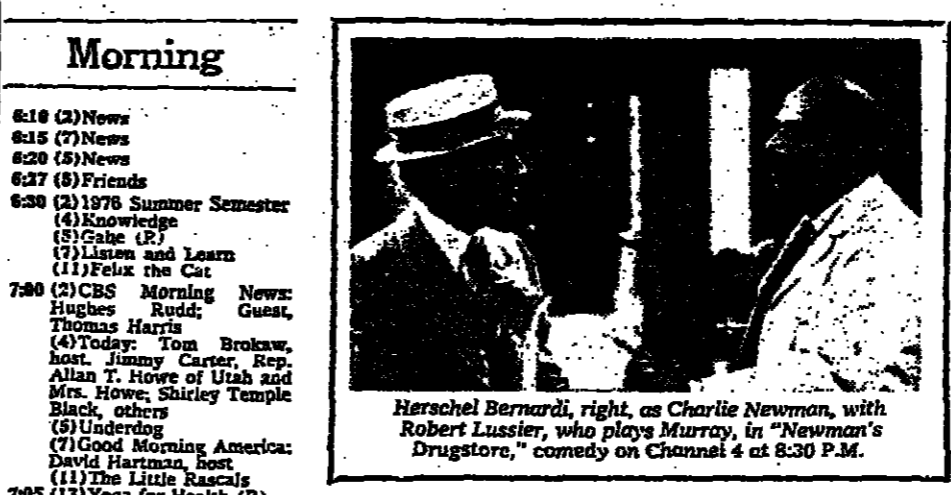

11:30 p.m. Channel 7, WABC-TV Bunny of the Year Day and Friday Photographic pictures by Club keyholders New York Playboy Club Lunch hours both days.

ork Playboy Club 1st 59th Street

FAWCETT CREST $1.95 wherever paperbacks are sold

TRAVEL AGENTS 14 WEEKS COURSE SATURDAYS 10 A.M. to 1 P.M. NEXT CLASS STARTS SEPT. 10

Television

Herschel Bernardi, right, as Charlie Newman, with Robert Lussier, who plays Murray, in "Newman's Drugstore," comedy on Channel 4 at 8:30 P.M.

Table with 2 columns: Time and Program Name. Includes Morning (8:10-10:00) and Evening (8:00-11:30) slots.

Radio

Table with 2 columns: Time and Program Name. Includes Afternoon (12:00-5:00) and Evening (5:00-11:30) slots.

Table with 2 columns: Time and Program Name. Includes Evening (8:00-11:30) and News Broadcasts (11:30-12:00) slots.

Talks, Sports, Events

Table with 2 columns: Time and Program Name. Includes various talk shows, sports events, and community activities.

Table with 2 columns: Time and Program Name. Includes various news and information programs.

Attica Prison Returns to Normal Routine With Some Uneasiness

By FRANAY GUPTA
ATTICA, N.Y., Aug. 29 — Inmates at Attica prison appeared today to have returned to normal religious, recreational and work schedules for the first time since their six-day strike began last week. But there were reports that it was an "uneasy peace."

"Things look normal again," one prisoner said in an interview this afternoon in the guardhouse where he was doing janitorial duty. "The feeling is generally one of relief now that the strike has ended — and also that there was no violence during the strike."

His assessment was confirmed by dozens of visitors and by guards who agreed to be interviewed by a reporter but who would not allow him to move beyond the guardhouse at the entrance to the prison, officially called the Attica State Correctional Facility.

However, several visitors and guards also reported an undercurrent of tension among the inmates — more than is usually found in the maximum-security prison.

"It's definitely an uneasy peace inside," said Carol Halvorsen of Buffalo, who visited her husband. "My husband said he was glad the strike was over, but he also said that there was still division among the men over the agreement that had been reached with the prison officials."

Some Rules Relaxed
That agreement concerned changes the inmates had wanted in prison conditions and regulations. For example, the prisoners had sought and received a relaxation in visiting-room rules under which, among other things, they are now permitted to wear colored shirts and to kiss and embrace visitors—all of which many inmates did today. They will also get more showers as well as more public telephones.

But the dissatisfaction that was reported today by such visitors as Mrs. Halvorsen was not over these matters. While the inmates generally welcomed the concessions—and others, such as a sharp cut in strip searches—there reportedly was grumbling that the minority representation of the prisoners had sought among staff and guards was inadequate.

The inmate liaison committee, which had participated in the negotiations with officials of the prison and State Department of Correction, had also asked for a liberalization of the laws governing parole terms. But such steps would have to be acted on by Governor Carey and the State Legislature, and some inmates today were reported to be disappointed that no assurances had been provided by political leaders.

Disappointment was reported, too, because prisoners contended, Correction Department officials had not offered sufficient guarantees against overcrowding at Attica and racism and harassment on the part of guards, most of whom are white.

These points were highlighted during last week's negotiations by representatives of Attica's 1,980 inmates, who told prison officials that their failure to act could result in a rebellion similar to the one in September 1971, in which 43 persons were killed.

from the darkness of the prison into the sunshine on the immaculate front lawns, they spoke of how inmates had reacted to the end of the strike.

Phil Coyle of Buffalo, who was visiting his brother, quoted him as saying: "We have gone back to our schedules because we don't want a confrontation now. But the situation is very explosive, and even a single nasty exchange between inmates and guards could set off an explosion."

Earlier today some prisoners attended religious services. The Rev. Thomas Teton, the Roman Catholic chaplain, reported the mood of his worshippers as "normal." Several inmates exercised in the yards and the turnout for the home and mashed potatoes lunch was reported as normal, too.

And late today nearly 1,000 prisoners showed up for the weekly movie. Tonight's feature was "The Getaway," starring Steve McQueen.

ROCKEFELLER SCORES PLATFORM OF G.O.P.

WOODSTOCK, Vt., Aug. 29 (AP)—The national Republican platform "does not reflect the views of President Ford," Vice President Rockefeller said today.

On his way to a fund-raising event here this weekend for Senator Robert T. Stafford, Rockefeller said Republican moderates probably would not run on the conservative platform adopted earlier this month in Kansas City, Mo., at the party's national convention. "It's just not a Republican moderate platform," he said at the nearby West Lebanon, N.H., airport, where his plane landed yesterday. "I regret to say that I don't think the platform is the document that reflects the President's basic philosophy or belief in its total. And it doesn't reflect mine." He did not elaborate.

The Vice President, fresh from a meeting the previous day with President Ford, in Vail, Colo., was the star attraction at a $50-a-person cocktail reception at the estate of his brother, Laurence. The event drew 250 people, $7,000 for Mr. Staff's ending his first term in re-election.

White House

WASHINGTON — A woman who wanted to see President Ford was jailed today at the White House. A police spokesman said Helen Tuchalski, 40, of Norwood, Mass., was arrested after she refused to leave the White House grounds after a reception at the estate of his brother, Laurence. The incident occurred at midnight.

"National's new Easy Come-Easy Go Fares to Florida!"

"National Airlines, take me, I'm yours." That's what people are saying when they hear about our new Easy Come-Easy Go Fares. The new discount fares that let you fly to Florida for 20% less during the day, without asking you to buy your ticket weeks in advance or stay for a minimum of seven days. Things like our Easy Come-Easy Go Fares are one reason three out of four of our passengers have flown us before.

"When do I buy my ticket?"
Simply buy your ticket seven days before you leave. That's really just a few days in advance. But the number of Easy Come-Easy Go seats is limited, so act fast.

"How long do I have to stay?"
You can fly home anytime the first

Monday that follows your departure date. That means, for instance you could fly to Florida on a Friday, enjoy the weekend, and return anytime Monday. Or return at your convenience within 30 days.

"How much do the Easy Come-Easy Go Fares cost?"
Nobody saves you more money than National when it comes to fares. Just check the table below.

You can fly our Easy Come-Easy Go Fares starting September 7 through December 18, 1976. (Fare is not available on certain days during the Thanksgiving Holiday.)

For more information about our Easy Come-Easy Go Fares, or for reservations, call your travel agent at The Vacation Store. Or call National Airlines. In New York call (212) 697-9000. In Newark call (201) 624-1300. And say, "National Airlines, take me, I'm yours."

Roundtrip from New York to:	Regular Daycoach Fares	Easy Come-Easy Go Daycoach Fares
Miami	$210	$168
Ft. Lauderdale	210	168
Jacksonville	174	139
Orlando	194	155
Tampa/St. Pete	194	155
West Palm Beach	202	162
Sarasota/Bradenton	204	163
Fort Myers	208	166
Daytona Beach	182	146

Roundtrip from New York to:	Regular Nightcoach Fares	Easy Come-Easy Go Nightcoach Fares
Miami	$168	$157
Ft. Lauderdale	168	157

"Starting September 7 I can fly for 20% less without booking so far ahead or staying so many days!"

National Airlines

"Take me, I'm yours!"

ADM SUPER SALE
★
IBM Typewriters & Dictating Machines

Since 1923, price-conscious business machine buyers who demand performance without problems, depend on ADM for service, quality, total reliability. Always with maximum true discounts.

Top typewriter buys
Model B.....$139.
Model C.....from 289.
Model D.....$10.
Selectric.....from 345.

★
Great dictation buys
Model 211.....150.
Model 212.....150.
Model 213.....199.
Model 214.....79.
Model 215.....125.
Model 217.....229.
Model 219.....139.
Model 275.....159.

BEST DISCOUNTS
New Sonyo, Norelco, Stenographic

Low prices with service on A-J Dictaphone, Stenovite, Norelco, Stenocord, Gray, Edson, Devo.

Try Memocord
The complete system, 10 oz., portable to remote telephone dictation.

★
All with new machine guarantee

New York's largest selection at New York's largest office equipment store.

Open Saturdays

ADM
ADM Business Machines
20 W. 23 St. NY 6-1150
Quality since 1923

News Print
No. 43,319
GREENSPAN FI ECONOMIC P.
Ethics P.
By RICHARD D. I
WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP)—The House ethics committee today announced public hearings on the ethics of the new Congress. The committee, headed by Rep. Carl Albert, said it would begin its work on Sept. 15. The committee's report is expected to be released in the next few weeks. The committee's work will be to study the ethics of the new Congress and to recommend ways to improve it. The committee's work will be to study the ethics of the new Congress and to recommend ways to improve it.

Handwritten Arabic text at the bottom of the page.